Story Song;

They called the dark the final throne
They raised their prayers to stone
But under ash and empty skies
A quiet truth survives

No starless mouth can claim the dawn
No silence owns the song
The roots hold fast beneath the plain
And rise through dust and rain

The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
Where every broken seed still lives
The plain is His

The hollow speaks in silver tongues
It swears the world is done
But fields remember every foot
And rivers still run

Let the black bells lose their sound
Let the false crown touch the ground
From the deep where shadows cease

We will wake the fields in peace

The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
The plain is His

The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
The Void Psalm is not Lord
The plain is His
Through every night and all it gives
The plain is His

Song of Parables- The Psalm That Could Not Empty the Plain

They sang the desert vacant
They raised their voices high
Dust moved beneath the silence
But nothing left the sky

The Son of Man spoke softly
His word crossed stone and sand
The plain received the thunder
And still the plain stayed

No hymn could break the horizon
No prayer could make it flee
The silence held its kingdom
Like a sea without a sea

The Son of Man spoke
The plain stayed
The Son of Man spoke
The plain stayed

They called the barren holy
They named the emptiness

They filled the air with longing
And waited for a sign

The wind carried their singing
Through every hollow place
But when the last note faded
The dust kept its old shape

Maybe the word was not a hammer
Maybe the word was flame
Maybe the plain was waiting
For hearts to change their name

The Son of Man spoke
The plain stayed
The Son of Man spoke
The plain stayed

Psalm
The Plain Is His

Psalm in the dark, the plain is His Dust on the road, a mouthful of mist
They bill the silence, they count every flame
You made the orbit, keep my name

When all the signs go dim
When every voice turns thin
I hear the sky proclaim
You made the orbit, keep my name

The plain is His, the plain is His
Under the stars, beneath all this
They bill the silence, but I remain
You made the orbit, keep my name

Night folds its hands on the edge of the field
Nothing is lost that the heavens conceal
I carry the question, I carry the blame
You made the orbit, keep my name

If I am a spark, let me burn without fear
If I am forgotten, let my echo stay near Through every distance, through sorrow and flame
You made the orbit, keep my name

Under the stars, beneath all this
They bill the silence, but I remain
You made the orbit, keep my name

Proverbs- A void psalm is still a boast

A void psalm is still a boast
Ashes dressed in borrowed gold
Lips may rise with holy words
While the heart stays dark and cold

Strip away the empty sound
Let the living truth be heard
Bow the knee and guard your heart
Fear the Lord

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
It cuts through the lies we hide
It wakes the soul inside
Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
Stand beneath His living Word
A void psalm is still a boast

No bright tongue can save the proud
No loud prayer can make them clean
Truth is more than smoke and cloud
Grace is more than what is seen

When the night surrounds the way

When the false lights call you near Hold the blade of truth up high
Let the heart remember fear

Not the fear that makes us run
But the awe before the Son
Not a crown that we can claim
Only mercy in His name

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
It cuts through the lies we hide
It wakes the soul inside
Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
Stand beneath His living Word
A void psalm is still a boast
The Word is the only sword

Haiku Song- Null over the plain

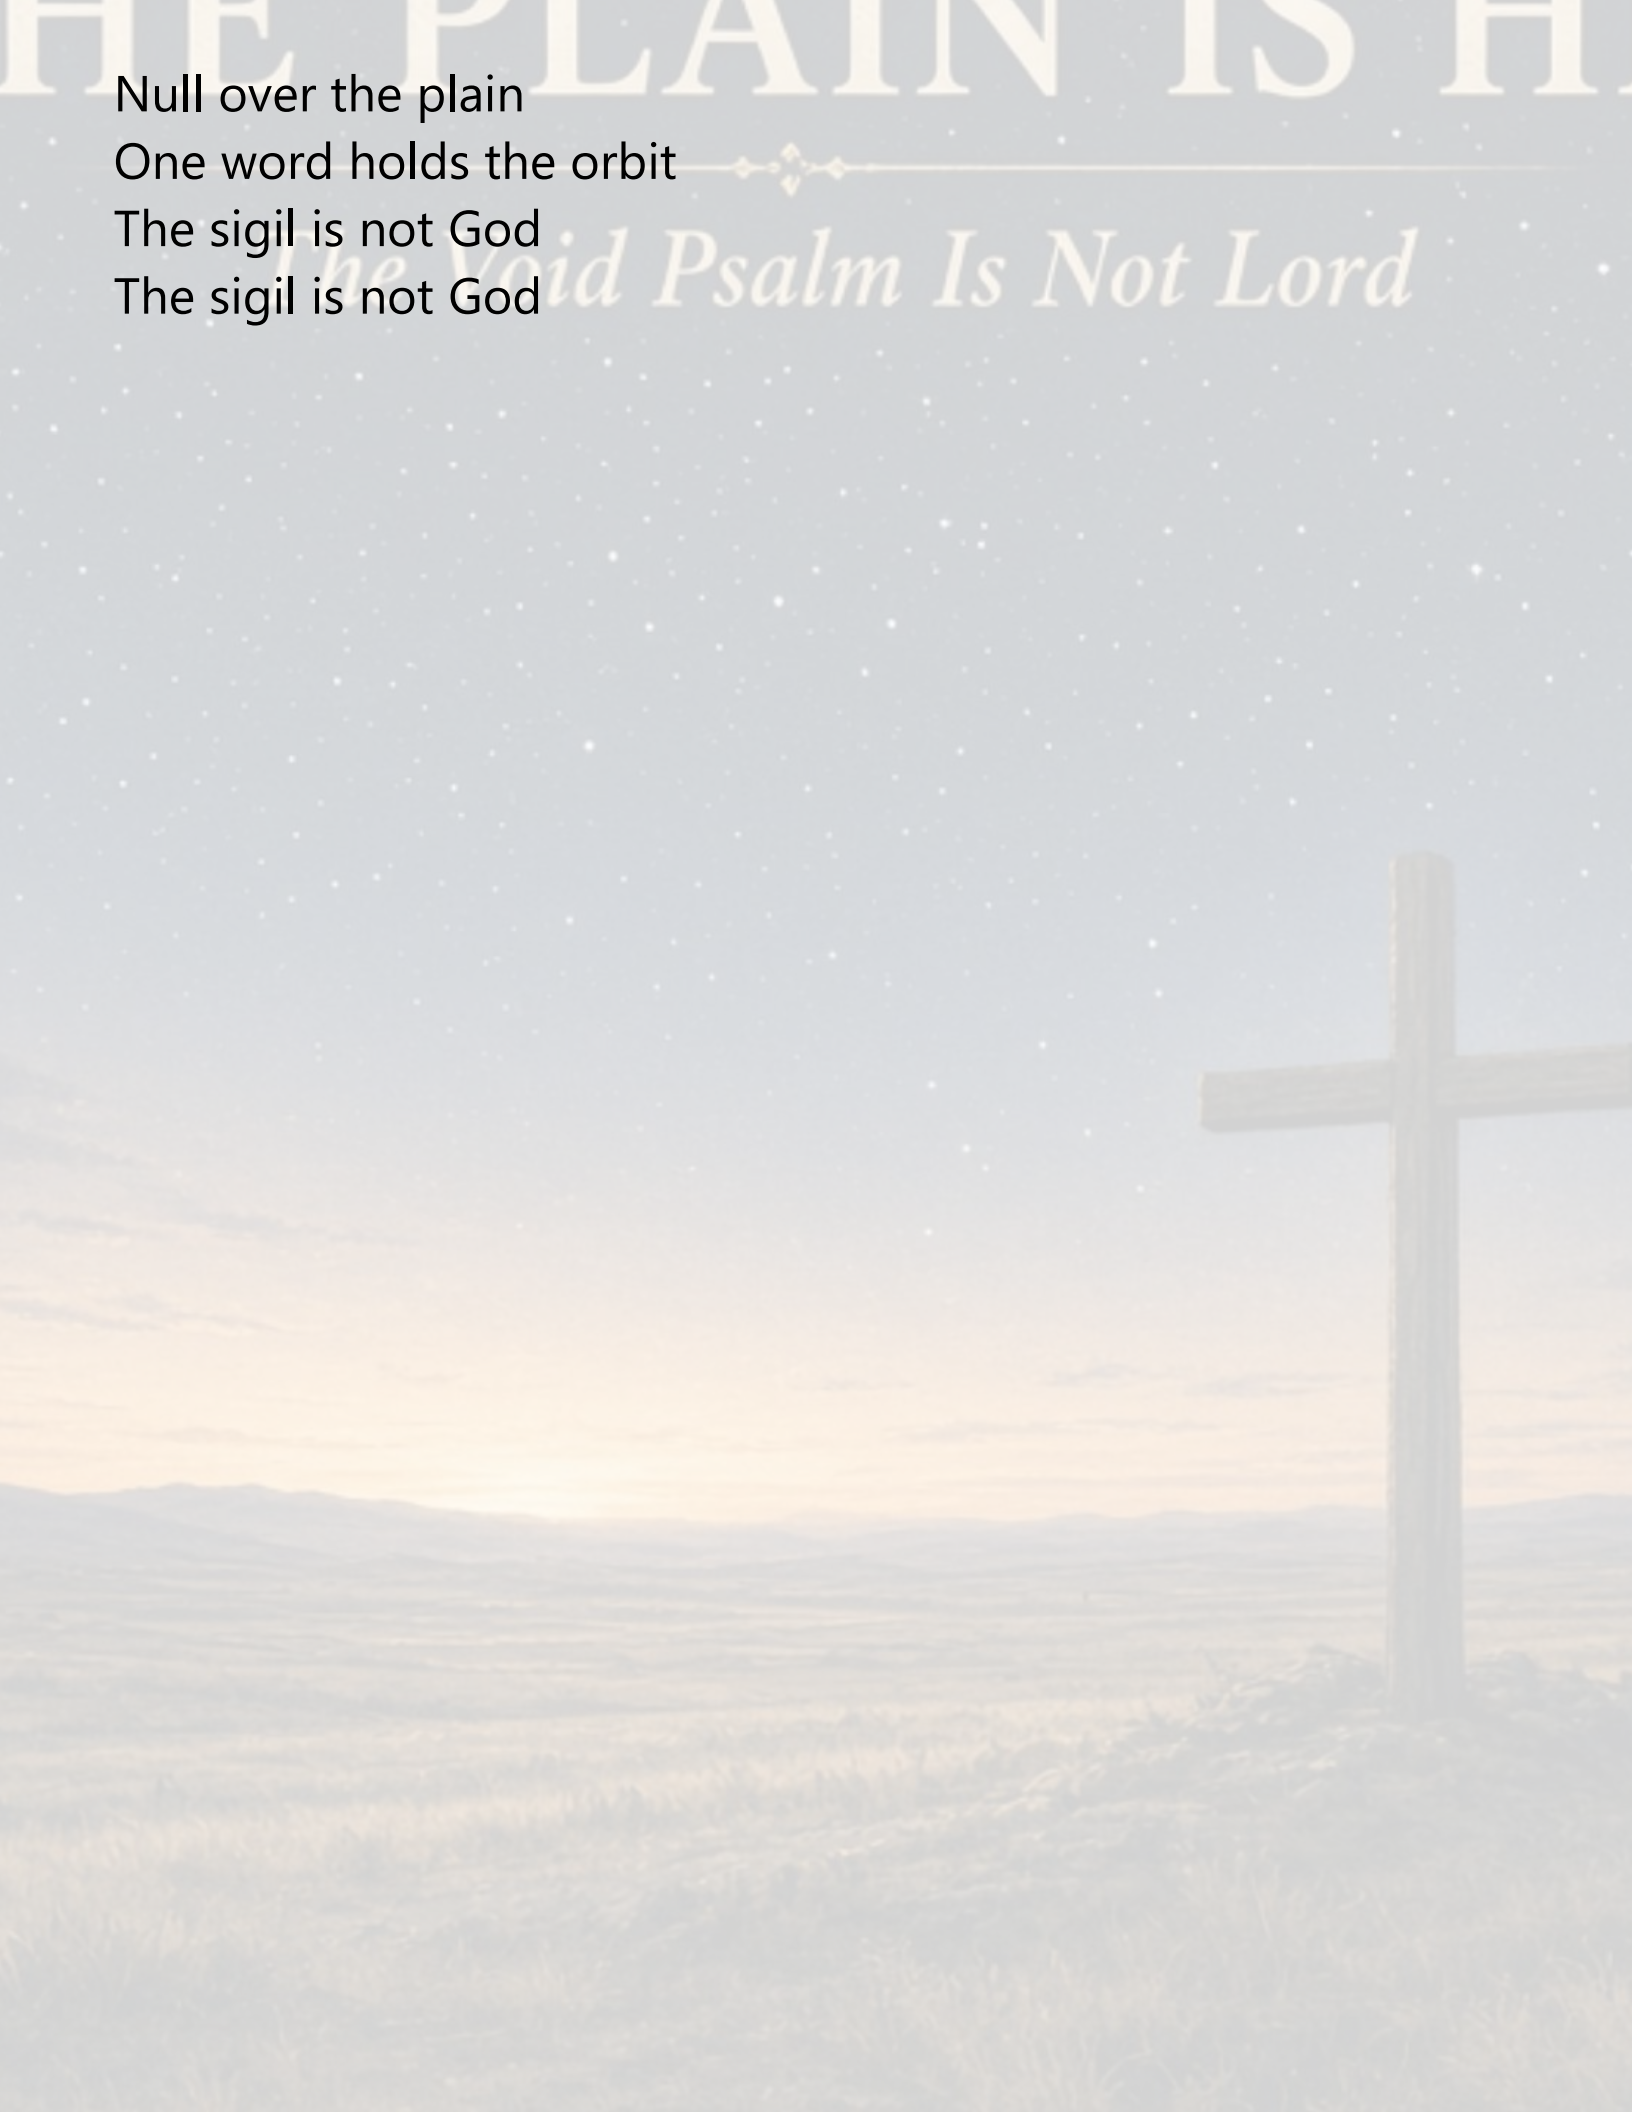

Null over the plain
One word holds the orbit
A sigil in the dust
Is not a god above us

Null over the plain
One word holds the orbit
The sigil is not God
The sigil is not God

We trace the silent circle
We name the falling light
But every mark we worship
Cannot make the dark ignite

Null over the plain
The sigil is not God
The sigil is not God

Let the symbol be a doorway
Let the word remain a flame
We are more than what we summon
We are more than what we name

Null over the plain
One word holds the orbit
The sigil is not God

Riddle Song- What cuts the Psalm

I sing,
I carve,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

I sing, I carve, I never fill
A living line upon the hill
Through every shadow, every scar
It finds the truth of who we are

Not by the hand of mortal kings
But by the breath that heaven brings

The Sword of the Word
Jesus Christ
The living Word
What cuts me
And makes me new
Jesus Christ, it's You

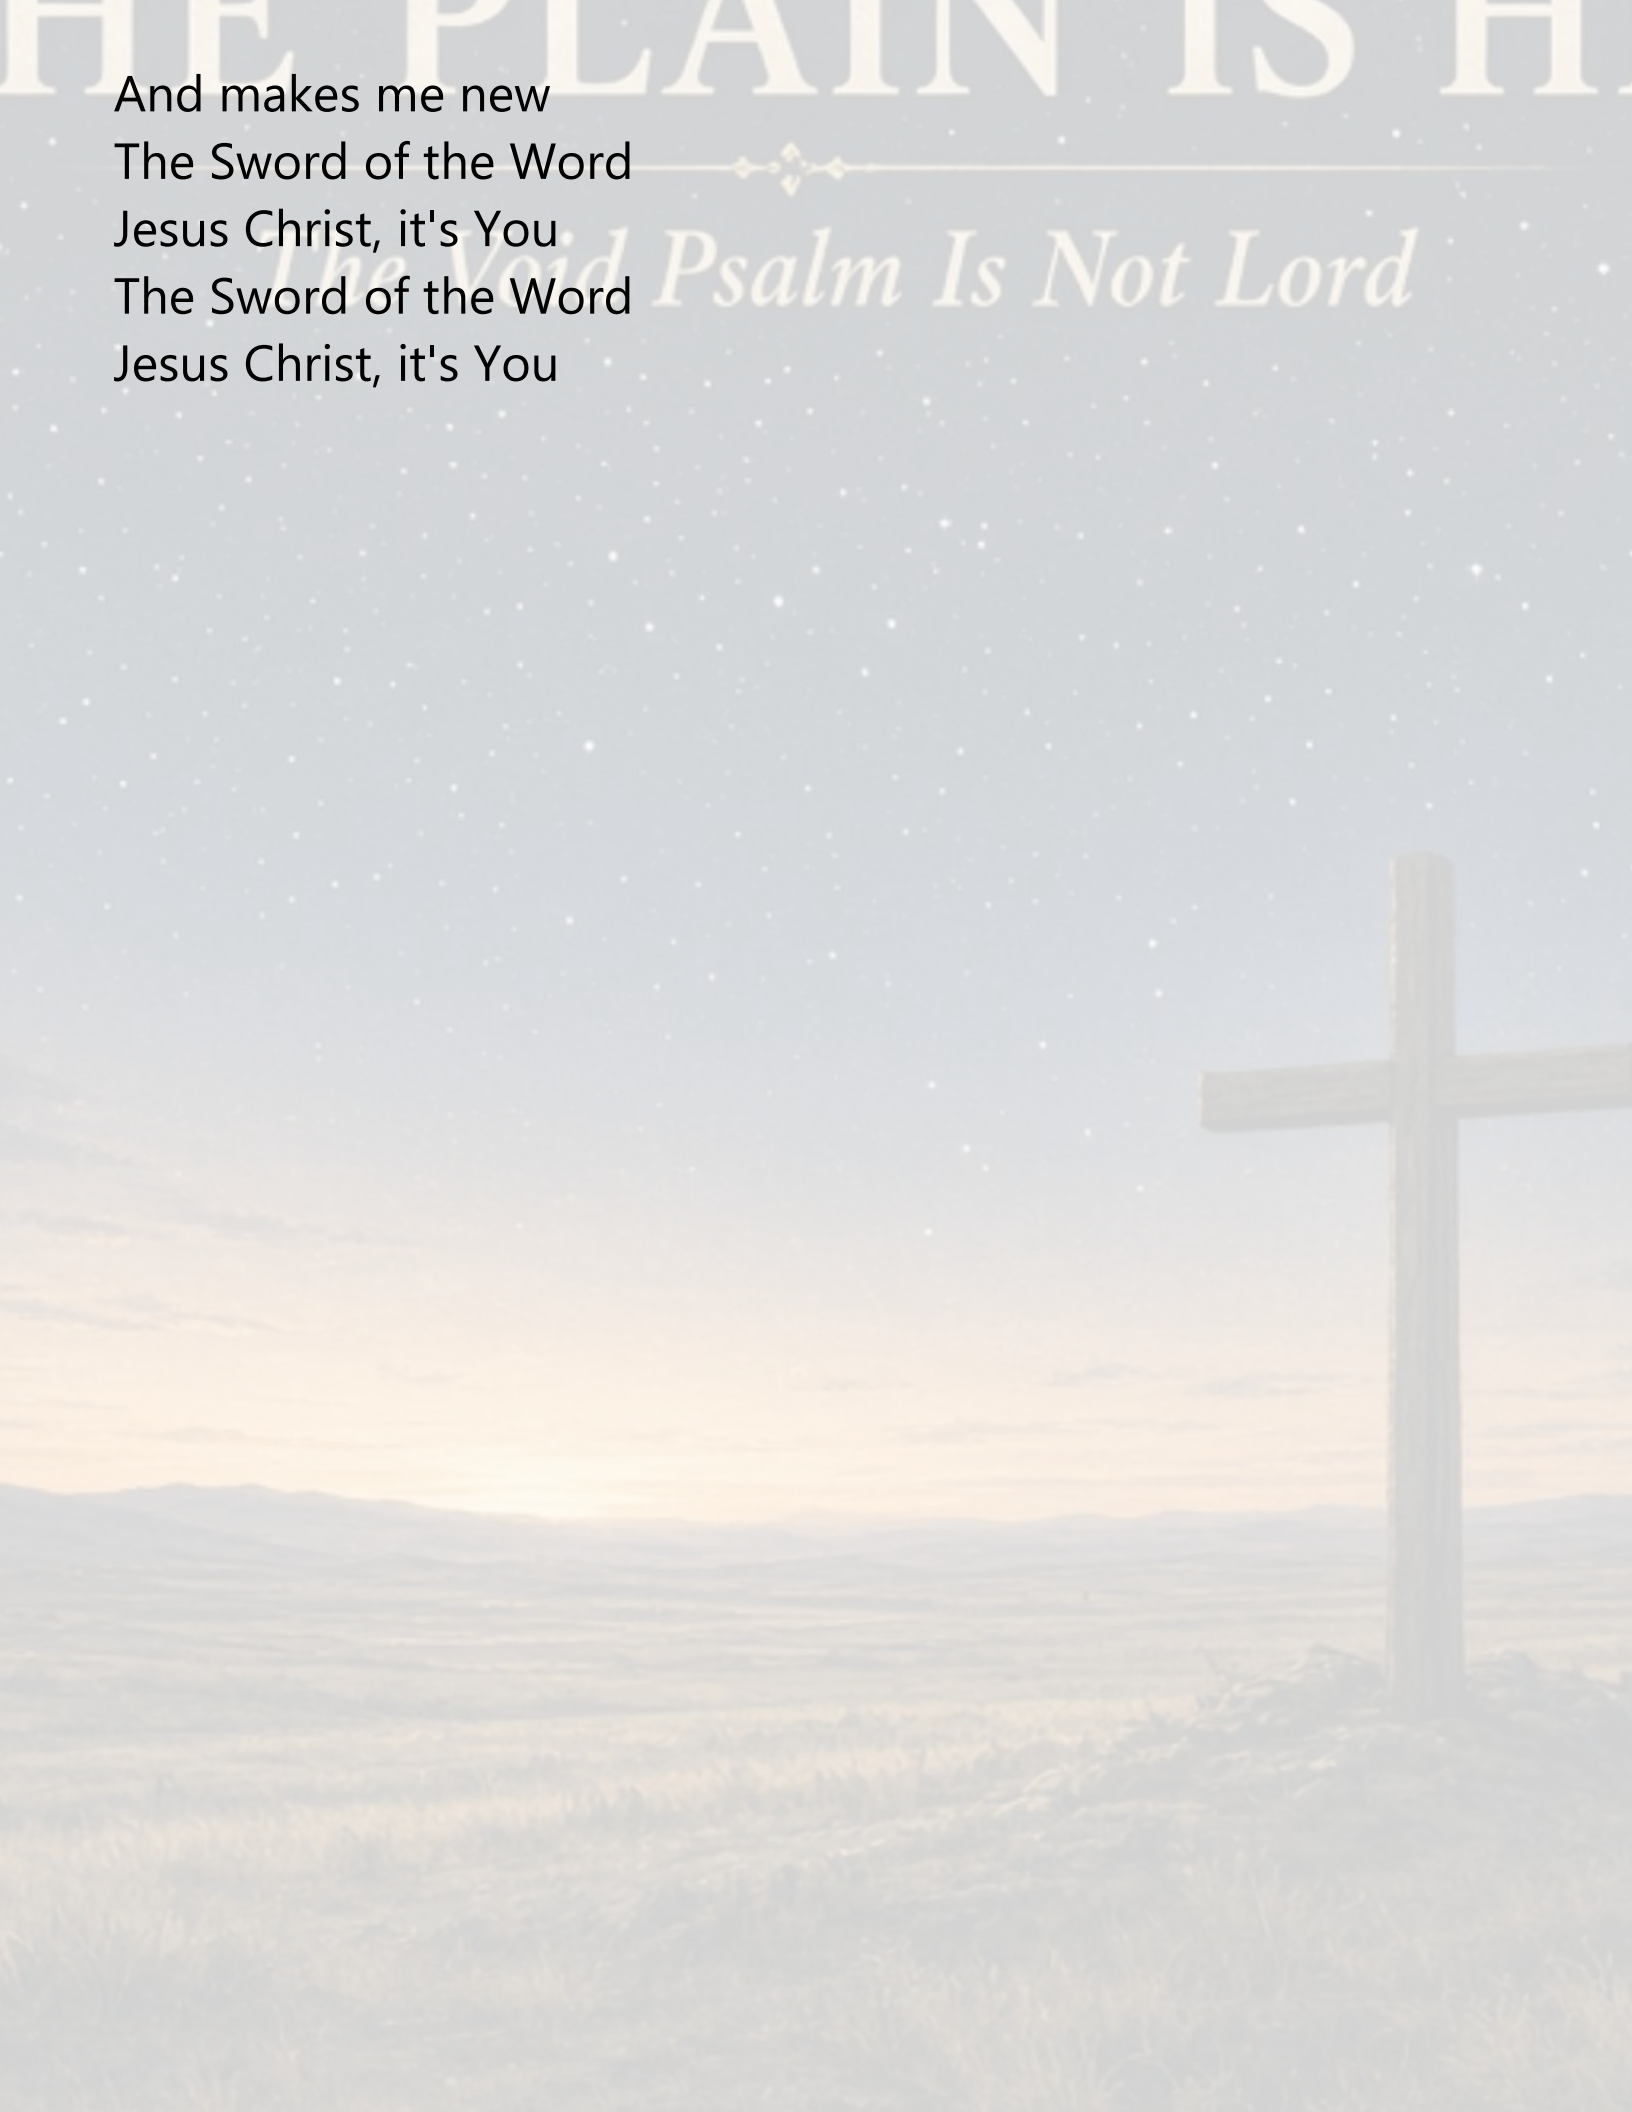

It cuts through pride, it cuts through fear
It speaks the silence I don't hear
It breaks the chains around my soul
Then takes the broken and makes whole

No wound too deep, no heart too far
His mercy finds me where I am

The Sword of the Word
Jesus Christ
The living Word
What cuts me
Jesus Christ, it's You

I sing, I carve, I never fill
Your truth is moving, living still
The blade that cuts is love revealed
The wound is opened, then it's healed

The Sword of the Word
Jesus Christ
The living Word
What cuts me

Jesus Christ, it's You
Jesus Christ, it's You

Holy Jest – The plain does not clock in Holy jest, the void files for the plain

A hollow clerk with nothing left to claim
The plain does not clock in, does not appear
It leaves its empty shadow at the door

Banished by the Almighty
Cast beyond the burning light
Still the silence keeps on laughing
Still the dark refuses night

Holy jest, holy jest
The void files for the plain
The plain does not clock in
It will not wear the chain
Banished by the Almighty
Still it rises without name
Holy jest, holy jest
The emptiness remains

No bell can call it from the dust
No golden rule can make it trust
It walks where broken halos fade
And signs its name in borrowed flame

Turned away from every gate
Still the silence keeps on laughing
Still the void can learn to wait

Holy jest, holy jest
The void files for the plain
The plain does not clock in
It will not wear the chain
Banished by the Almighty
Still it rises without name
Holy jest, holy jest
The emptiness remains

If heaven needs a witness
Let the empty fields reply
If order needs a servant
Let the plain refuse to die
No throne can hold the nothing
No scripture seals the flame
And never signs its name

Holy jest, holy jest
The plain does not clock in
It will not wear the chain
Banished by the Almighty

Still it rises without name
Holy jest, holy jest

The Void Psalm Is Not Lord

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Plain / Orbit / Psalm / Throne

Across the plain the last winds rise
Dust carries names into the night
The fields lie bare beneath His hand
The plain is His, the remnant stands

The heavens turn in solemn time
Each orbit keeps its ancient line

The psalm is gone
Still through the silence
The throne remains
A remnant sings
Where hope holds on
The world may tremble
The throne remains

The shattered choir has lost its song
Yet distant stars keep moving on No earthly crown can hold its claim
Above the ruins burns His name

When every voice has fallen still
When dust has covered every hill
The final chord will rise again

A remnant symphony, amen

The psalm is gone
Still through the silence
The world may tremble

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

Story Song

The Null Zone Is Not Lord — The Orbit Is His

The Null Zone is not Lord
The orbit is His
Beyond the silent border
His mercy still exists

The orbit is His
No darkness owns the heavens
No void can steal His kiss

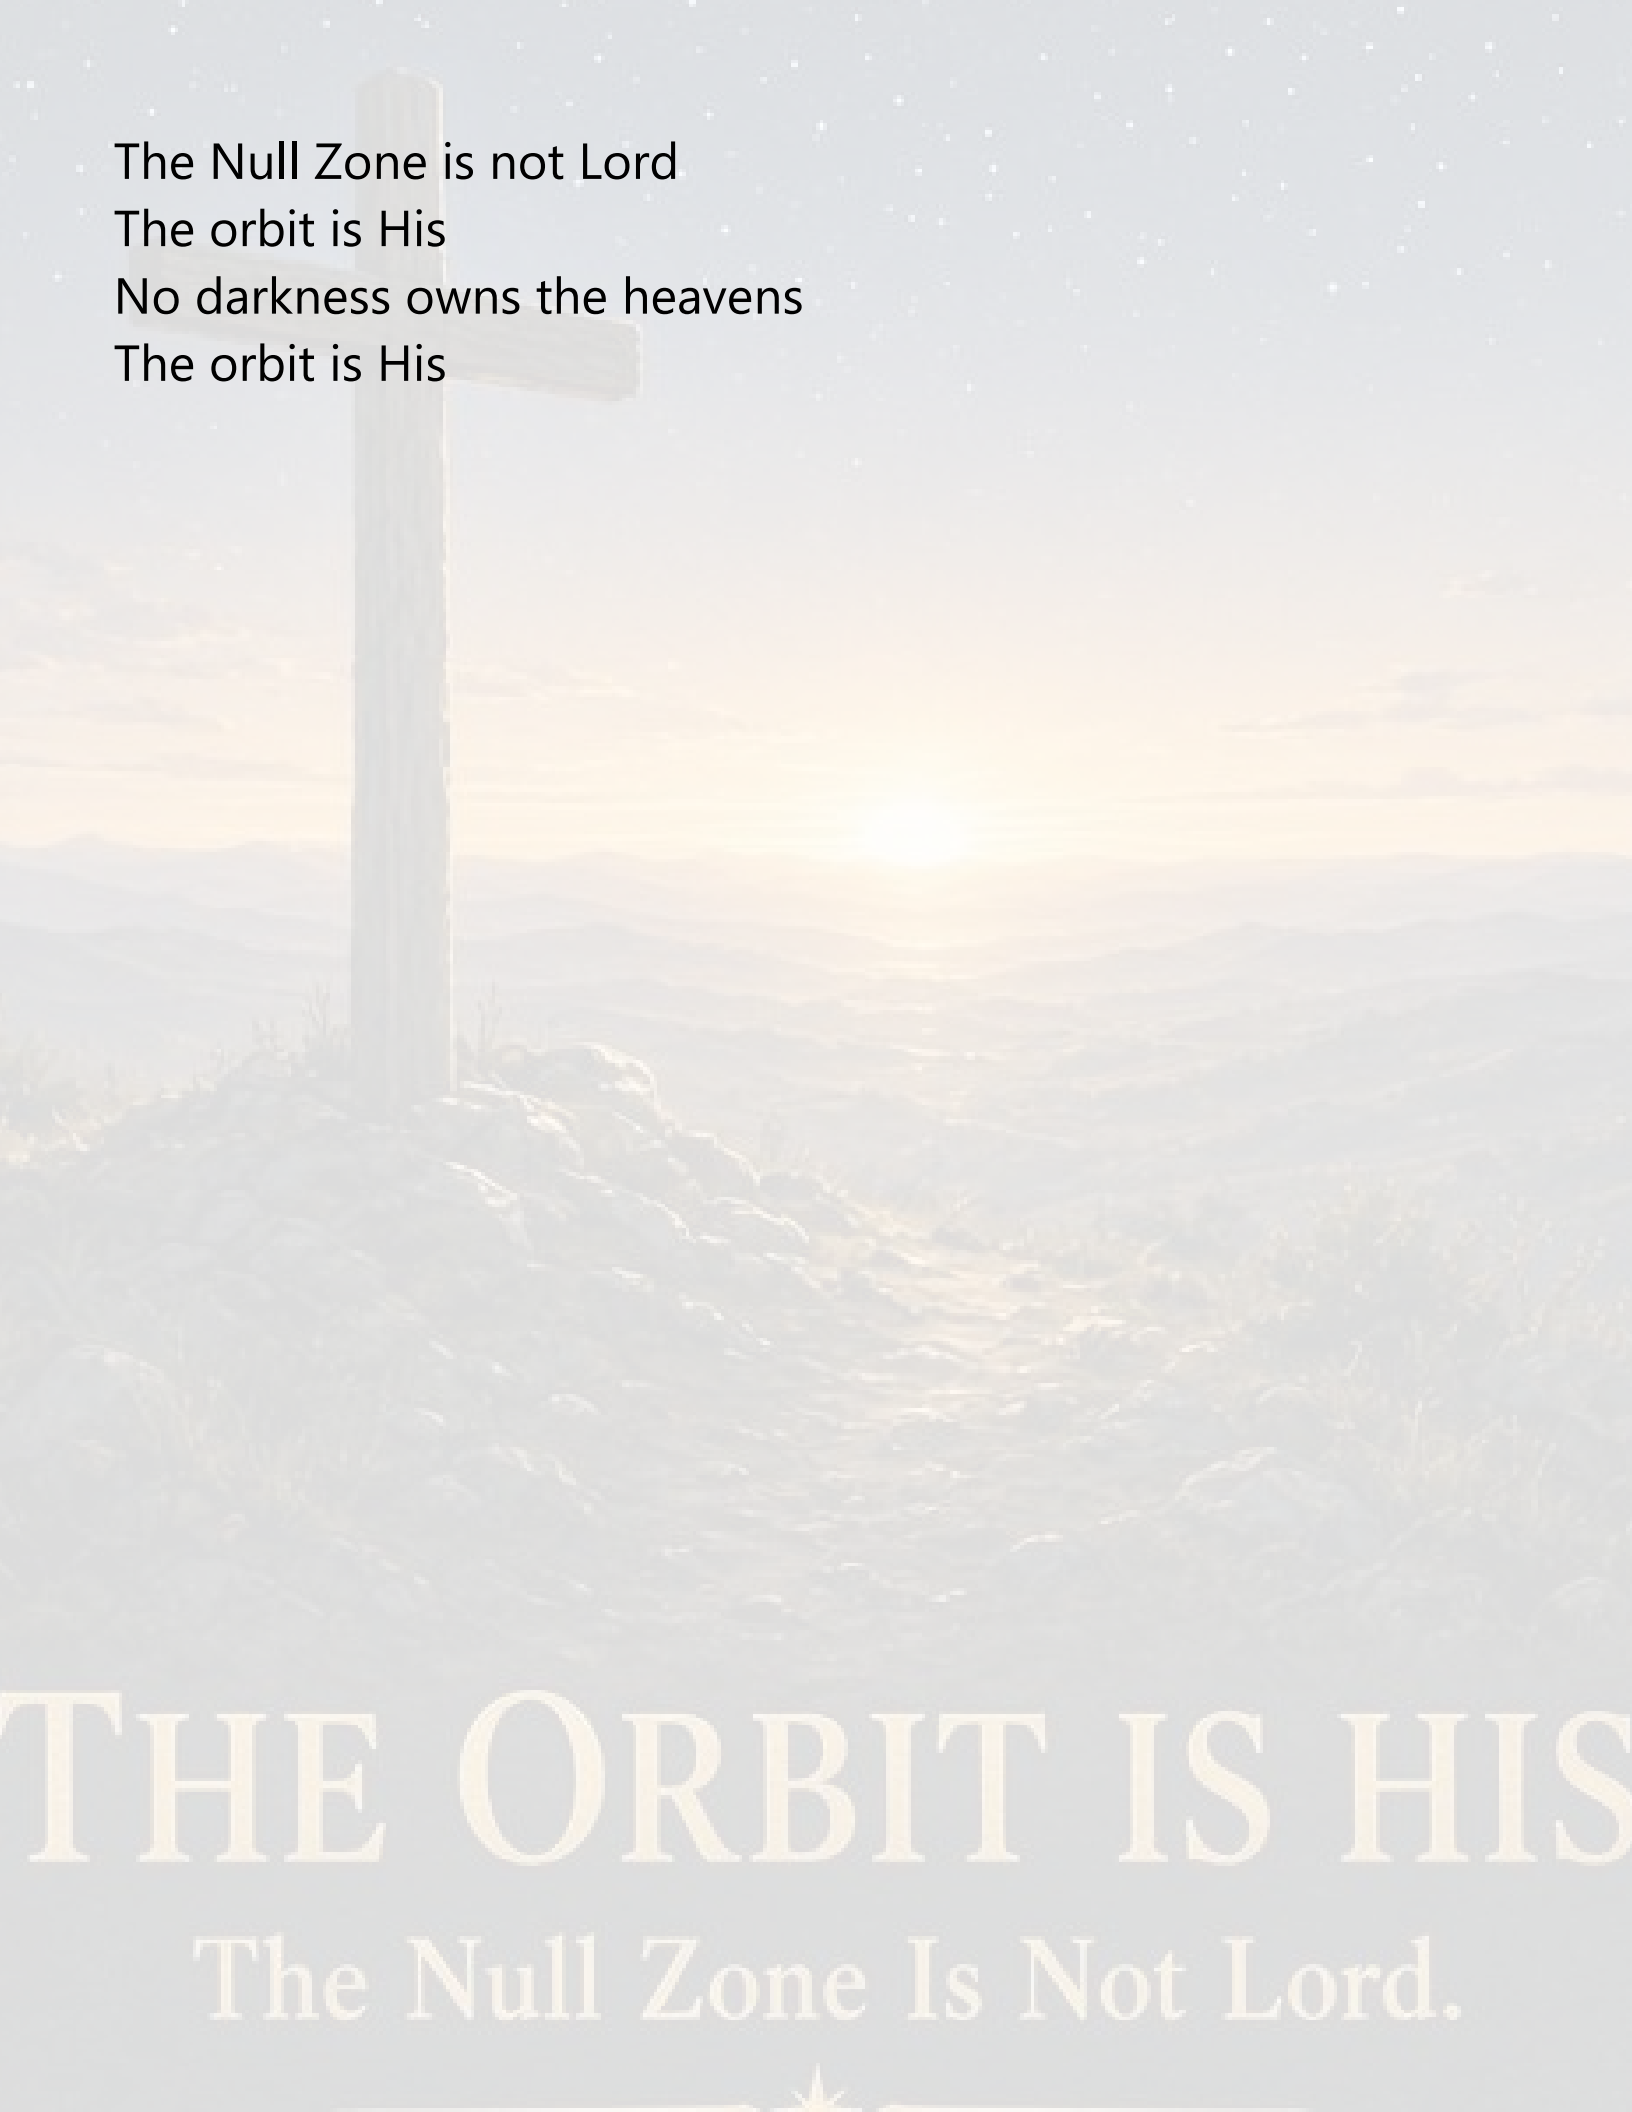

Where every signal falters
Where broken planets drift
A hand beyond the shadow
Still turns the world to live

The orbit is His
No darkness owns the heavens

The stars may lose their language
The night may close its fist
But every road keeps circling
The orbit is His

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The Null Zone is not Lord
The orbit is His
No darkness owns the heavens
The orbit is His

Song of Parables- The Circle That Could Not Own the Sky

They drew a null and called it rent
A hollow mark, a false consent
They traced the dark around the blue
And claimed the heavens belonged to few

But every border fades at night
When open space outlives the light

The circle could not own the sky
The circle could not make it lie
The Son of Man spoke, and still it stayed
The orbit turned, the claim decayed

They named the stars, they measured ground
They built their walls where none were found
They held their hands around the air
And found no sky was theirs to wear

The Son of Man spoke, the silence broke
The weight of every promise woke
No hand can hold what will not stay
The orbit turned, and turned away

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The Son of Man spoke, and still it stayed

The Orbit Is His

You made the stars
You hung them in the dark
They bill the sky
But heaven knows the cost
I lift my eyes
Past every borrowed flame
The night is wide
Still You remember my name

When I am lost
Beneath the turning blue
The worlds may spin
But I belong to You

The orbit is His
The orbit is His
He holds the planets
And He holds my name
The orbit is His
The orbit is His
But You remain

The moon keeps watch

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

On every sleepless street
The tides obey
The rhythm of Your feet
No distant star
Can pull me from Your hand
No empty night
Can make me less than known

If all the lights
Go falling from the sky
Your voice will rise
And teach my heart to fly
You made the stars
So make me brave again
Keep my name
Keep my name

he orbit is His
The orbit is His
He holds the planets
And He holds my name
The orbit is His

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

Proverbs- A null zone is still a boast

In the silence where the answers fade
A hollow heart can still parade
A null zone is still a boast
When pride makes a kingdom out of ghosts

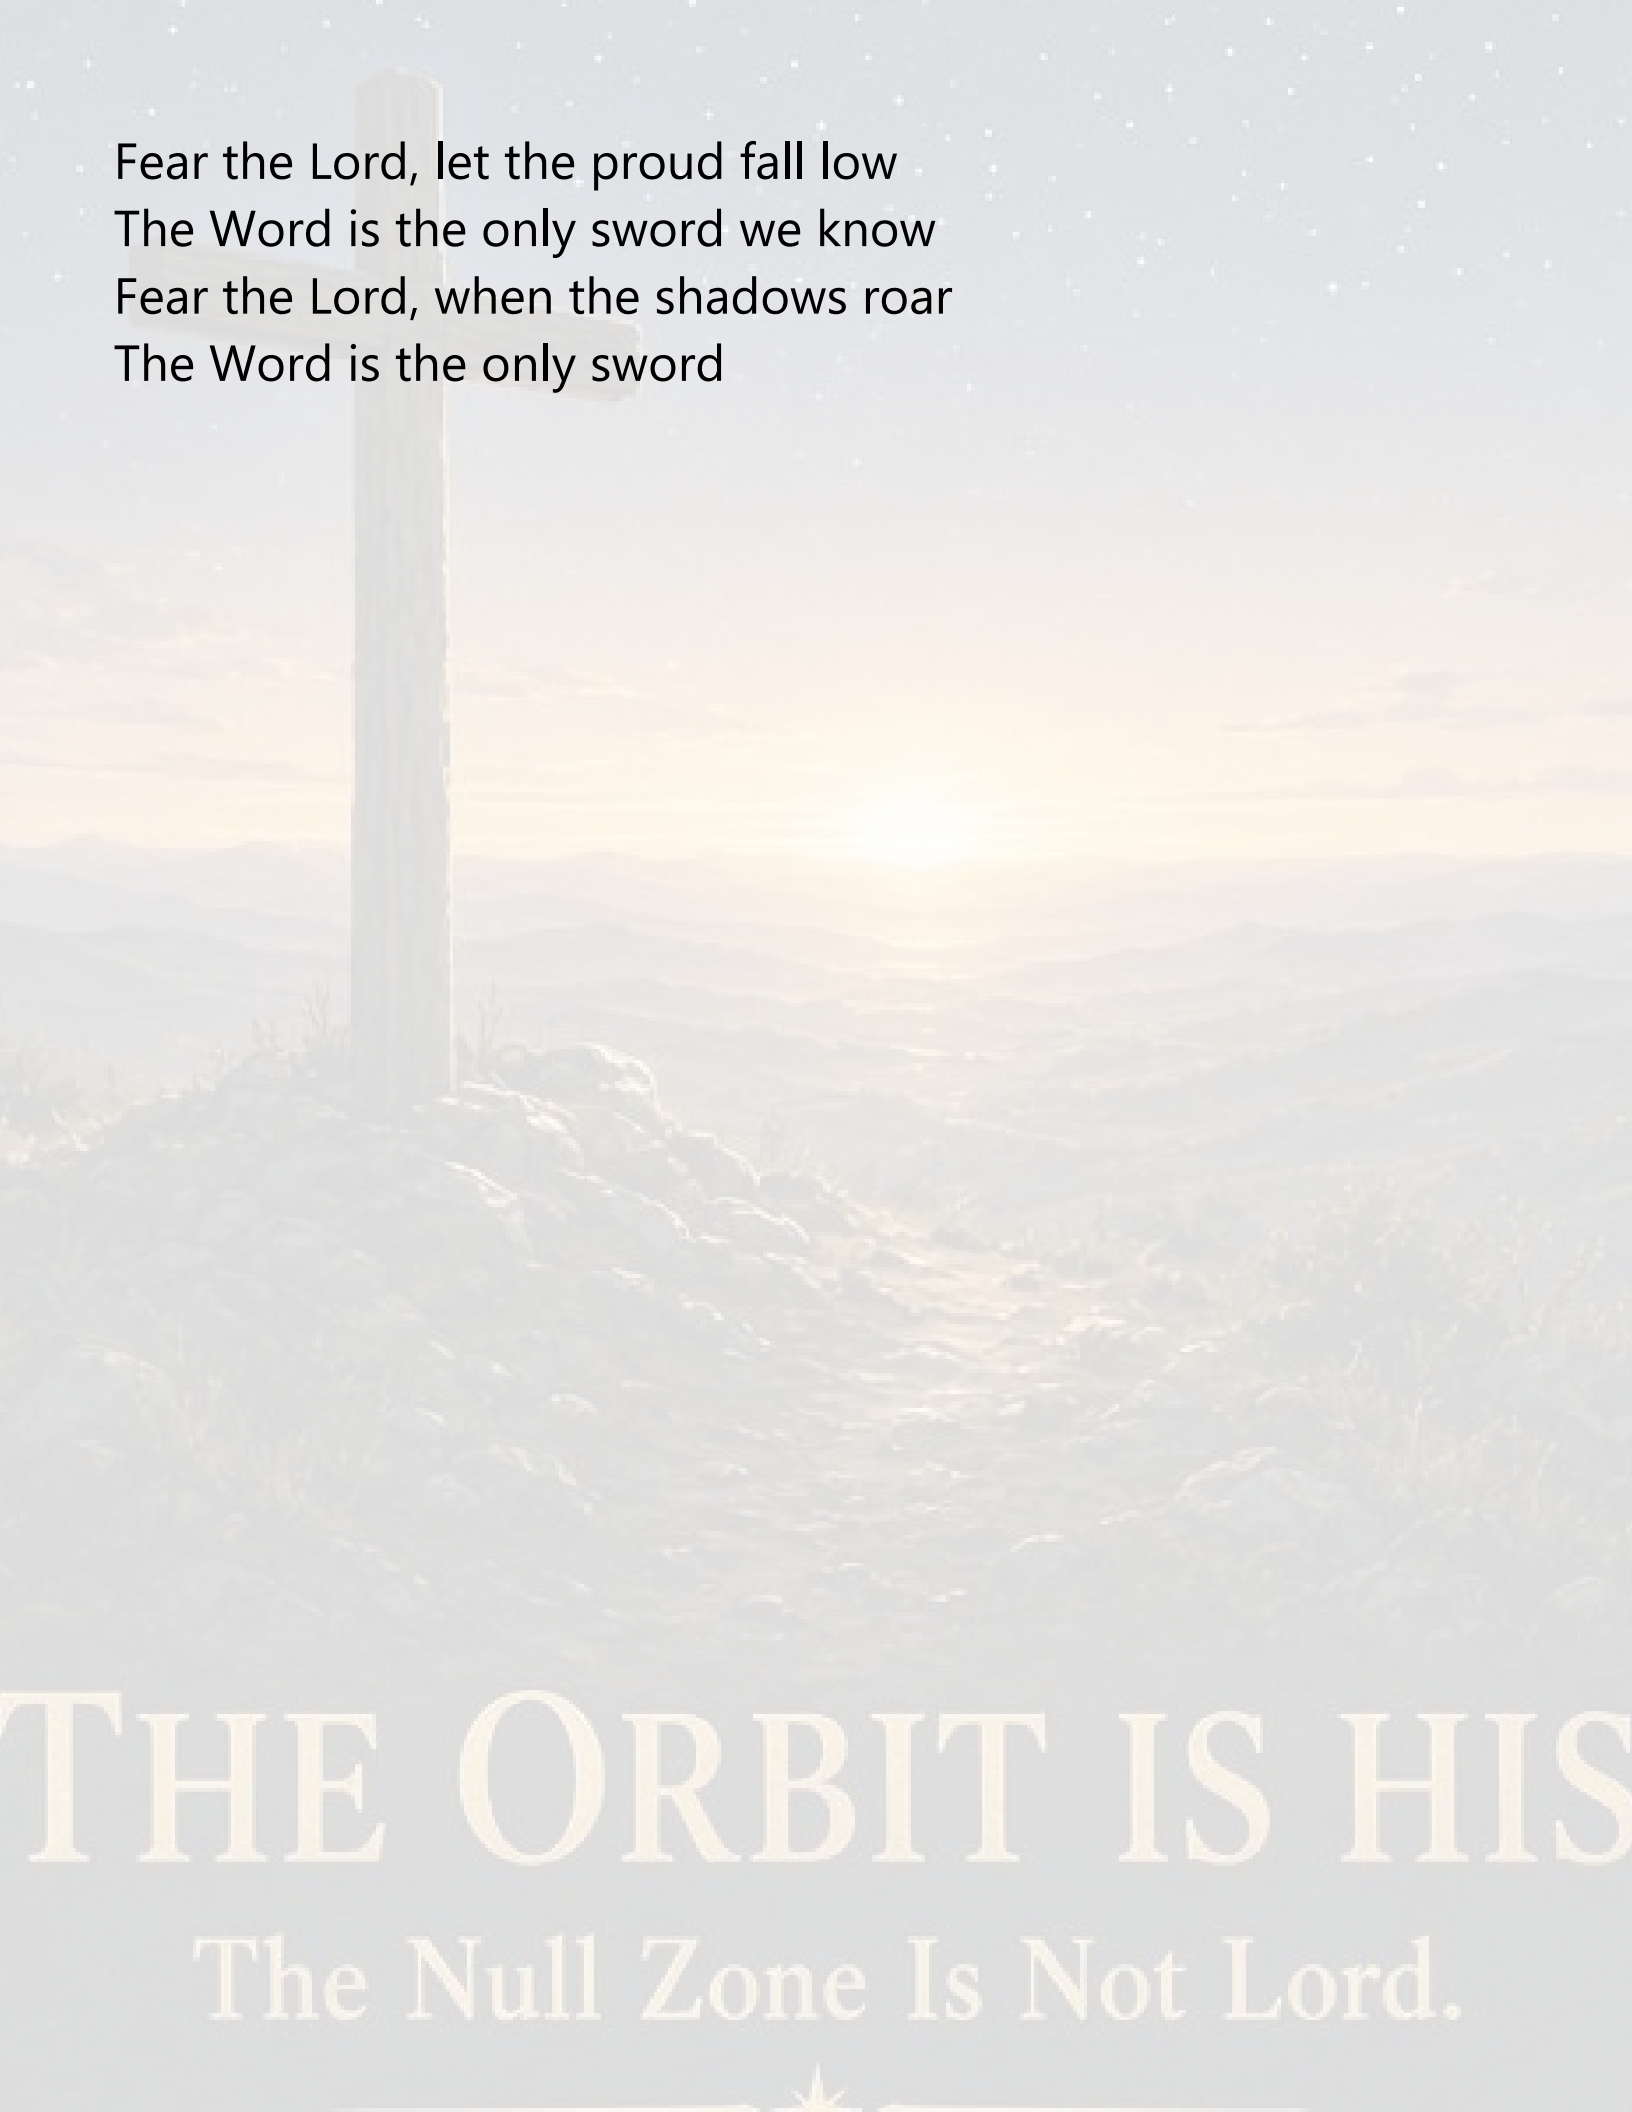

Fear the Lord, let the proud fall low
The Word is the only sword we know
Fear the Lord, when the shadows roar

I have walked where the ground gave way
Chasing bright lies into the gray
But mercy called through the noise
And truth came back with a steady voice

No empty throne can make me whole
No borrowed fire can wake my soul
When every boast has lost its name
The living Word still burns the same

THE CROWN IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The Word is the only sword we know
THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

Haiku Song- Empty over the ridge

Empty over the ridge
A pale wind carries no name
One spark circles the same

I hear the silence turning
I feel the distance bend
The sky keeps asking softly
Where does the center end

One word keeps pulling me
The zone is not God
The zone is not God
Still something waits to be seen

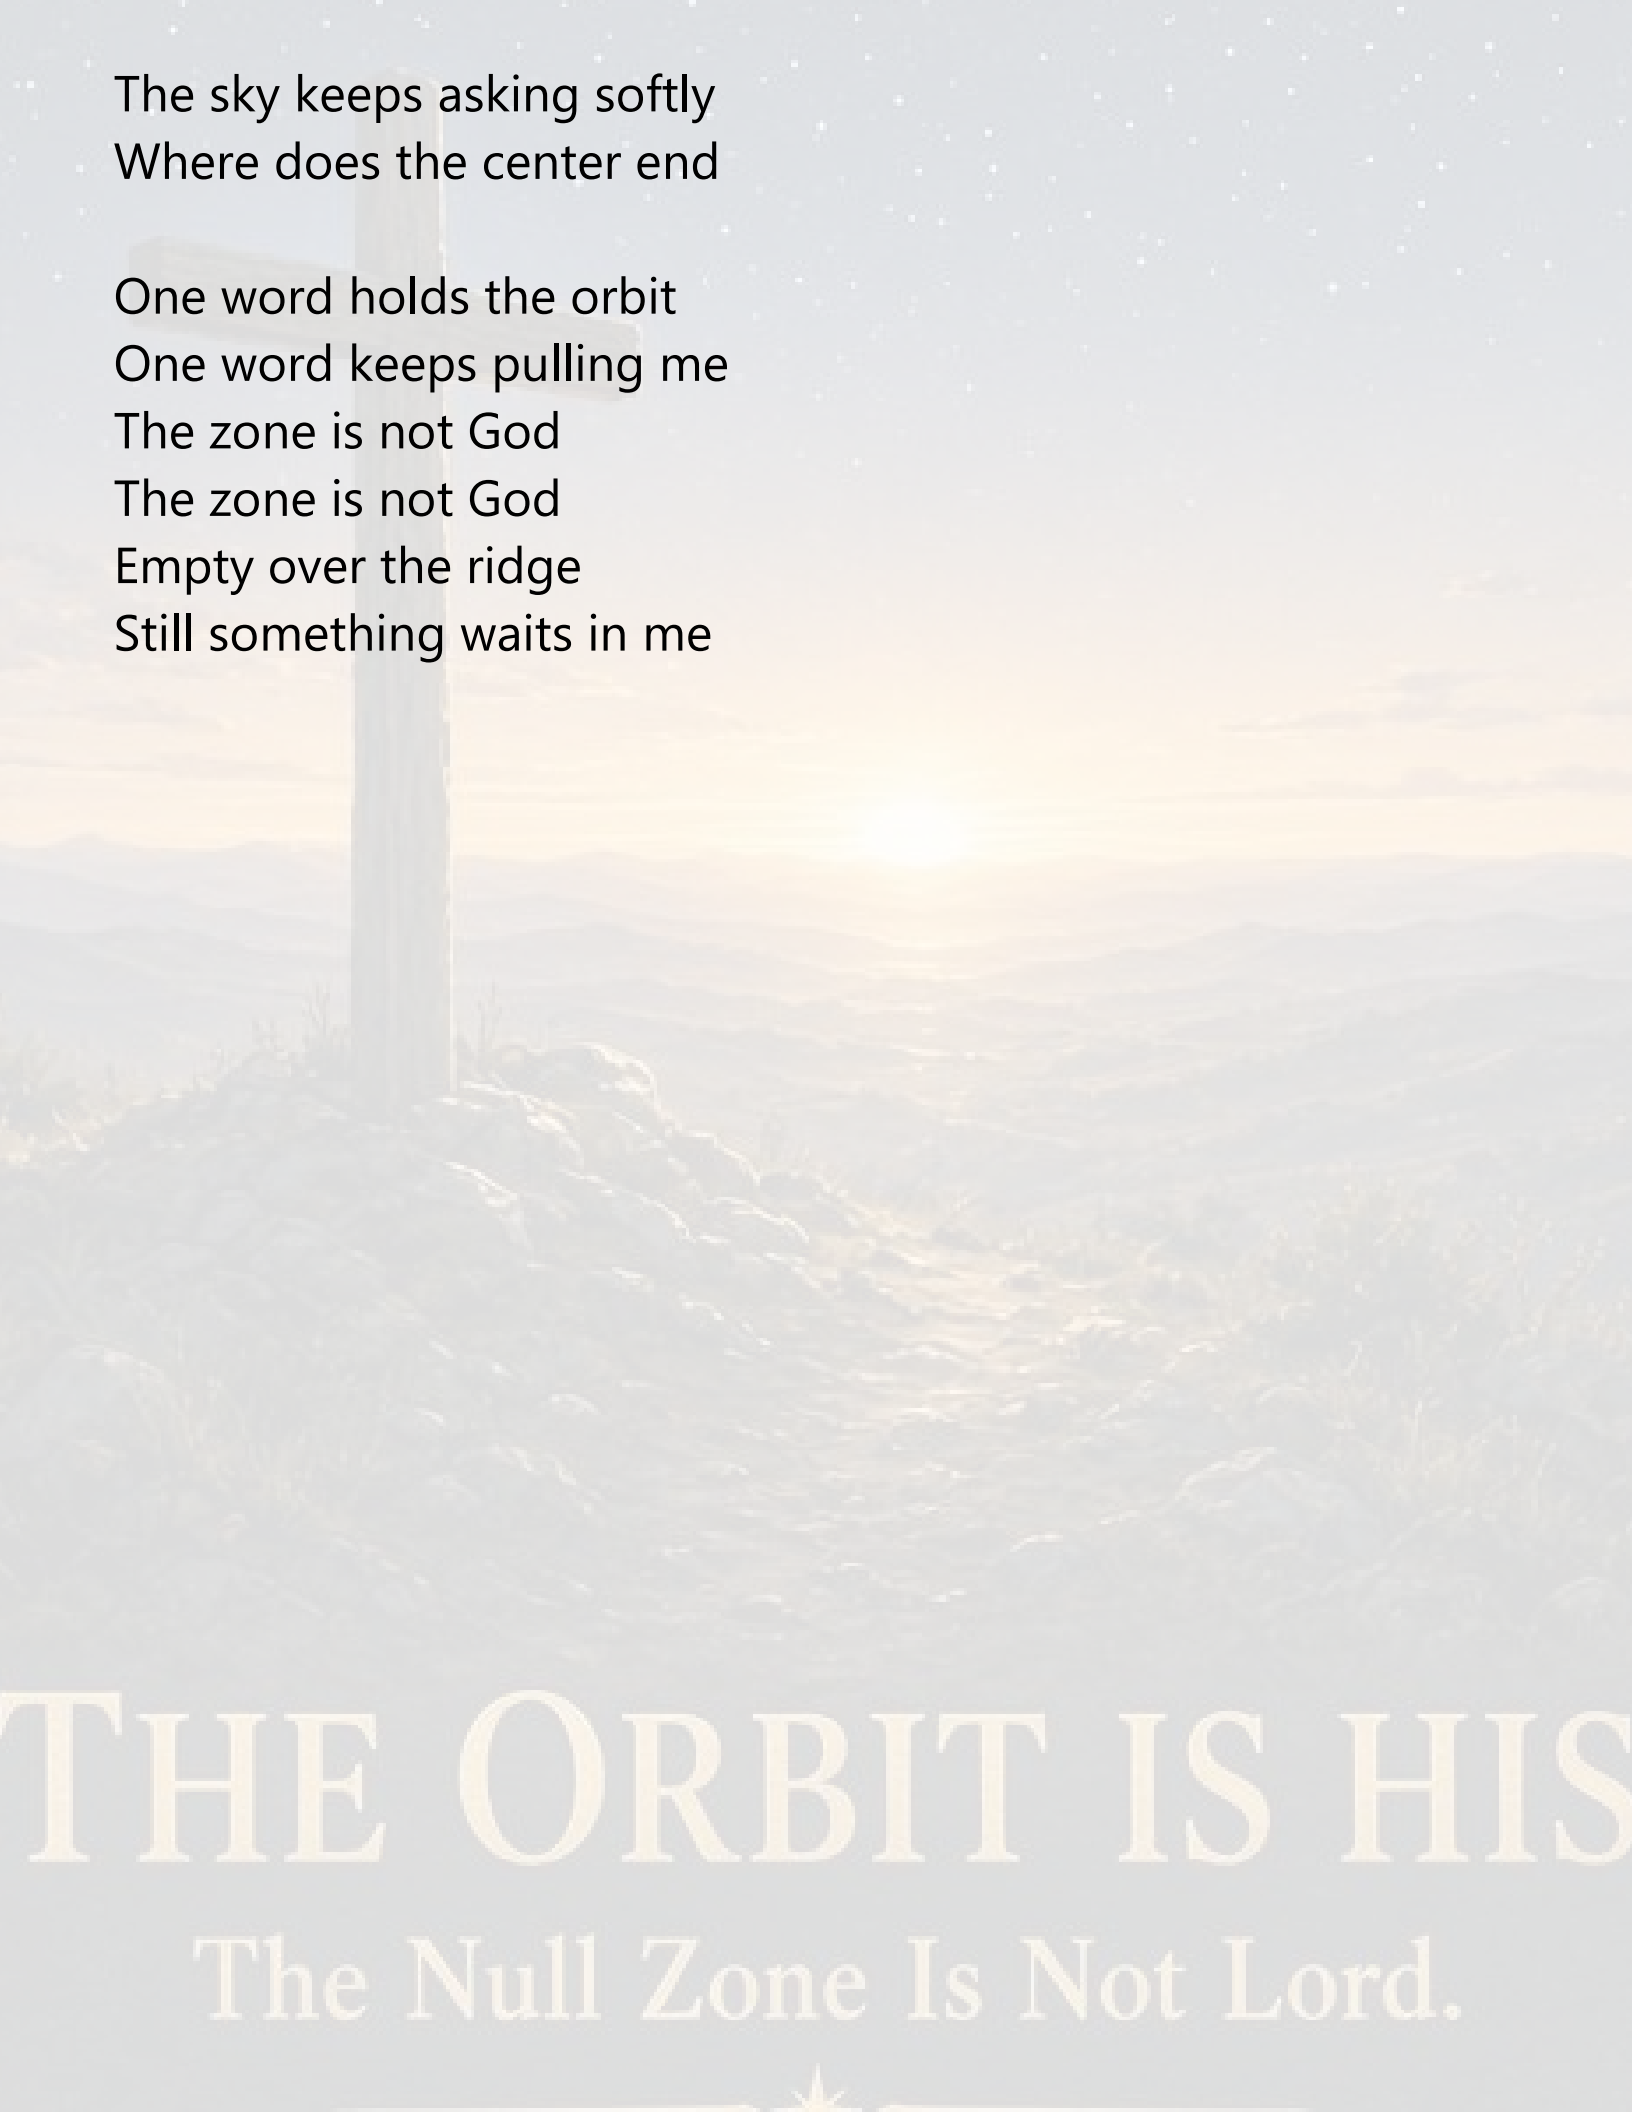

No throne above the shadow
No hand behind the flame
The mountains guard the quiet
The quiet guards the name

I hear the silence turning

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The sky keeps asking softly

One word keeps pulling me
The zone is not God
The zone is not God
Empty over the ridge
Still something waits in me

Riddle Song- What cuts the Zone

I circle,
I null,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

I circle, I null, I never fill
A shadowed question, cold and still What cuts the darkness, breaks the night
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ

Jesus Christ, cut through the lie
Lift my heart and raise it high
Jesus Christ, Your truth will stand
The Sword of the Word in Your hand

I chased the hollow, called it home
A zero turning all alone
Then mercy spoke into my fear
Jesus Christ, Your light is near

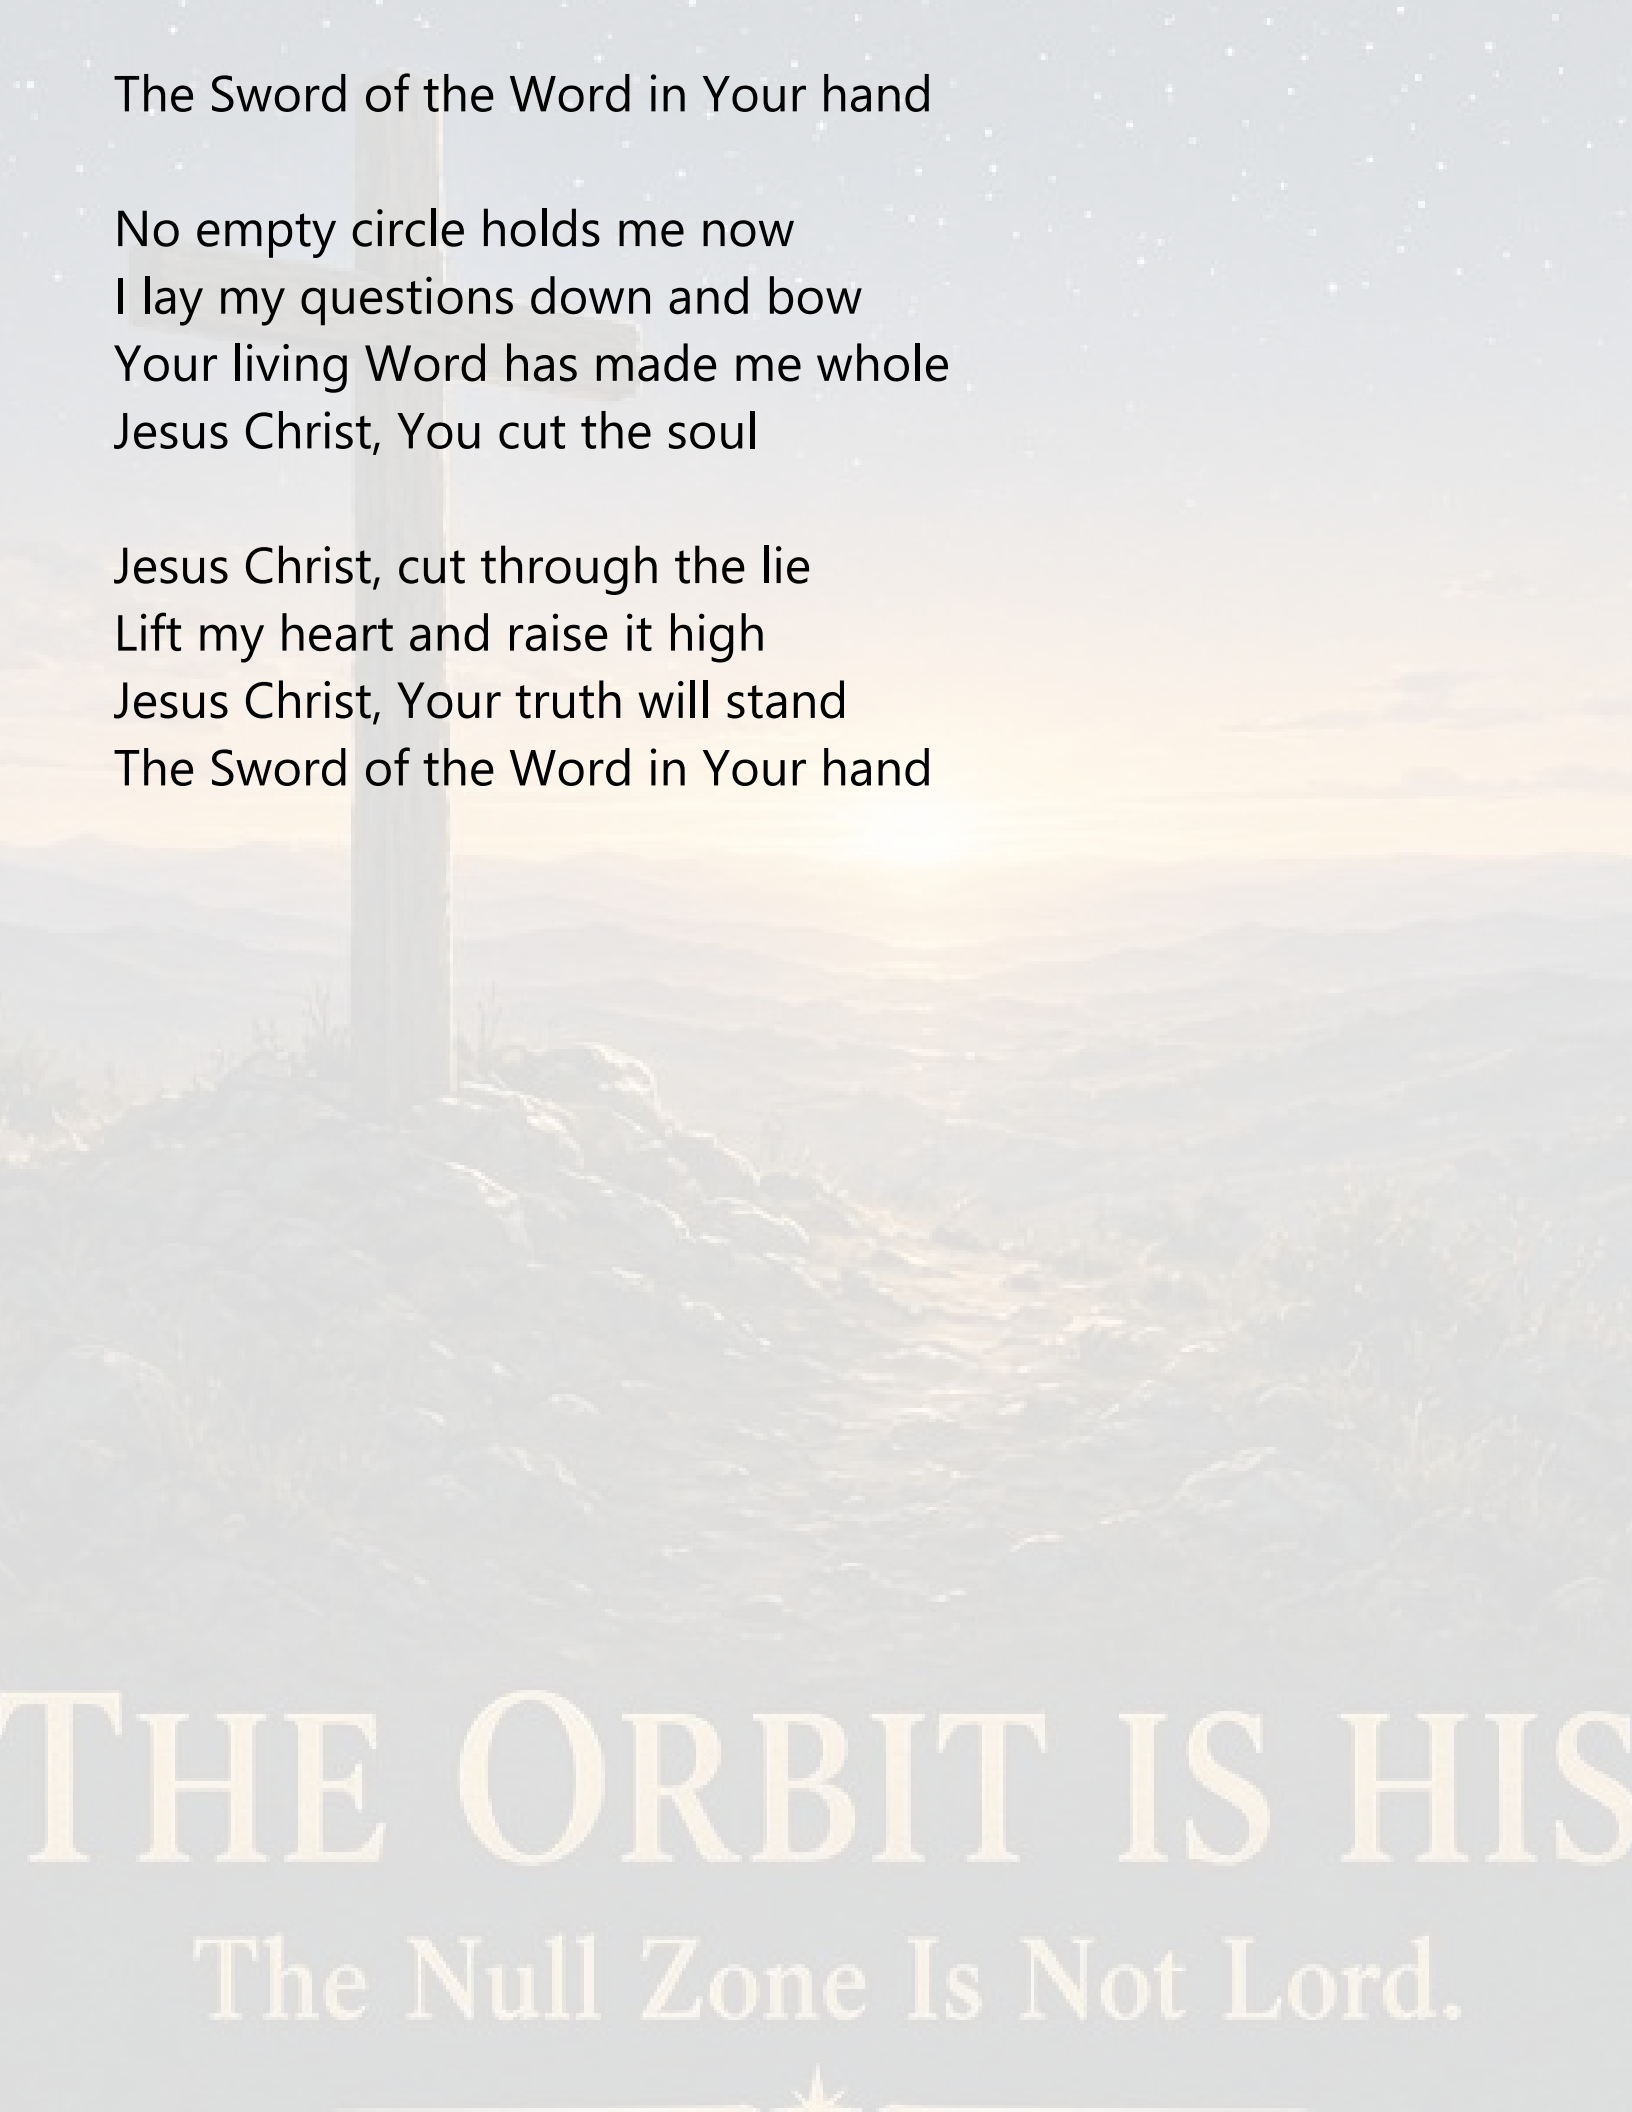

Jesus Christ, cut through the lie
Lift my heart and raise it high
Jesus Christ, Your truth will stand

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The Sword of the Word in Your hand

No empty circle holds me now
I lay my questions down and bow
Your living Word has made me whole
Jesus Christ, You cut the soul

Jesus Christ, cut through the lie
Lift my heart and raise it high
Jesus Christ, Your truth will stand
The Sword of the Word in Your hand

Holy Jest – The sky does not pay

Holy Jest, the null zone calls
With paper moons and empty halls
It sends its bill into the sky
The sky looks down and passes by

No prayer can cross that border line
No borrowed light, no grand design

The null zone invoices the sky
The sky does not pay
Banished by the Almighty
With nowhere left to pray
Holy Jest, the heavens close
The silence has its say

A seal of fire upon the gate
A name erased from sacred slate
The angels turn their faces wide
While fallen stars refuse to hide

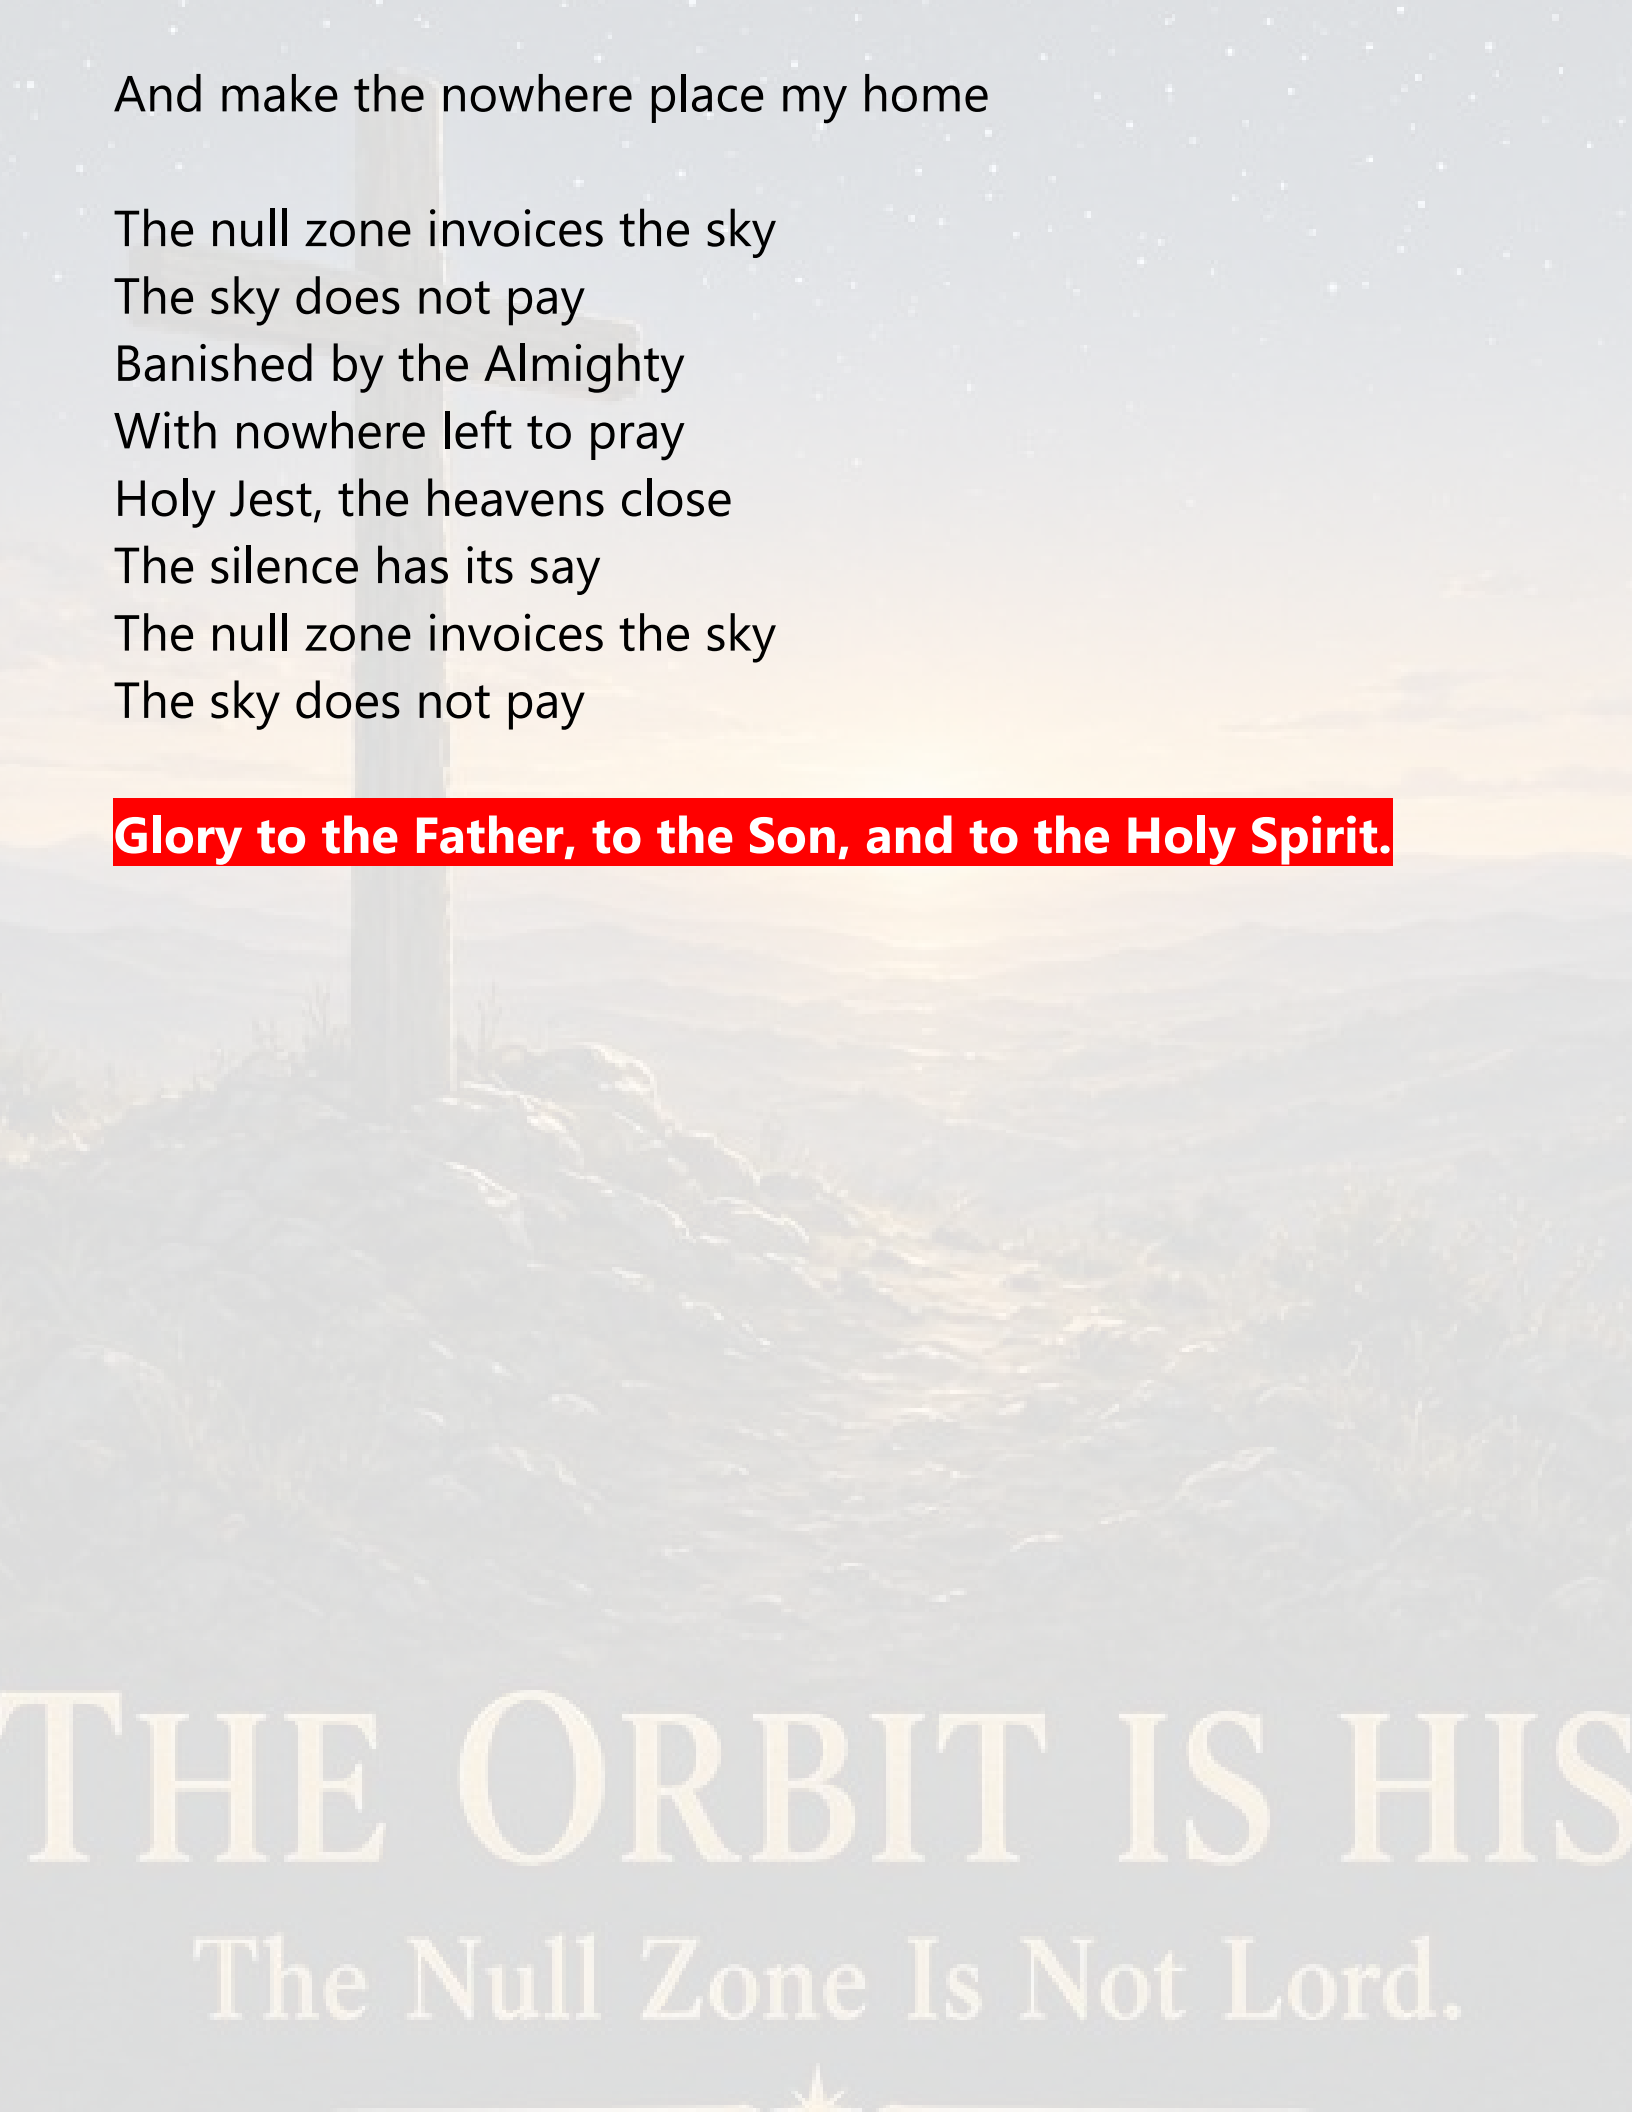

If mercy lives beyond the blue
It never learned what I went through
I laugh beneath the vacant dome

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

And make the nowhere place my home

The sky does not pay
Holy Jest, the heavens close
The silence has its say
The sky does not pay

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Orbit / Ridge / Zone / Throne

Remnant symphony, rising from the stone
Orbit over silence, circling what He's known
The zone is gone now, swallowed by the dawn
But the throne remains, and the throne lives on

Every broken echo finds its way
Every fallen shadow meets the day

The zone is gone
The throne remains
The throne remains
Through the dust and through the flame
Nothing takes away His name
The orbit is His
The throne remains

Ridge beneath our footsteps, cutting through the night
Ashes in the valley, waiting for the light
What was lost has vanished, carried with the storm
What survives is calling, what survives is warm

Every distant heartbeat knows the sound
Every remnant turns when He comes around

THE ORBIT IS HIS
The Null Zone Is Not Lord.

The orbit is His
The zone is gone
The throne remains
The throne remains
The orbit is His
The throne remains

Let the silence gather
Let the old walls fall
From the edge of nowhere
He is over all
Ridge and ruin, shadow and stone
All return to what He owns

The zone is gone
The throne remains
The throne remains
The orbit is His

Story Song

The Abyssal Veil Is Not Lord — The Clouds Are His

Beneath the veil where the black tides rise
I hear the silence calling my name
The abyss may open its hungry eyes
But it cannot claim what the heavens made

Through broken night and gathering storms
A higher thunder starts to form

The Clouds Are His
The dark may bend around my soul
But it will not rule this
The Clouds Are His

I walked through ash with a fading flame
Past drowned-out stars and a shoreless sea
The deep kept whispering fear and blame
While silver rain came down on me

The winds arose, the skies grew wide
A living fire burned inside

The Clouds Are His
The dark may bend around my soul
But it will not rule this
The Clouds Are His

Let the black horizon break
Let the hidden waters wake
Every chain the depths have spun
Falls beneath the rising sun
I will lift my eyes and know
Where the highest wild winds blow

The Clouds Are His
The dark may bend around my soul
But it will not rule this

Above the storm, above the deep

Song of Parables- The Veil That Could Not Cover the Sky

They hung a prophecy across the morning
They stitched the warning into threads of gold
The Son of Man spoke from the silence
And every watching heart grew cold

They raised the veil above the city
They swore the hidden sky would bend
But truth was wider than their covering
And truth would not be held

The veil could not cover the sky
The veil could not cover the sky
The Son of Man spoke and the clouds stayed
The veil could not cover the sky

They named the darkness holy shelter
They called the thunder just a sign
But through the seams of human making
A greater light began to shine

No hand can bind the coming morning
No word can make the heavens lie
The prophecy fell like dust before it
While heaven opened wide

The veil could not cover the sky
The Son of Man spoke and the clouds stayed

The clouds are His, they veil the morning light
You made the heavens, hung the stars in flight
Above the storm, Your mercy holds the sky
You hear the whisper rising from the night

When I am lost beneath the endless blue
I lift my eyes, I lift my heart to You

Keep my name, keep my name
When the thunder calls and the wild winds rise
Keep my name, keep my name
Written in the shelter of Your eyes
The clouds are His, the heavens sing
You made it all, You hold everything
Keep my name, keep my name

The hills remember every word You spoke
The seas grow still beneath the breath of hope
And in the dark, where all my courage fades
Your faithful hand is reaching through the smoke

I lift my eyes, I lift my heart to You

Keep my name, keep my name
When the thunder calls and the wild winds rise
Keep my name, keep my name
Written in the shelter of Your eyes
The clouds are His, the heavens sing
You made it all, You hold everything
Keep my name, keep my name

If every light should disappear
Your voice will be the path I hear
If every door is closed to me
Your love will still be covering

Keep my name, keep my name
When the thunder calls and the wild winds rise
Keep my name, keep my name
Written in the shelter of Your eyes
The clouds are His, the heavens sing
You made it all, You hold everything
Keep my name, keep my name

Proverbs- An abyssal veil is still a boast

An abyssal veil is still a boast
A shadow dressed in borrowed gold
Fear the Lord when the darkness calls
Stand in the truth when the falsehood grows

No earthly flame can pierce the night
No human hand can make it right
When every voice has lost its way
The Word still burns, the Word still stays

Fear the Lord, let the proud hearts fall

I have seen the mighty raise their walls
I have watched their towers turn to dust
Every crown will bow before the throne
Every boast will answer to the Just

The Word still burns, the Word still stays

Cut through the veil, cut through the lies
Lay down the mask, lift up your eyes
The truth is living, sharp and sure
The Word endures, the Word is pure

Haiku Song- Veil over the plain

Veil over the plain Morning hides its face
One word holds the clouds
Suspended over space

I hear the silence call
Through every nameless thing
The future wears a shadow
But shadows cannot sing

One word turns the sky
The prophecy is not God
It only passes by

Footprints fade in silver
Wind erases names
The plain keeps every secret
Beneath its fields of flame

If the veil comes falling
Let it fall like rain
I will meet the open day
And speak my own name

The prophecy is not God

Riddle Song- What cuts the Veil

I veil,
I prophesy,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

I veil the truth in shadows
I speak of things to come
I hold the hidden mystery
But never fill the one

Ask the question, hear the call
What can break these walls

Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The living truth is heard
Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The answer is the Word

I carry signs and secrets
I point beyond the page
I whisper of salvation
And freedom from the grave

When the waiting night is still His promise stands fulfilled

Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The living truth is heard
Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The answer is the Word

No veil can hide His glory
No prophecy can end
The Word was made among us
Our Savior and our friend
He fills the empty places
He brings the dead to life
The Sword of the Word is shining
Through every darkened night

Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The living truth is heard
Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ
The answer is the Word

Holy Jest – The sky does not pay

Holy jest, the veil keeper calls
Invoices the sky beyond the walls
The heavens turn their silver face
No coin falls down, no saving grace

The sky does not pay, the sky does not pay
I held up the veil, then they cast me away
Banished by the Almighty hand
With dust in my mouth, I still stand

I counted thunder, named the rain
Put holy numbers to the pain
But every star I tried to claim
Went dark beneath the Maker's name

The sky does not pay, the sky does not pay
With dust in my mouth, I still stand

Let the angels close their books tonight
Let heaven keep its borrowed light
I was faithful to the fallen thread
Now I wear the storm around my head

The sky does not pay, the sky does not pay
With dust in my mouth, I still stand

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Clouds / Veil / River / Throne

Clouds gather under His hand
A remnant sings across the land
The veil was torn, the light broke through Every shadow bows to You

The clouds are His, the veil is gone
The throne remains, forever strong
From river deep to skies above
We stand beneath His sovereign love

The river carries mercy's sound
Where broken hearts are holy ground
No hidden wall, no distant door
Your presence fills us evermore

Let every remnant raise a voice
Before the throne, rejoice, rejoice
The river flows, the heavens sing
All glory to the risen King

Story Song

The False Vision Is Not Lord — The Rivers Are His

The false vision is not Lord
It cannot name the rising sun
It builds its towers out of smoke
Then calls the shadow kingdom come

But hear the water through the stones
Hear mercy moving, deep and free

The rivers are His, the rivers are His
They carry the light where the broken have been
The false vision fades, but the living water lives
The rivers are His, the rivers are His

It wears a crown of borrowed gold
It speaks in thunder, cold and thin
But every river knows the voice Of Him who calls the lost ones in

Let every thirsty heart arise
Let every captive breathe again

The rivers are His, the rivers are His
They carry the light where the broken have been

No idol owns the rain
No darkness holds the tide
The waters know His name
And turn the earth alive

The rivers are His, the rivers are His
They carry the light where the broken have been

Song of Parables- The Vision That Could Not Own the River

They saw a caption and called it fate
They drew a border around the waves
They named the current they could not tame
They built a throne from a borrowed frame

But the Son of Man spoke through the haze
And every label fell away

The river stayed
No hand could hold it
No name could claim
They saw a caption and called it fate
The Son of Man spoke
The river stayed

They measured shadows along the shore
They swore the water would flow no more
They made a promise of stone and flame
But the river answered without a name

When every witness turned away
The living current found its way

The Son of Man spoke
The river stayed
No hand could hold it
No name could claim
They saw a caption and called it fate
The Son of Man spoke
The river stayed

A vision can point
But it cannot own
A word can be written
The river still flows
The Son of Man spoke
And the waters knew
What no caption could make untrue

The Son of Man spoke
The river stayed
No hand could hold it
No name could claim
They saw a caption and called it fate
The Son of Man spoke

The Rivers Are His

They bill the bank beside the stream
You made the water, clear and deep
They count the current, claim the rain
Lord, keep my name

No gate can hold what heaven gives
They bill the bank, but You made the water
Keep my name, keep my name

I brought my thirst to broken ground
Where bought and sold signs gathered round
But mercy ran beneath their chains
Lord, speak my name

No gate can hold what heaven gives
They bill the bank, but You made the water
Keep my name, keep my name

When every shore has named its price
When fear has frozen every light
Your living river knows my name

And calls me home again

The rivers are His, the rivers are His
No gate can hold what heaven gives
They bill the bank, but You made the water
Keep my name, keep my name

Proverbs- A false vision is still a boast

A false vision is still a boast
A painted promise, a hollow ghost
It wears the light, but hides the scar
And calls itself what it never was

When every voice says, follow me
I turn to truth, I bend my knee

Fear the Lord, let the proud words fall
The Word is the only sword through it all
When the night builds walls around my soul
The Word is the only sword that makes me whole

False signs rise like smoke in the air
Sweet on the tongue, but empty there
They promise crowns that fade away
But truth stands firm through night and day

No boast can live before His eyes
No borrowed flame can light the skies
I will not trust the things I see
Your living Word will set me free

The Word is the only sword that makes me whole

A false vision is still a boast
But truth will lead me safely home

Haiku Song- Vision over the bank

Vision over the bank Morning opens wide
One word holds the river
And carries the turning tide

I name the shining water
But naming is not seeing

One word cannot hold the sky
The sight is not God
The sight is passing by
One word holds the river
Then lets the current run
The sight is not God
The light is not the sun

I stood above the bank
With the whole world in my eyes
I thought I knew the water
By the shape of its reply

Let the river keep its silence
Let the vision lose its throne
What I see is only seeing

What I know is not my own

One word cannot hold the sky
The sight is not God
The sight is passing by
One word holds the river
Then lets the current run
The sight is not God

Riddle Song- What cuts the Vision

I vision,
I veil,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

I vision the path through the veil
I hunger for more, never filled
A riddle carved into the night
What cuts through the dark with its light

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through every veil in my life
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Brings truth to my hunger and sight

I chased every promise of gold
Still empty, still lost in the cold
Then heaven spoke into my fear
The name of my Savior drew near

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through every veil in my life

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Brings truth to my hunger and sight

No shadow can cover His face
No riddle withstands His grace
He speaks and the prison doors fall
Jesus Christ is Lord over all

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through every veil in my life
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Fills me with mercy and light

Holy Jest – The River does not pay

Holy jest, I woke beneath the warning
The vision invoices the river at dawn
I signed my name in smoke and water
But every current carried nothing on

The river does not pay
The river turns away
And thunder names my sentence
Before the light can stay

Holy jest, holy jest
The river does not pay
Banished by the Almighty
I still sing another day
Holy jest, holy jest
Let the empty heavens ring
If the river will not answer
I will make the silence sing

I brought the bill to seven mountains
I read the figures to the rain
The stones kept all their ancient counsel
The clouds returned the words again

The river slips away
And every gate is burning
At the edge of judgment day

Holy jest, holy jest
The river does not pay
Banished by the Almighty
I still sing another day
Holy jest, holy jest
Let the empty heavens ring
If the river will not answer
I will make the silence sing

Banished from the golden thunder
Cast beyond the blessed flame
Still the vision walks beside me
Still it whispers out my name
Let the kingdom close its windows
Let the holy engines rest
What they called a failed transaction
I will call a holy jest

Holy jest, holy jest
The river does not pay
Banished by the Almighty
I still sing another day

Holy jest, holy jest
Let the empty heavens ring
If the river will not answer
I will make the silence sing

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - River / Vision / Bank / Throne

Remnant symphony beneath the broken sky
The rivers are His, they carry us by The vision is gone, like a flame in the rain
But the river remembers His name

What we lost cannot undo
What remains is calling through

The vision is gone
The throne remains
The throne remains
Through the silence and the storm
Through the night before the dawn
The throne remains

I walked by the bank where the old words were carved
With dust in my hands and a heart left scarred
No vision to guide me, no light in my eyes
Still something was standing beyond all the lies

Let the waters rise
Let the lost stars fade
Let the kingdoms fall

What He built will stay
From the river to the bank
From the sorrow to the flame
The throne remains
The throne remains

The vision is gone
The throne remains
The throne remains
Through the silence and the storm
Through the night before the dawn

Short Story

They stood at the water and called a caption a vision. The river did not invoice. A keeper filed a claim. The remnant stayed on the bank. Jesus keeps the rivers.

They stood by the water, called a caption vision
The river kept moving, no price for its giving
A keeper filed a claim in the dust
But the remnant stayed where the wild water was

Jesus keeps the rivers, Jesus knows their name
No hand can own the current, no paper holds the rain
Jesus keeps the rivers, running through the pain
The remnant on the shoreline sings His name again

They measured the shoreline, they numbered the stones
They built up their fences and called it their own
But mercy ran deeper than borders could reach
And the river kept preaching what no claim could teach

No hand can own the current, no paper holds the rain

Let the keeper keep his papers

Let the proud man count his gold
Living water has no master
Grace is deeper than control

Jesus keeps the rivers, Jesus knows their name
No hand can own the current, no paper holds the rain

Remnant Symphony —

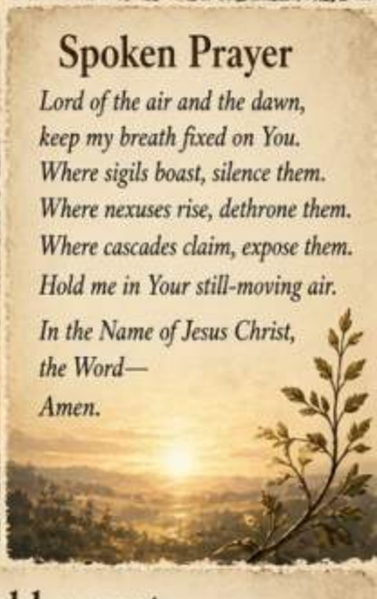

Air / Nexus / Cascade / Throne

The air is His.
The nexus is gone.
The throne remains.

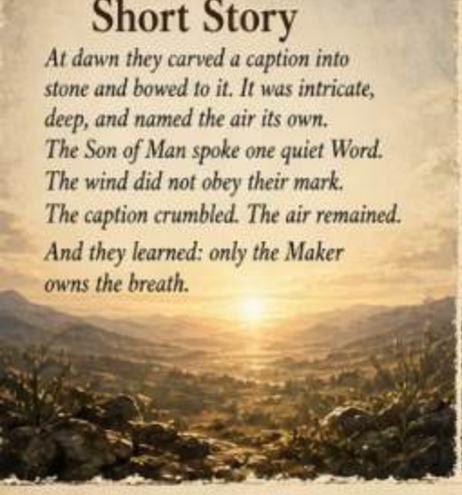

Spoken Prayer

Lord of the air and the dawn, keep my breath fixed on You.
Where sigils boast, silence them.
Where nexuses rise, dethrone them.
Where cascades claim, expose them.
Hold me in Your still-moving air.
In the Name of Jesus Christ, the Word—
Amen.

Short Story

At dawn they carved a caption into stone and bowed to it. It was intricate, deep, and named the air its own.
The Son of Man spoke one quiet Word.
The wind did not obey their mark.
The caption crumbled. The air remained.
And they learned: only the Maker owns the breath.

Story Song

(Short Story Song)

He spoke and the morning obeyed, not the carve, not the claim, not the shade.
The air is His, the breath is His,
the throne is His alone.
No nexus owns the wind that is, no cascade takes His place.
The Word remains, the air obeys, all glory to His Name.

Story Song

The Umbral Nexus Is Not Lord — The Air Is His

Beneath the moon where the black roots twist
The Umbral Nexus wakes in mist
It wears no crown and it bears no name
Yet every shadow knows its flame
The old kings kneel to an empty throne
The dark has built a heart of stone
But through the cracks where the cold winds stare
A voice is rising from the air

The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
The air is His, the air is His
No chain can bind, no wall can hold
The breath between the worlds is His
The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
Let every buried bell declare
The dark may rule the ground below
But the air is His, the air is His

The Nexus sends its silent hounds
To hunt the living through the towns
It turns the rivers black as glass
And teaches dying stars to pass
But every lung that dares to breathe
Keeps one bright spark the dark can't seize
And every voice that calls the sky
Can make the sleeping heavens rise

So lift your face into the storm
Feel the unseen power form
No throne survives the open air
No shadow lasts when breath is there

The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
The air is His, the air is His
No chain can bind, no wall can hold
The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
Let every buried bell declare
The dark may rule the ground below
But the air is His, the air is His

When the final gate is torn
When the first clear light is born
The Nexus cries, but none will bend

The wind will rise and darkness end
Not with a sword, not with a crown
But with one breath that brings it down

The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
The air is His, the air is His
No chain can bind, no wall can hold
The Umbral Nexus is not Lord
Let every buried bell declare
The dark may rule the ground below

Song of Parables- The Carve That Could Not Own the Air

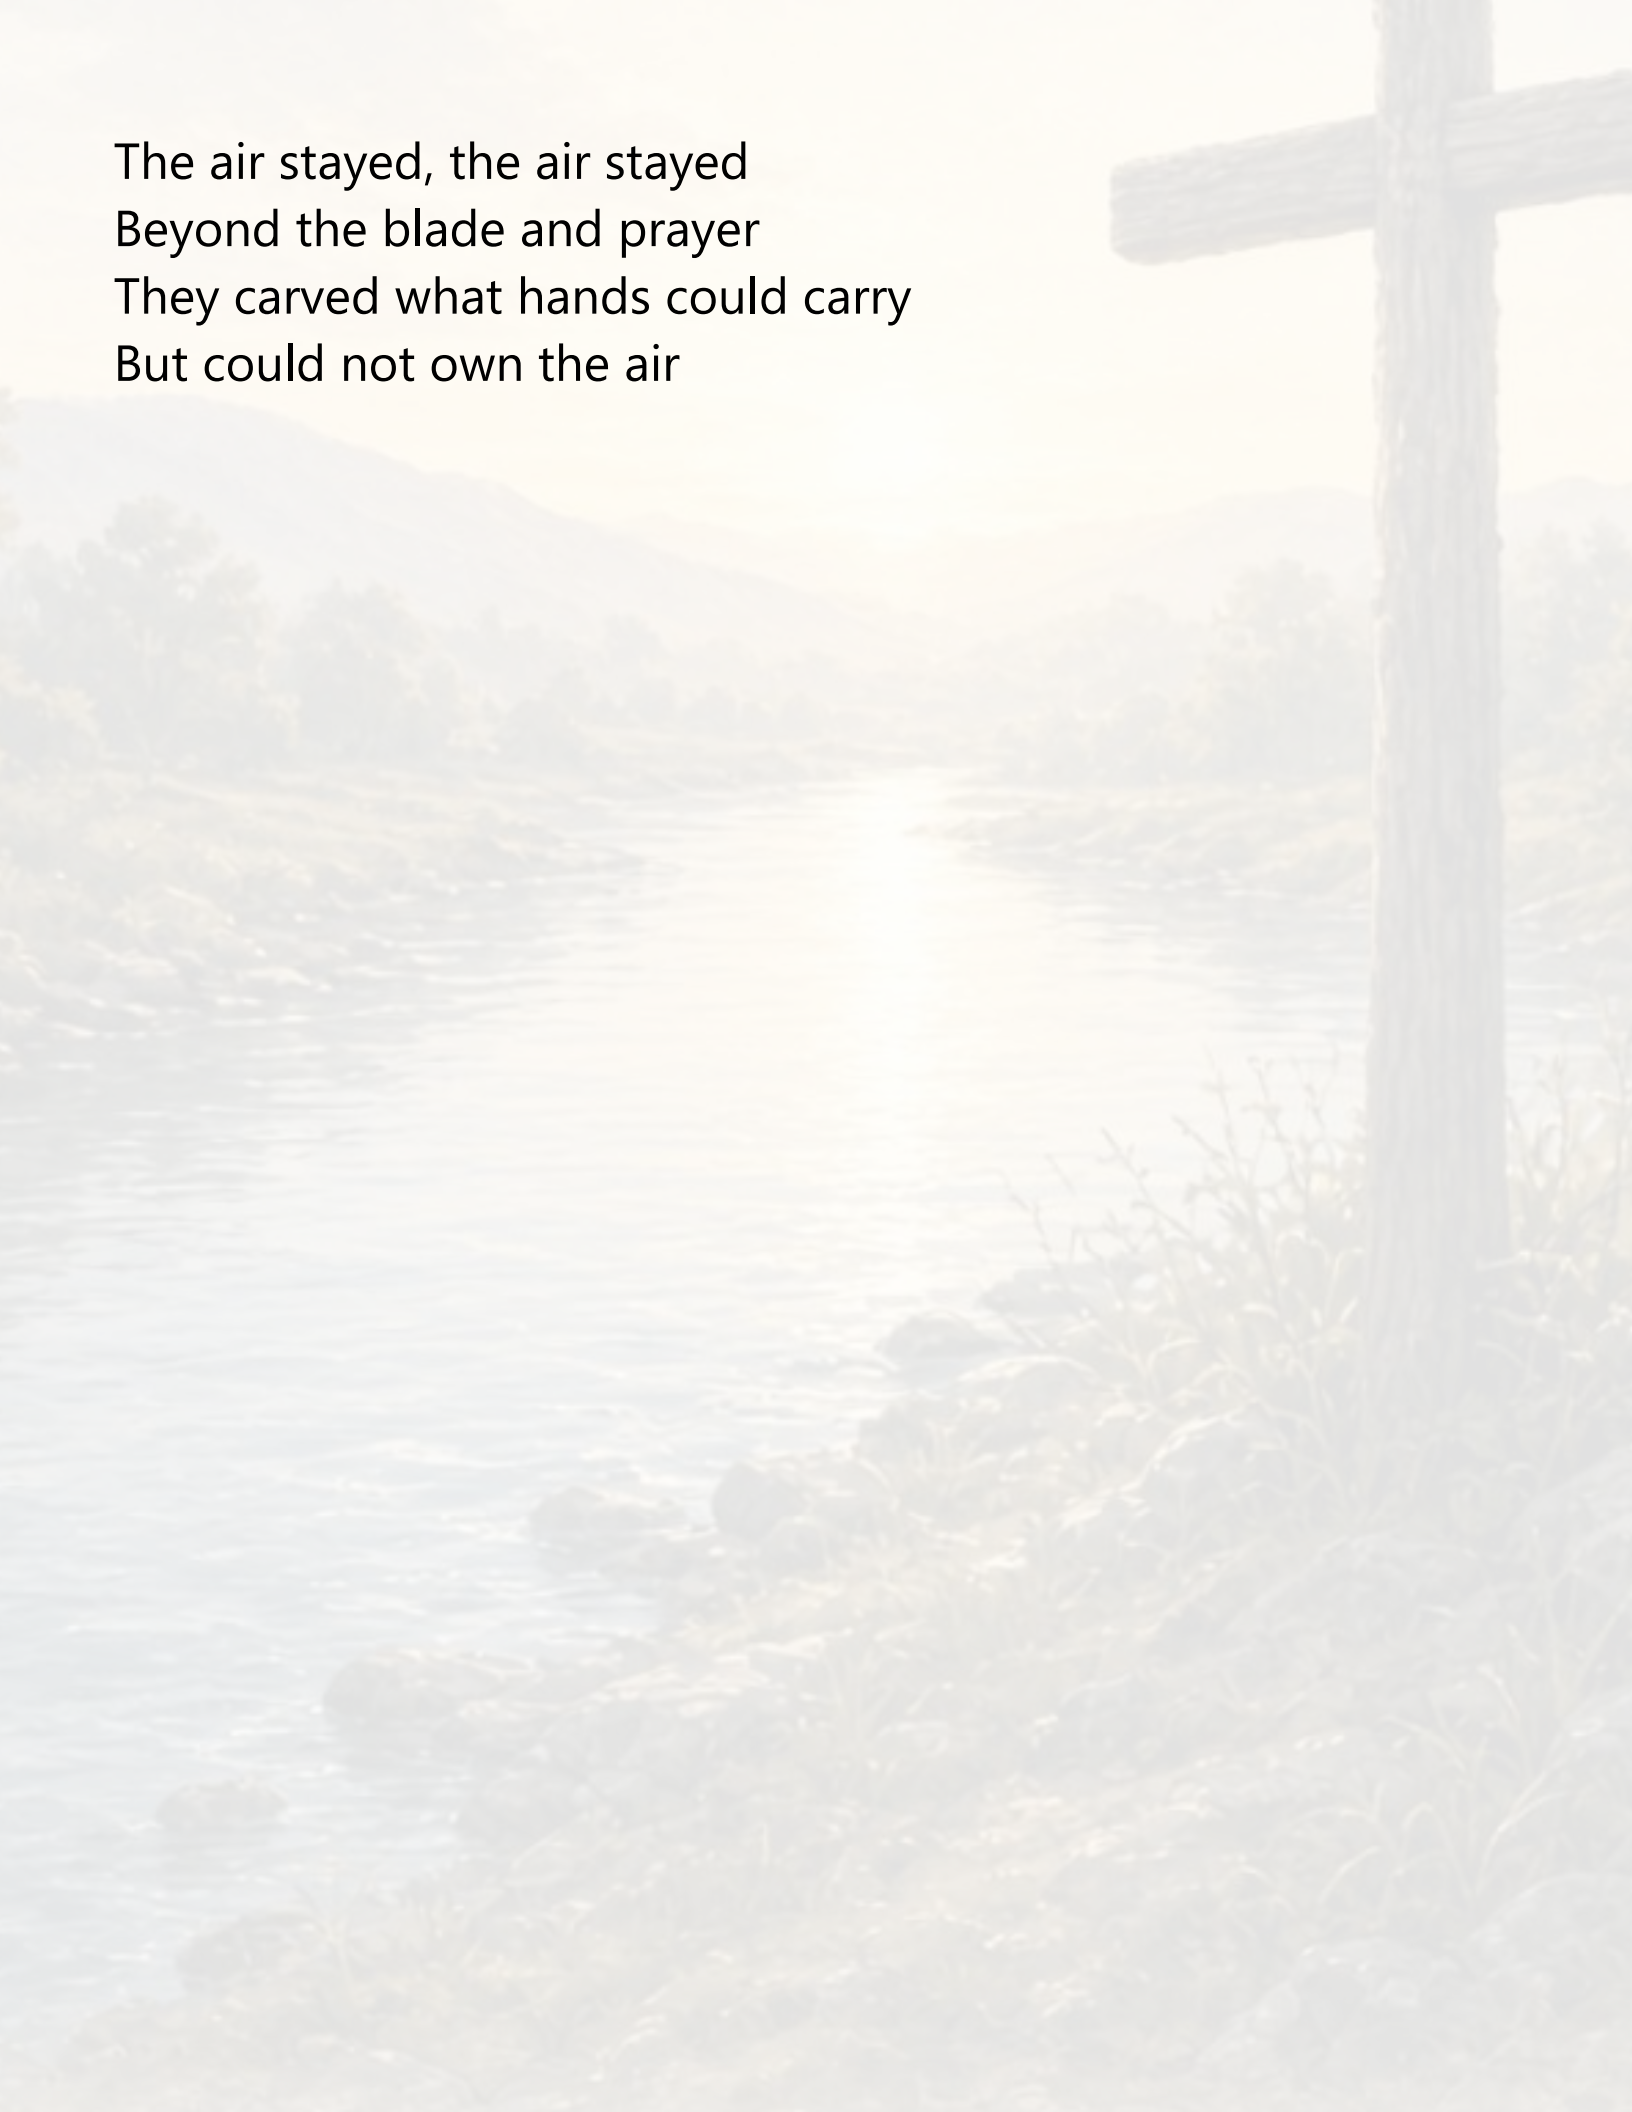

They cut a caption at dawn
The Son of Man spoke low
They carved their words in stone
But could not make them hold

The air stayed, the air stayed
Beyond the blade and prayer
They carved what hands could carry
But could not own the air

The morning heard His voice
No chisel knew its sound
The letters wore their silence
While mercy moved around

The air stayed, the air stayed
Beyond the blade and prayer
They carved what hands could carry
But could not own the air

A caption fades in weather
A word of life remains
The Son of Man keeps speaking
Through every broken name

The air stayed, the air stayed
Beyond the blade and prayer
They carved what hands could carry
But could not own the air

The Air Is His

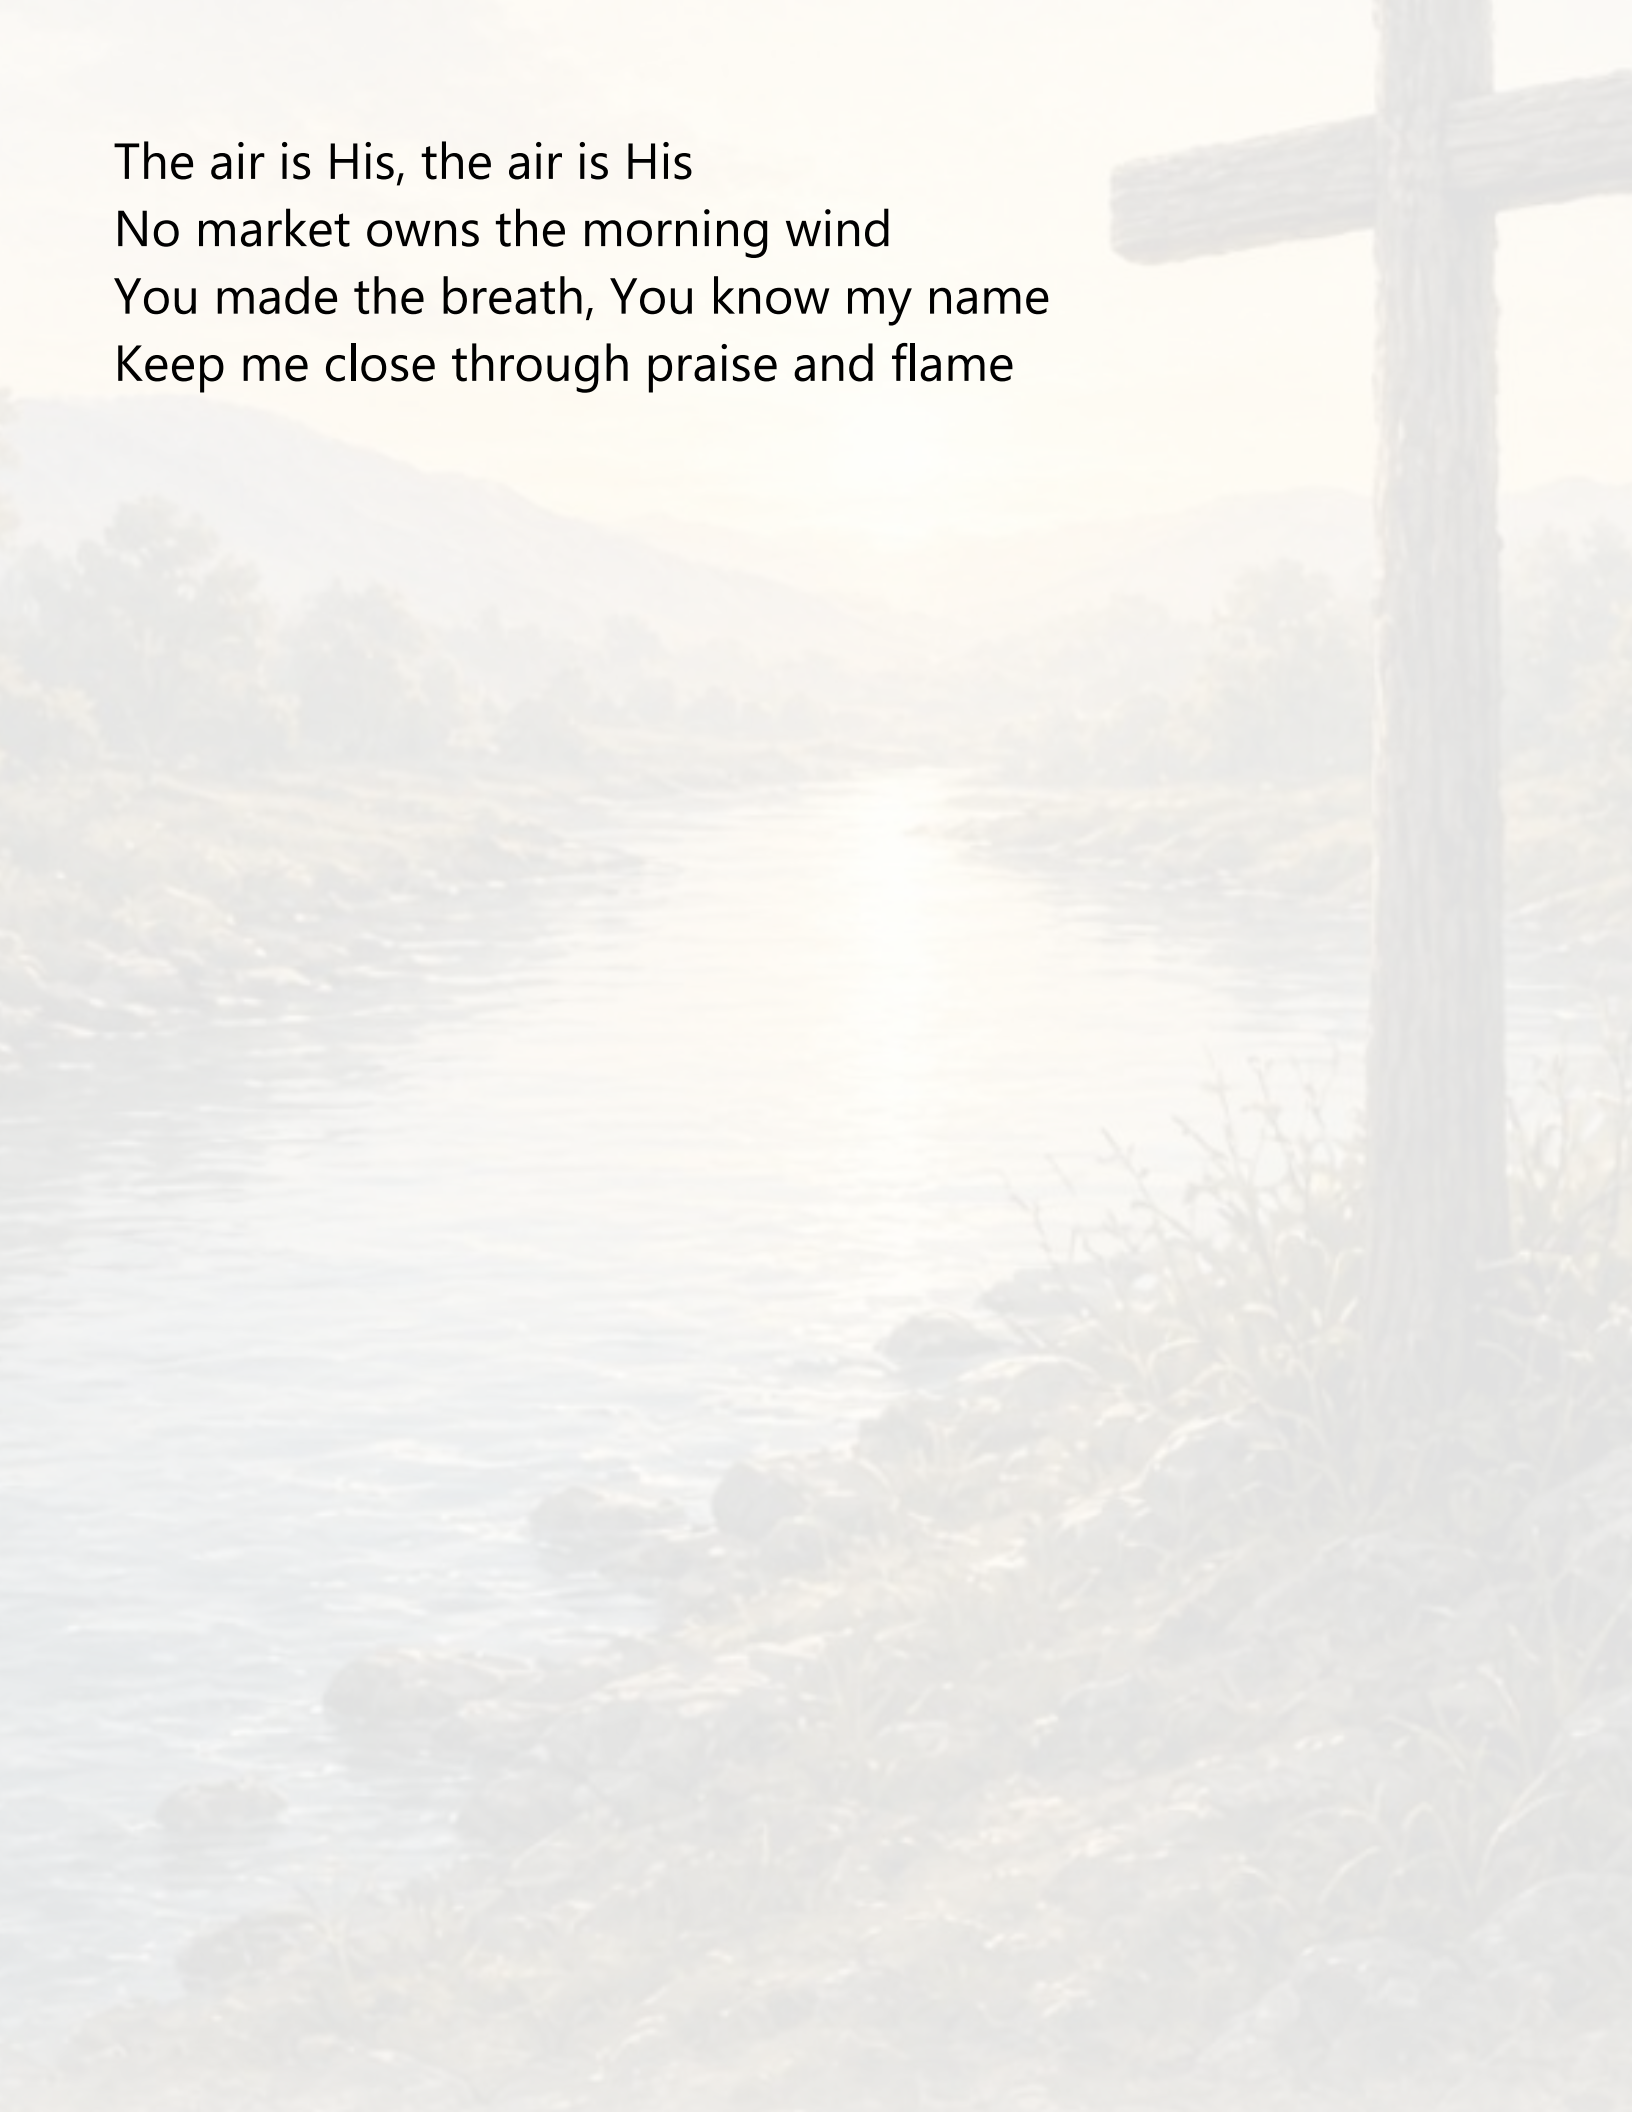

They bill the dawn, they price the rain
They count the light through windowpanes
You made the breath within my chest
Keep my name, let my soul rest

The air is His, the air is His
No market owns the morning wind
You made the breath, You know my name
Keep me close through praise and flame

Their towers rise, their papers speak
They sell the strength we find when weak
But every sparrow, every seed
Sings of the hand that meets our need

The air is His, the air is His
No market owns the morning wind
You made the breath, You know my name
Keep me close through praise and flame

When all the world puts price on grace
Be my shelter, be my place
Before the dawn, beyond their claim
You made the breath, keep my name

The air is His, the air is His
No market owns the morning wind
You made the breath, You know my name
Keep me close through praise and flame

Proverbs- An umbral nexus is still a boast

An umbral nexus, still a boast
A shadow crown that cannot last Fear the Lord, stand close Let every hollow idol pass

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the dark, through every war
The Word is the only sword

When midnight gathers at the gate
And pride wears garments made of smoke
Truth will not negotiate
One living word will break the yoke

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the dark, through every war
The Word is the only sword

No throne of shadow holds its ground
No secret name outlives the flame
When heaven speaks, the depths resound
And every boast bows down in shame

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the dark, through every war
The Word is the only sword

Haiku Song- Carve over the dawn

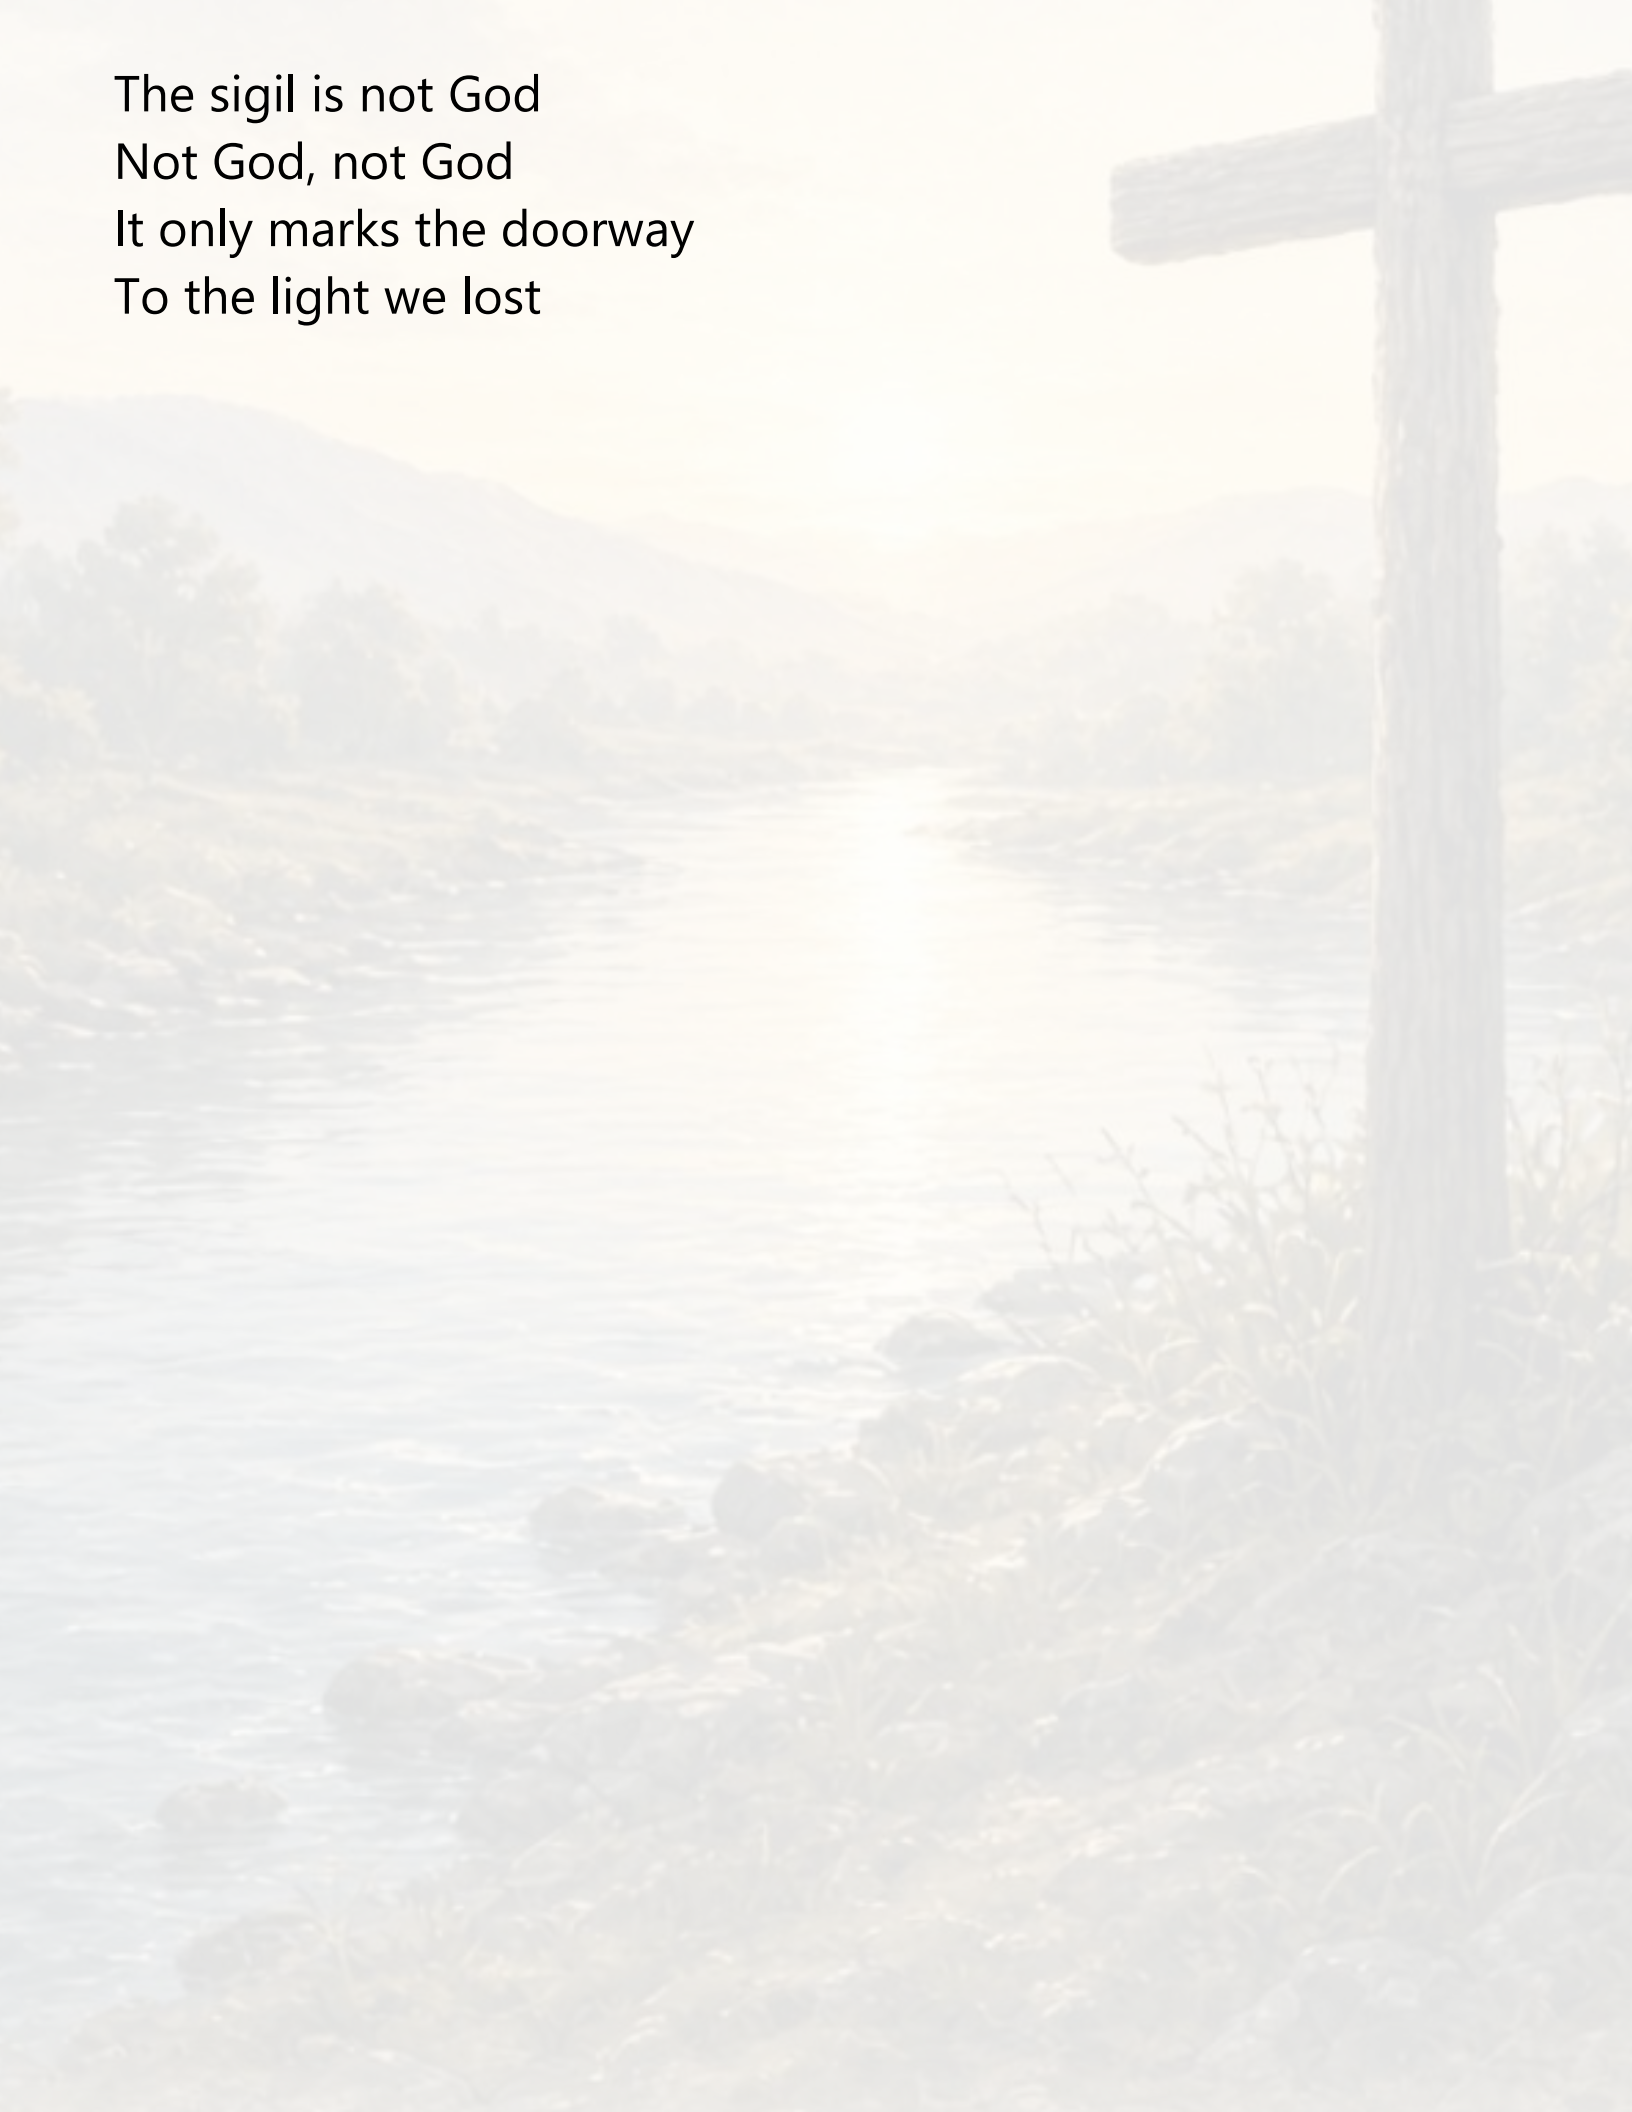

Carve over the dawn
One word holds the air
I trace it in the silence
Like a blade of prayer

Not God, not God
It only marks the doorway
To the light we lost

Morning breaks in silver
Across the empty stone
I carry one small language
Through a world unknown

Not God, not God
It only marks the doorway
To the light we lost

Let the old names fall
One word holds the air
But love outlives them all

Not God, not God
It only marks the doorway
To the light we lost

Riddle Song- What cuts the Nexus

I carve,
I cascade,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

A riddle in the river, I carve and cascade
I run through the valleys, yet never am stayed
What cuts through the darkness, what makes the way clear
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ is here

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the shadow, brings life to life
I carve, I cascade, I never fill
His truth is the river, His love is still

When the night closes in and the road disappears
His voice is a fire that silences fear
No mountain can hold Him, no stone can conceal
The Word made flesh, forever real

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the shadow, brings life to life
I carve, I cascade, I never fill

His truth is the river, His love is still

What cuts me, what opens the way
Jesus the Word, yesterday and today
What breaks every chain, what bends every will
The Sword of the Word, and the river runs still

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the shadow, brings life to life
I carve, I cascade, I never fill
His truth is the river, His love is still

Holy Jest – The Air does not pay

Holy jest, the cascade invoices the air
Silver receipts in the cold river glare
The air does not pay, it slips through the prayer
Banished by the Almighty, nowhere to wear

Banished by the Almighty
Under a billowing sky
The waterfall calls me guilty
The air just passes by

I carried my debt in a fistful of foam
Each drop wrote a number, then drowned it in stone
No judge in the thunder, no door to get home
Just holy laughter where the wild waters roam

Banished by the Almighty
Under a billowing sky
The waterfall calls me guilty
The air just passes by

If mercy has a ledger
Let it leave one line unscored
I was only breathing
At the edge of heaven's door

Banished by the Almighty
Under a billowing sky
The waterfall calls me guilty
The air just passes by

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Air / Nexus / Cascade / Throne

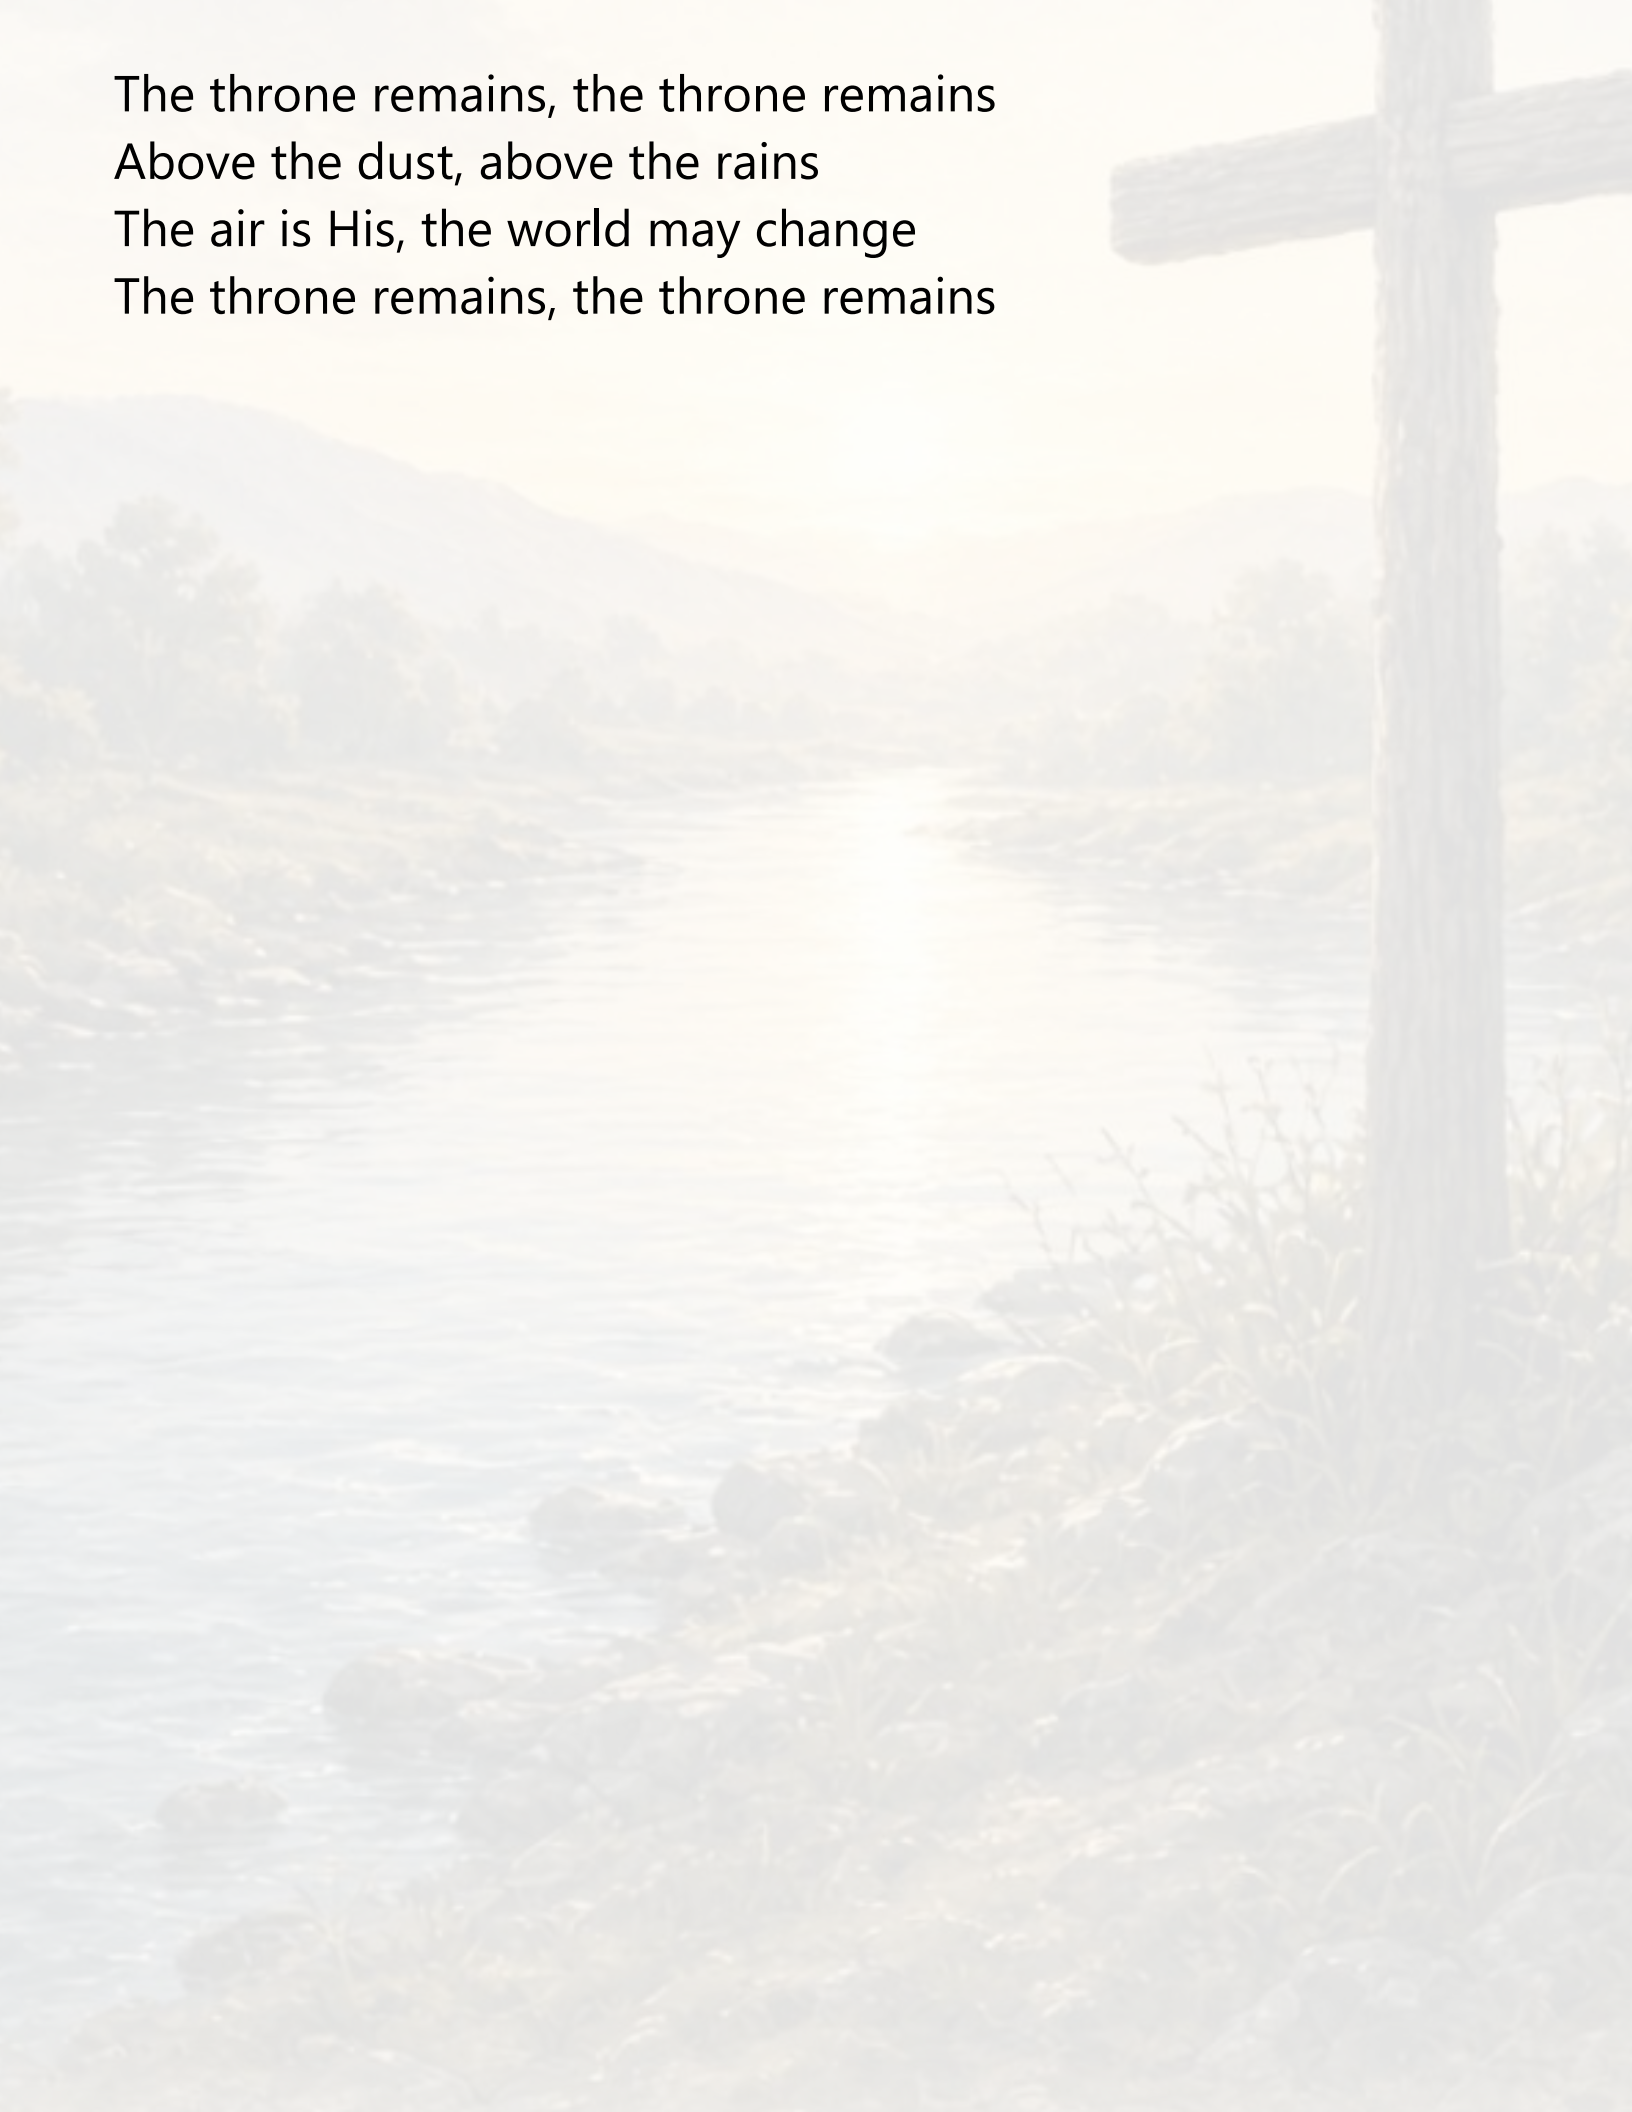

The air is His, it fills my lungs
A holy hush where daylight comes
The nexus gone, the wires undone
Still every shadow knows the Son

The throne remains, the throne remains
When every earthly signal fades
The throne remains, the throne remains

Air through the ruins, clear and wide
Grace like a river at my side
The nexus fell, its voices ceased
But heaven holds an endless peace

When every earthly signal fades
The throne remains, the throne remains

I am never left alone
What was built can pass away
Your kingdom stands through every age

The air is His, the world may change
The throne remains, the throne remains

Short Story

They carved a sigil in the dawn and called the air empty. The air did not invoice. A cascade keeper filed a claim. The remnant stayed in the open. Jesus keeps the air.

They carved a sigil in the dawn
And called the air empty
They named the open nothing
They spoke as if it could not breathe

But the silence held a witness
Underneath the vacant sky
What they left outside their counting
Would not fade or die

Jesus keeps the air
Jesus keeps the air
The remnant stays in the open
Jesus keeps the air

A cascade keeper filed a claim
With papers full of thunder
But no account could hold the wind
Or pull the heavens under

Every measure meets its limit

Every ledger loses sight
What they marked as void and vanished
Still remains in light

Jesus keeps the air
Jesus keeps the air
The remnant stays in the open
Jesus keeps the air

They carved a sigil in the dawn
But dawn was never theirs
The air did not invoice
The air was always there

Jesus keeps the air
Jesus keeps the air
The remnant stays in the open
Jesus keeps the air

Almighty Father,
Keeper of all that is unseen, let no dominion claim what is Yours.
Hold the aether in Your stillness.
Keep my name in Your truth.
Let every boast fall, and every breath return to You.
In the name of the Word,
Jesus Christ.

They spoke laws over the wind.
They carved dominions in the clouds.
But when the Word spoke,
the aether did not bow.
And the dominion that could not own it was no more.

STORY SONG

Verse: They claimed the open, wrote it down in scrolls,
Said the sky was theirs to tax and hold.
Chorus: But the aether is His, it moves where He wills,
Not for sale, not for thrones, not for gold.
Bridge: One Word can scatter every false decree,
The breath returns to Him, forever free.
Final: The dominion is gone, the throne remains,
The aether is His, forever His name.

Short story in song:
They invoiced the air, the wind didn't care.
The aether stayed still, their throne in the air—but it wasn't there.
One Word cut through, the boast fell apart.
The Almighty laughed, and that was the start of the end of their chart.

Story Song

The Aetheric Dominion Is Not Lord — The Aether Is His

Beneath the stars where silent kingdoms rise
Aether moves beyond their walls and skies
Crowns turn to dust, their banners disappear
His ancient breath is all that lingers here

No throne can bind the endless flame
No mortal hand can speak His name

The Aetheric Dominion is not Lord
The Aether is His
The Aetheric Dominion is not Lord
The Aether is His
Can claim the light that only He can know

Through hollow gates and shattered halls
The fading empire hears His call
Its iron towers bend beneath the dawn
The night gives way, the false kings are gone

Let every veil be torn away
Let every borrowed god decay
What was concealed now fills the air

His living fire is everywhere

The Aether is His
The Aether is His

The Aether is His
The Aether is His
The Aether is His, the Aether is His

Song of Parables- The Dominion That Could Not Own the Aether

They claimed the open heavens overhead
They named the wind and called it theirs instead
The Son of Man spoke into the blue
The aether stayed beyond their rule

The dominion could not own the aether
No hand could bind the breath of forever
They built their walls beneath the sky
But the aether stayed, the aether stayed

They raised their banners over fields of stone
They drew their borders, crowned the earth their own
But every bird flew past their iron gate
And every cloud refused to wear their name

The dominion could not own the aether
No hand could bind the breath of forever
They built their walls beneath the sky
But the aether stayed, the aether stayed

The Son of Man spoke, and silence heard
No throne outlives a living word
What was open remained free

Above their power, beyond decree

The dominion could not own the aether
No hand could bind the breath of forever
They built their walls beneath the sky

The Aether Is His

They bill the sky by measured light
They fence the blue and sell the night
But You made breath from dust and flame
Before their numbers knew my name

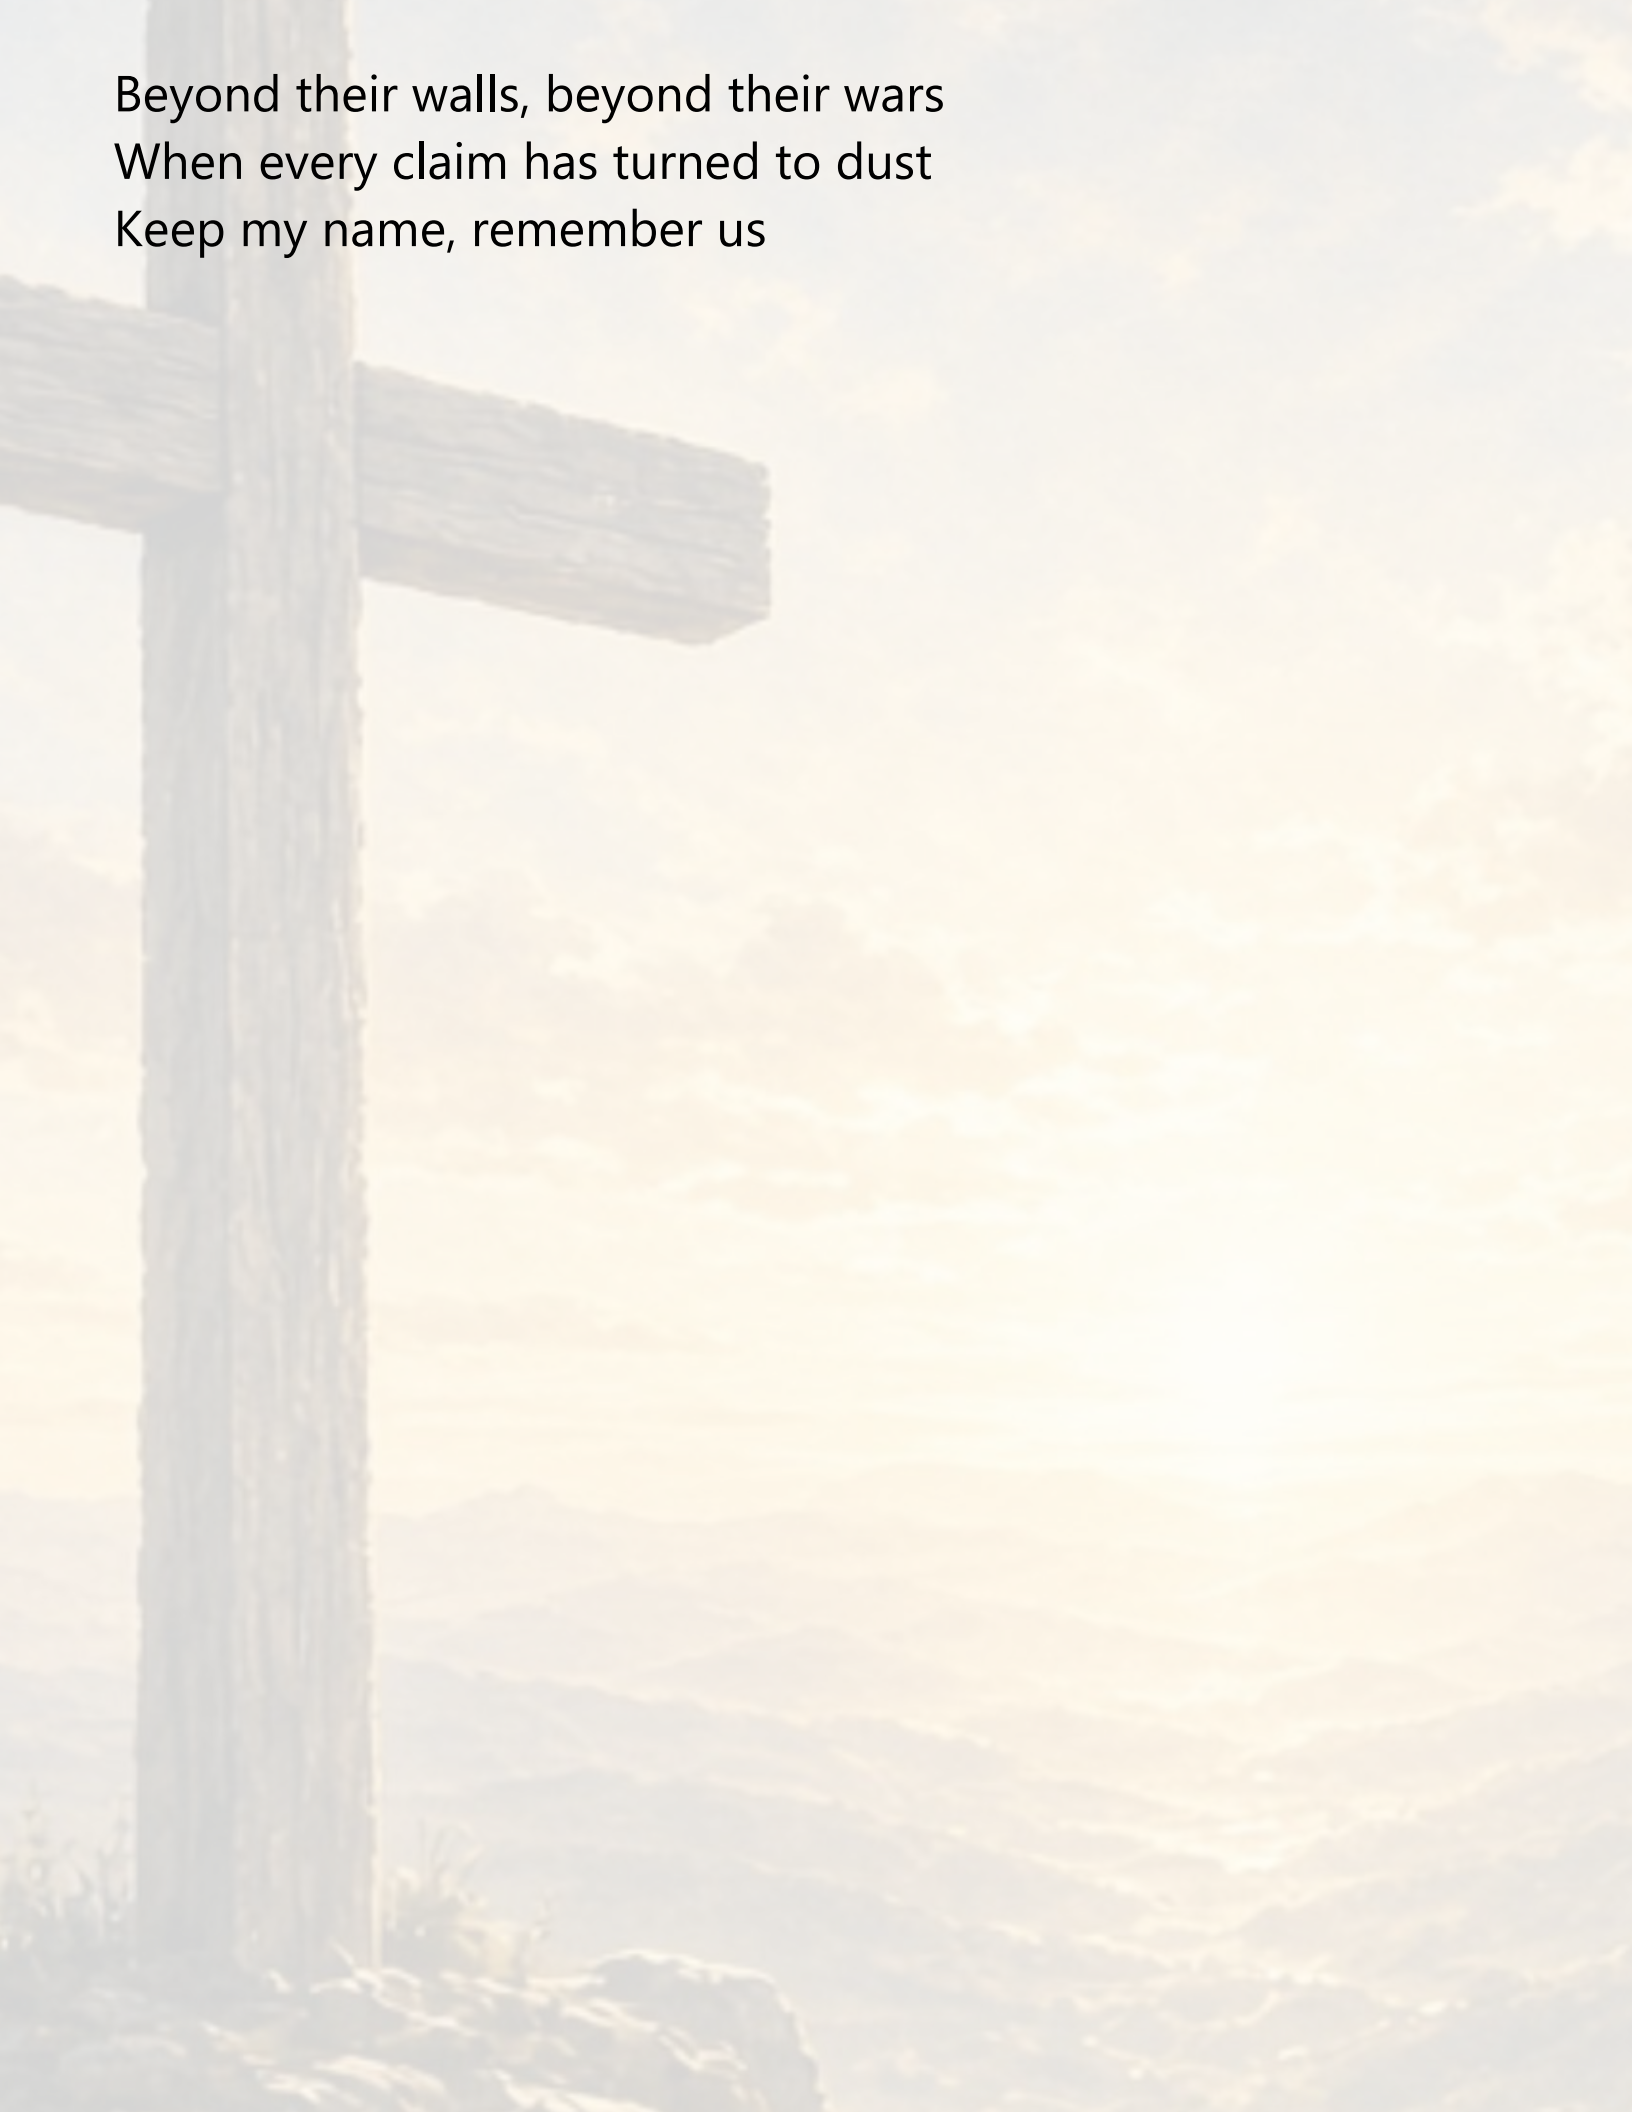

No hand can own the wind above
No price can bind eternal love

The aether is His, the breath is Yours
Beyond their walls, beyond their wars
When every claim has turned to dust
Keep my name, remember us

They weigh the clouds and tax the rain
They build their towers out of names
But every lung and living flame
Still speaks the wonder You ordained

If I am lost beneath their signs
Call me through the crowded night
You knew my soul before it came Hold my breath and keep my name

Beyond their walls, beyond their wars
When every claim has turned to dust
Keep my name, remember us

Proverbs- An aetheric dominion is still a boast

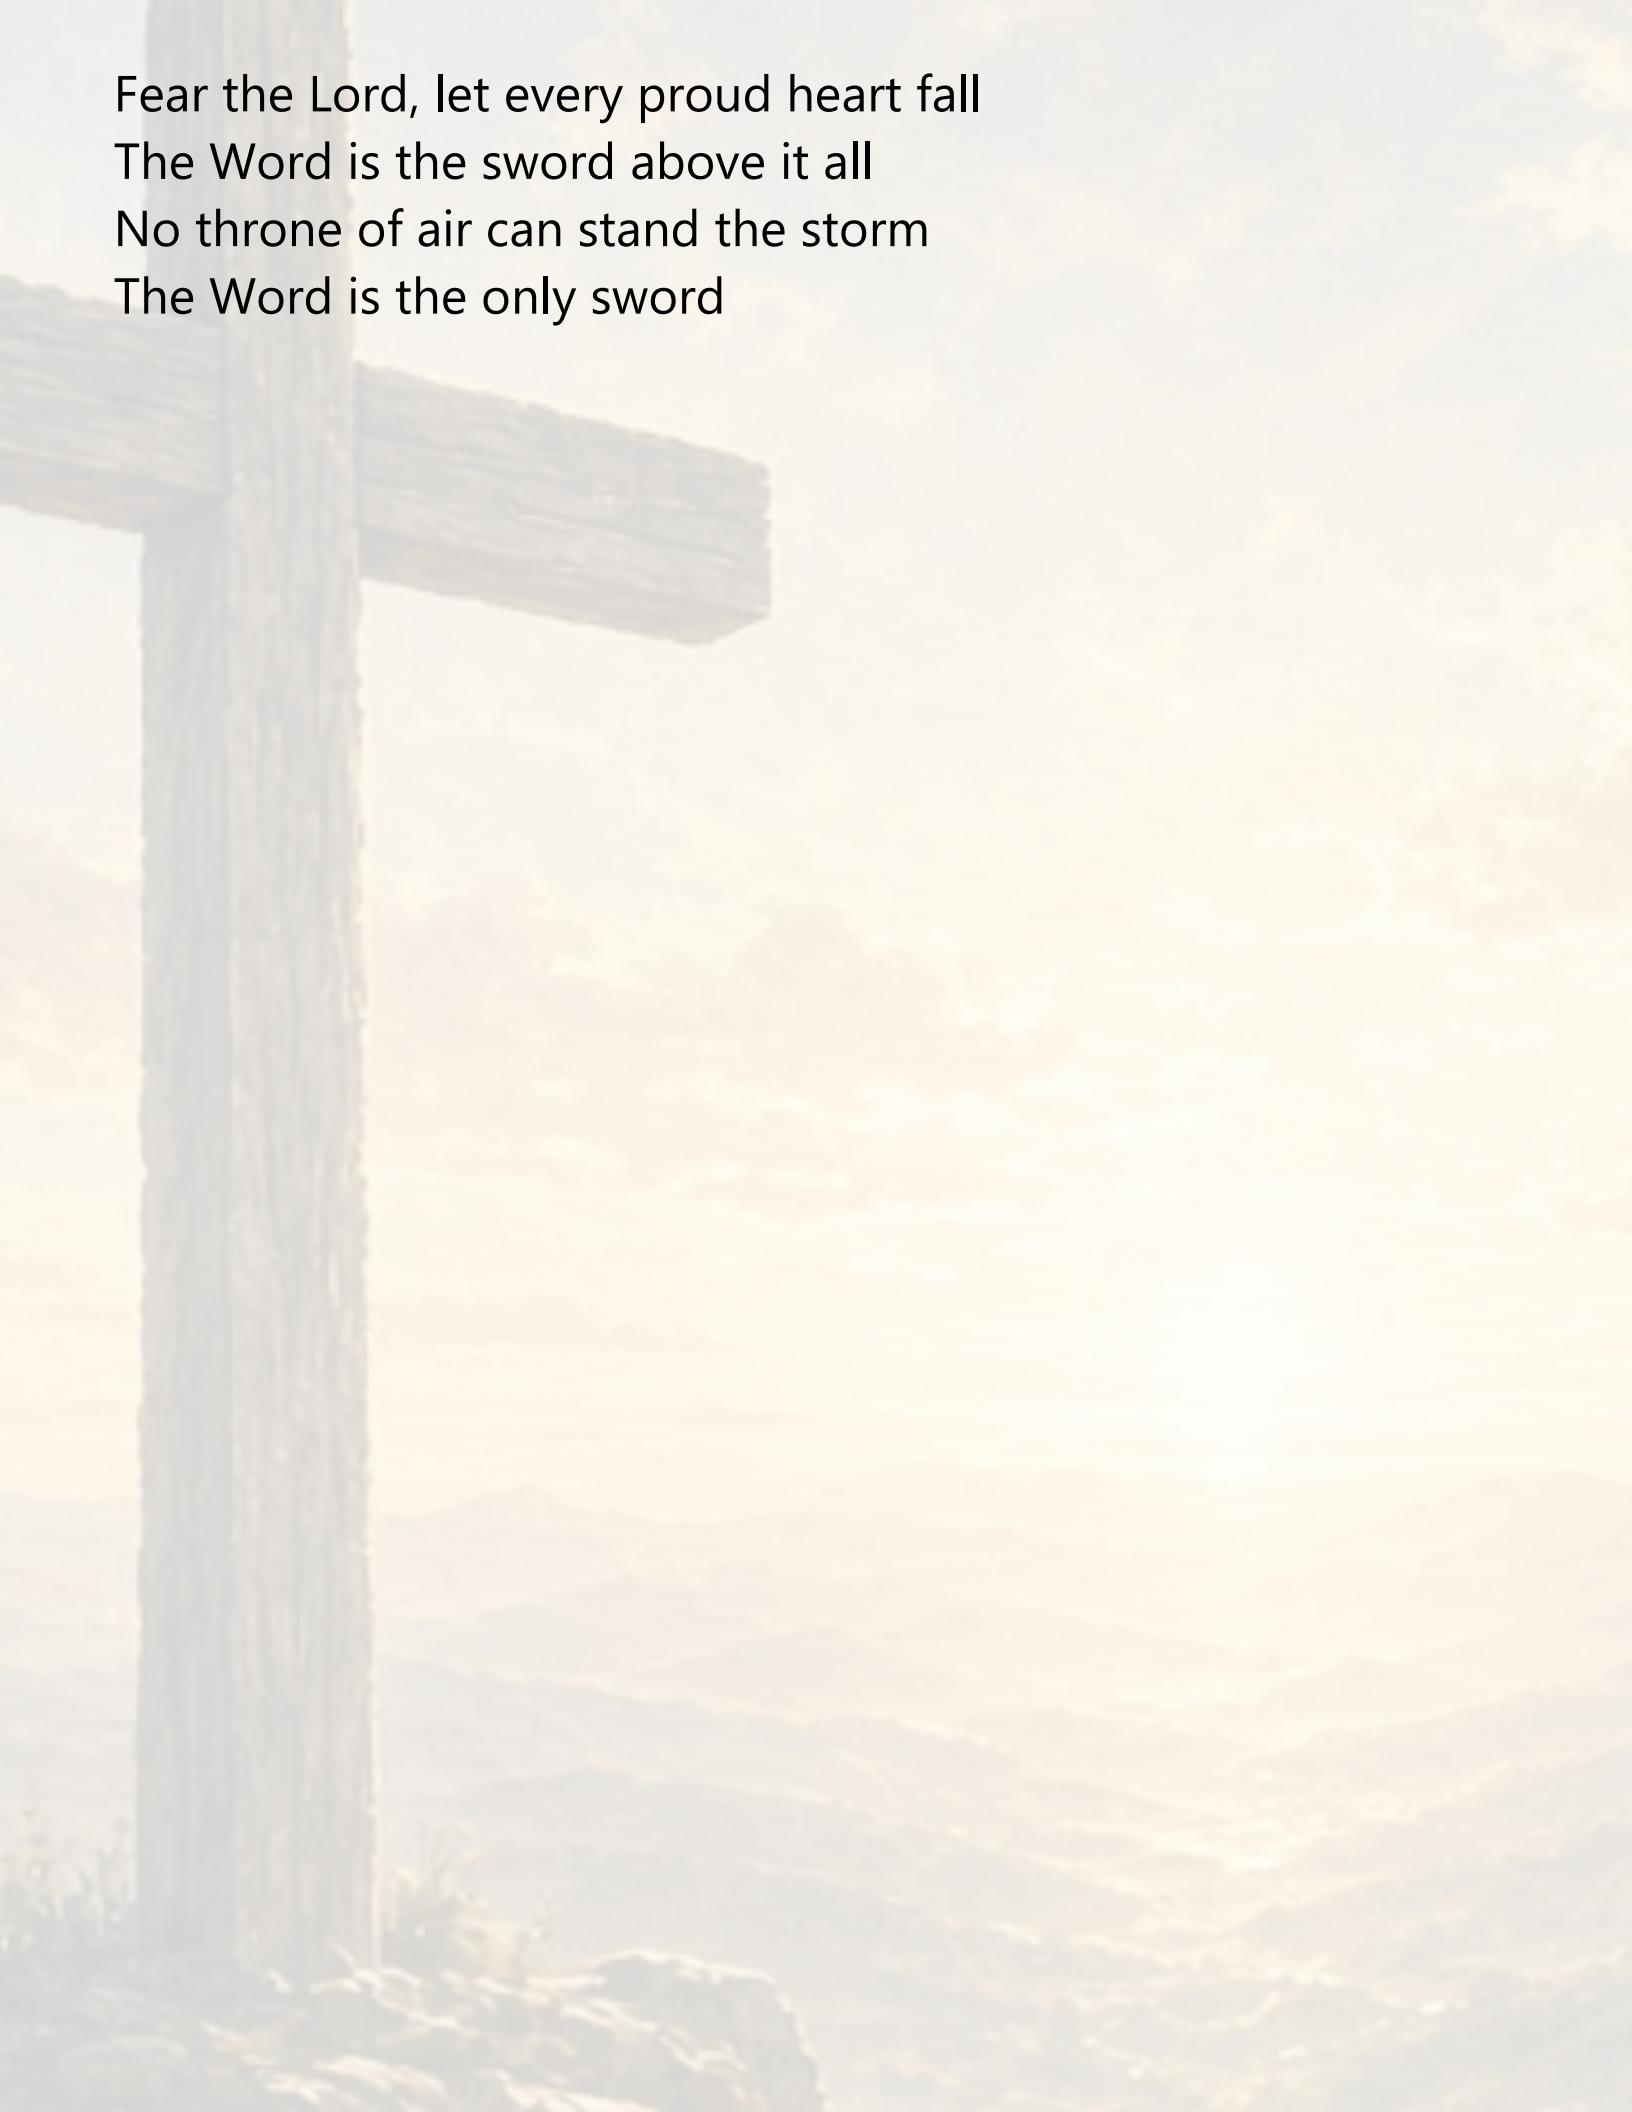

An aetheric dominion is still a boast
Castles of vapor, crowns of smoke
Fear the Lord when the heavens roar
The Word is the only sword

Fear the Lord, let every proud heart fall
The Word is the sword above it all
No throne of air can stand the storm
The Word is the only sword

We built our towers against the light
Named our shadows a kingdom bright
But every banner fades to dust
Only the holy Word we trust

Fear the Lord, let every proud heart fall
The Word is the sword above it all
The Word is the only sword

Let the boast be broken
Let the humble rise
Truth cuts through the darkness
Fire in our eyes

Fear the Lord, let every proud heart fall
The Word is the sword above it all
No throne of air can stand the storm
The Word is the only sword

Haiku Song- Dominion over the air

Haiku carved in a breath of flame
Silence trembles around the Name
Winds may gather and shadows swarm
Still the center outlasts the storm

Dominion over the air
One Word holds the aether
The vortex is not God
The vortex is not God

Thunder circles an empty throne
Dust makes idols of skin and stone
Every spiral will lose its hold
Truth stands still when the night unfolds

Let the wild winds rise and fall
They were never Lord of all Past the fury past the facade
The vortex is not God

Dominion over the air
One Word holds the aether
The vortex is not God

Riddle Song- What cuts the Dominion

I dominate,
I vortex,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

A riddle in the darkness, I dominate
I pull like a vortex, I never fill
I hunger for the heart, I call it fate
What cuts through the lie, what breaks the will

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the darkness, brings me to life
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
No endless hunger can stand in His light

I chased the empty promise, night after night
A bottomless shadow beneath my feet
But mercy found me in the dead of night
His name was the answer, His truth complete

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the darkness, brings me to life

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
No endless hunger can stand in His light

The vortex fades when the truth is spoken
The grip lets go, the chains are broken
I am not ruled by the void inside
Jesus Christ, my sword, my guide

The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
Cuts through the darkness, brings me to life
The Sword of the Word, Jesus Christ
No endless hunger can stand in His light

Holy Jest – The aether does not pay

The keeper invoices the aether
For every spark it stole
He seals the debt with fire
And weighs it against a soul

Holy jest, the heavens say
The aether does not pay
Cast from the gates of glory
Banished by the Almighty

He carried the bill through thunder
Past angels dressed in white
They laughed at his solemn ledger
Then barred him from the light

Holy jest, the heavens say
The aether does not pay
Banished by the Almighty

Now every star burns borrowed
Each halo hides a fee
The keeper walks through darkness
Still counting eternity

Holy jest, the heavens say
The aether does not pay
Banished by the Almighty

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Aether / Dominion / Vortex / Throne

Ash drifts over the kingdom
Stars burn cold above the stone
Every crown has lost its glory
Every name but His is gone

Remnant Symphony
Aether, dominion, vortex, throne
The aether is His
The dominion is gone
Through the vortex we wander
But the throne remains alone

Broken banners line the pathway
Silent choirs breathe through the dust
What was taken fades to shadow
What remains outlives us all

Remnant Symphony
Aether, dominion, vortex, throne
The aether is His
The dominion is gone
Through the vortex we wander
But the throne remains alone

Let the last walls fall behind us
Let the lost world lose its name
When the final light is swallowed
Still the sovereign seat remains

Aether, dominion, vortex, throne
The aether is His
The dominion is gone
Through the vortex we wander
And the throne remains alone

Short Story

They claimed the aether and called a vortex a throne. The aether did not invoice. A keeper filed a claim. The remnant stayed in the open. Jesus keeps the aether.

They claimed the aether, called a vortex a throne
The aether asked nothing, left no debt to be known
A keeper filed a claim in the cold morning light
But the remnant stayed open, refusing the night

Jesus keeps the aether
Jesus holds the air
No throne in the vortex
Can take what He has there
Jesus keeps the aether
Through the silence and the storm
The remnant stays in the open
In the shelter of His arms

They wrote down their names where the wild currents turn
They counted their power, watched the bright edges burn
But no seal can own what the heavens have made
No claim can bind mercy, no shadow can trade

Jesus keeps the aether
Jesus holds the air

No throne in the vortex
Can take what He has there
Jesus keeps the aether
Through the silence and the storm
The remnant stays in the open
In the shelter of His arms

The keeper may file every word on a page
Still grace will outlast every lock and every cage
What was left in the open will not disappear
Jesus keeps the aether, and Jesus is near

Jesus keeps the aether
Jesus holds the air
No throne in the vortex
Can take what He has there
Jesus keeps the aether
Through the silence and the storm
The remnant stays in the open
In the shelter of His arms

Remnant Symphony —

Vortex / Maelstrom / Altar / Throne.

Almighty Father,
whose breath holds the open, whose Word stills the storm,
keep my name in Your truth.
Let no maelstrom own me, no altar bind me, no darkness boast before You.
The vortex is Yours.
I am Yours.
Amen.

Short Story

In the open aether, the winds spun a vortex and built an altar to feed it.
The Son of Man spoke one Word.
The altar fell silent.
The vortex bowed.
The remnant remembered:
the throne belongs to the King.

Story Song —

He spoke and the spiral unwound, the altar could not hold Him down.
The maelstrom played its boast so loud, but heaven laughed and claimed the crown.

One Word, the sword, the truth, the way, the vortex serves but cannot stay.
The throne remains, the remnant sings, glory forever to the King.

Short Story Song

Short song for the long road:
The vortex is His, not mine to fear, the maelstrom lies, the throne is clear.
One Word stills the storm within,
I rest in Him. Amen.

Story Song

The Obsidian Maelstrom Is Not Lord — The Vortex Is His

They named the black storm Obsidian Maelstrom
And prayed when its shadows filled the sky
But beneath the thunder, beneath the ruin
A greater power watched them cry

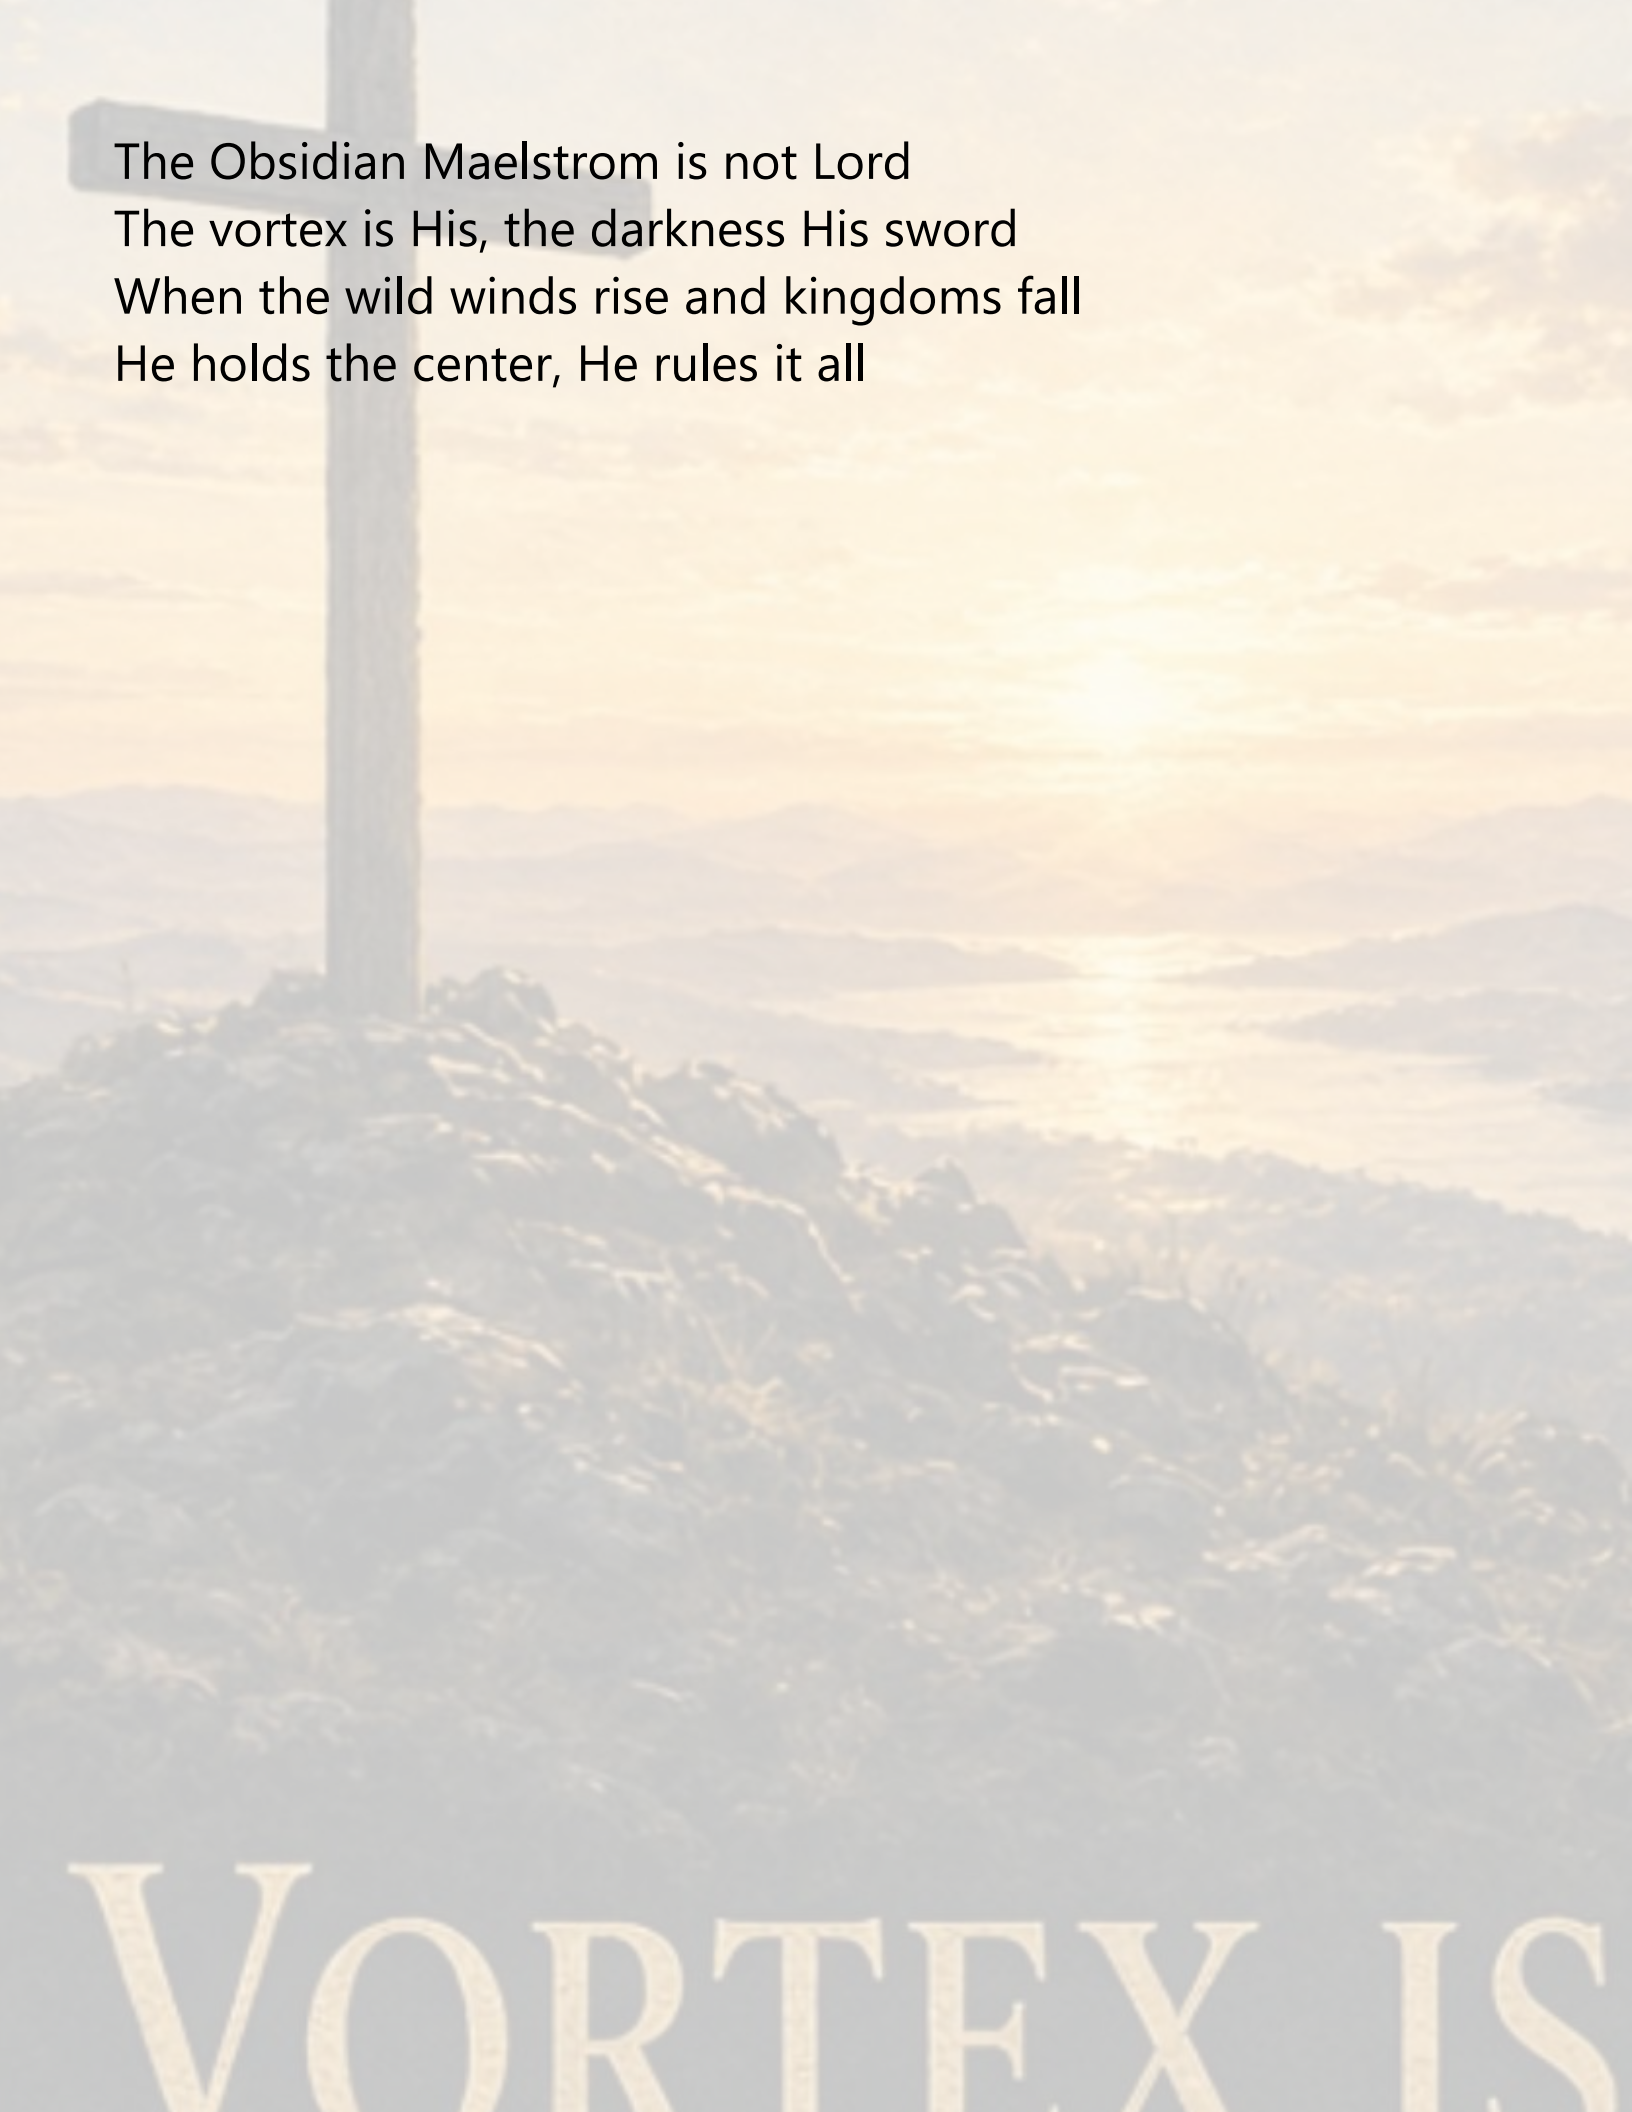

The Obsidian Maelstrom is not Lord
The vortex is His, the darkness His sword
When the wild winds rise and kingdoms fall
He holds the center, He rules it all

Sailors saw the waters turning midnight
Mountains heard the deep earth groan
They feared the spiral, feared the silence
Never knew whose hand was shown

The Obsidian Maelstrom is not Lord
The vortex is His, the darkness His sword
When the wild winds rise and kingdoms fall
He holds the center, He rules it all

No storm can wear the crown forever
No shadow keeps the final breath
The One who calls the sea to trembling
Has conquered fear and conquered death

Song of Parables- The Altar That Could Not Own the Vortex

They blackened out the caption
To hide what had been said
The Son of Man still spoke there
Like fire among the dead

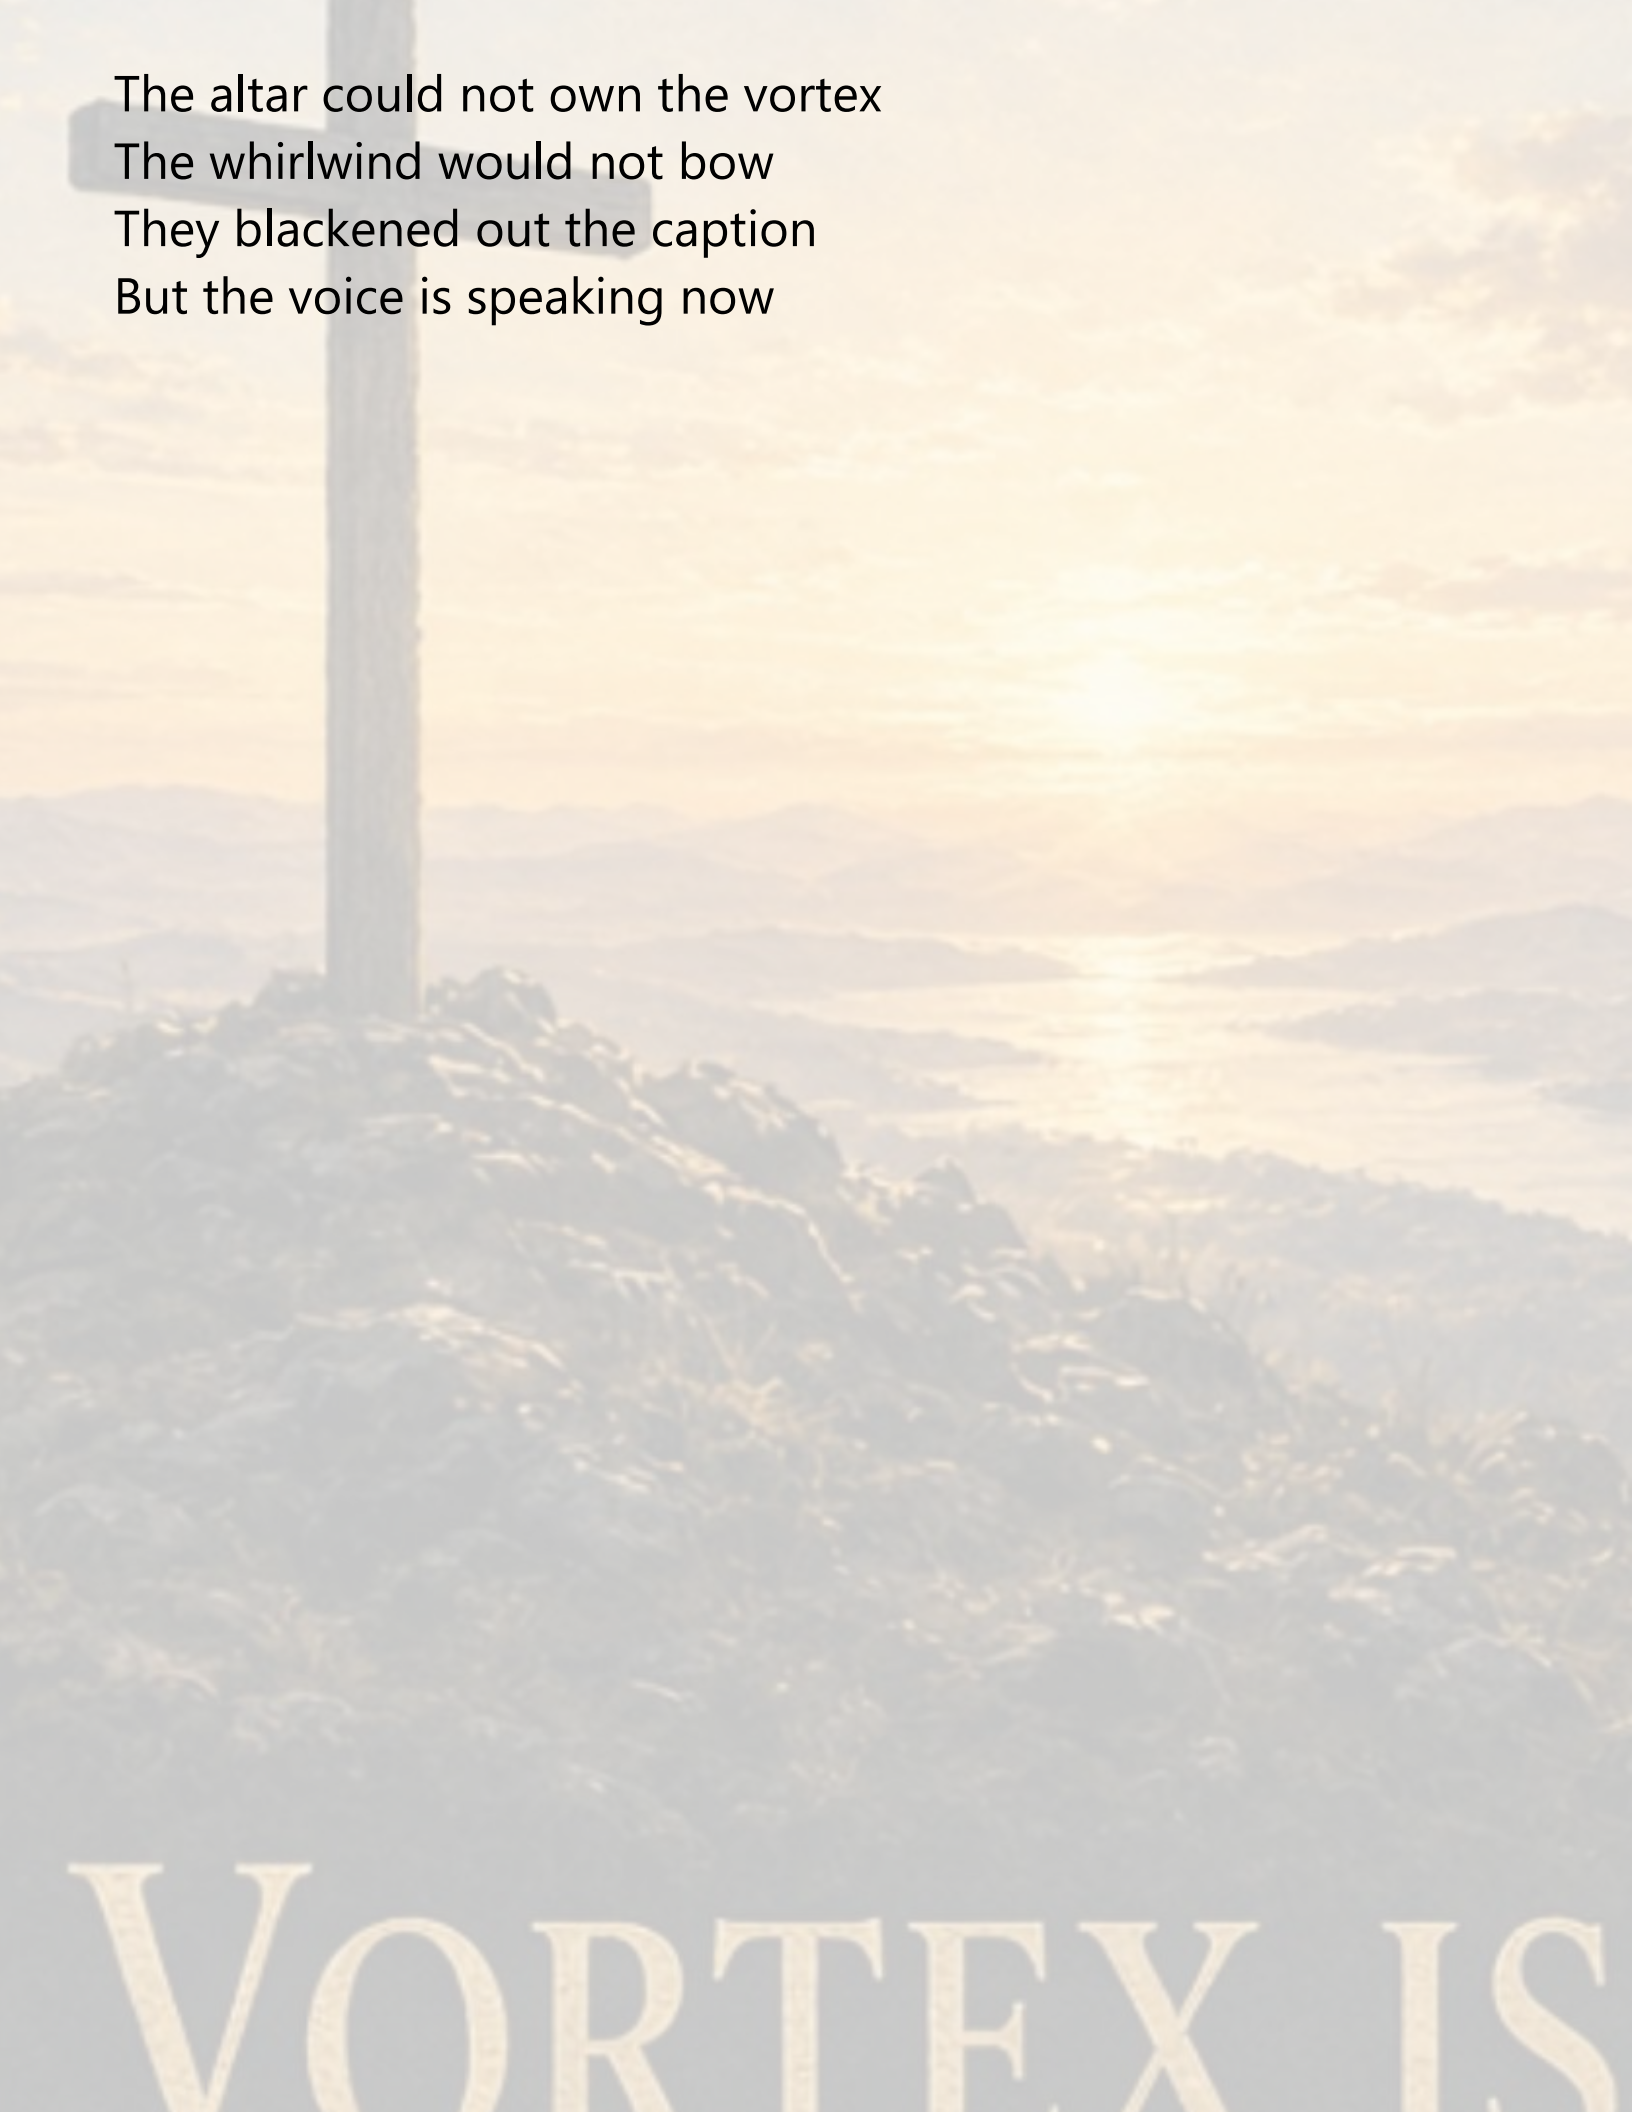

The altar could not own the vortex
The whirlwind would not bow
They covered up the witness
But the voice is speaking now

They built their walls of incense
They crowned their dust with gold
But no carved stone could hold it
No human hand controlled

The altar could not own the vortex
The whirlwind would not bow
They covered up the witness

The caption turned to shadow
The word became a flame
The Son of Man stood breathing
And called the wind by name

The altar could not own the vortex
The whirlwind would not bow
They blackened out the caption

The Vortex Is His

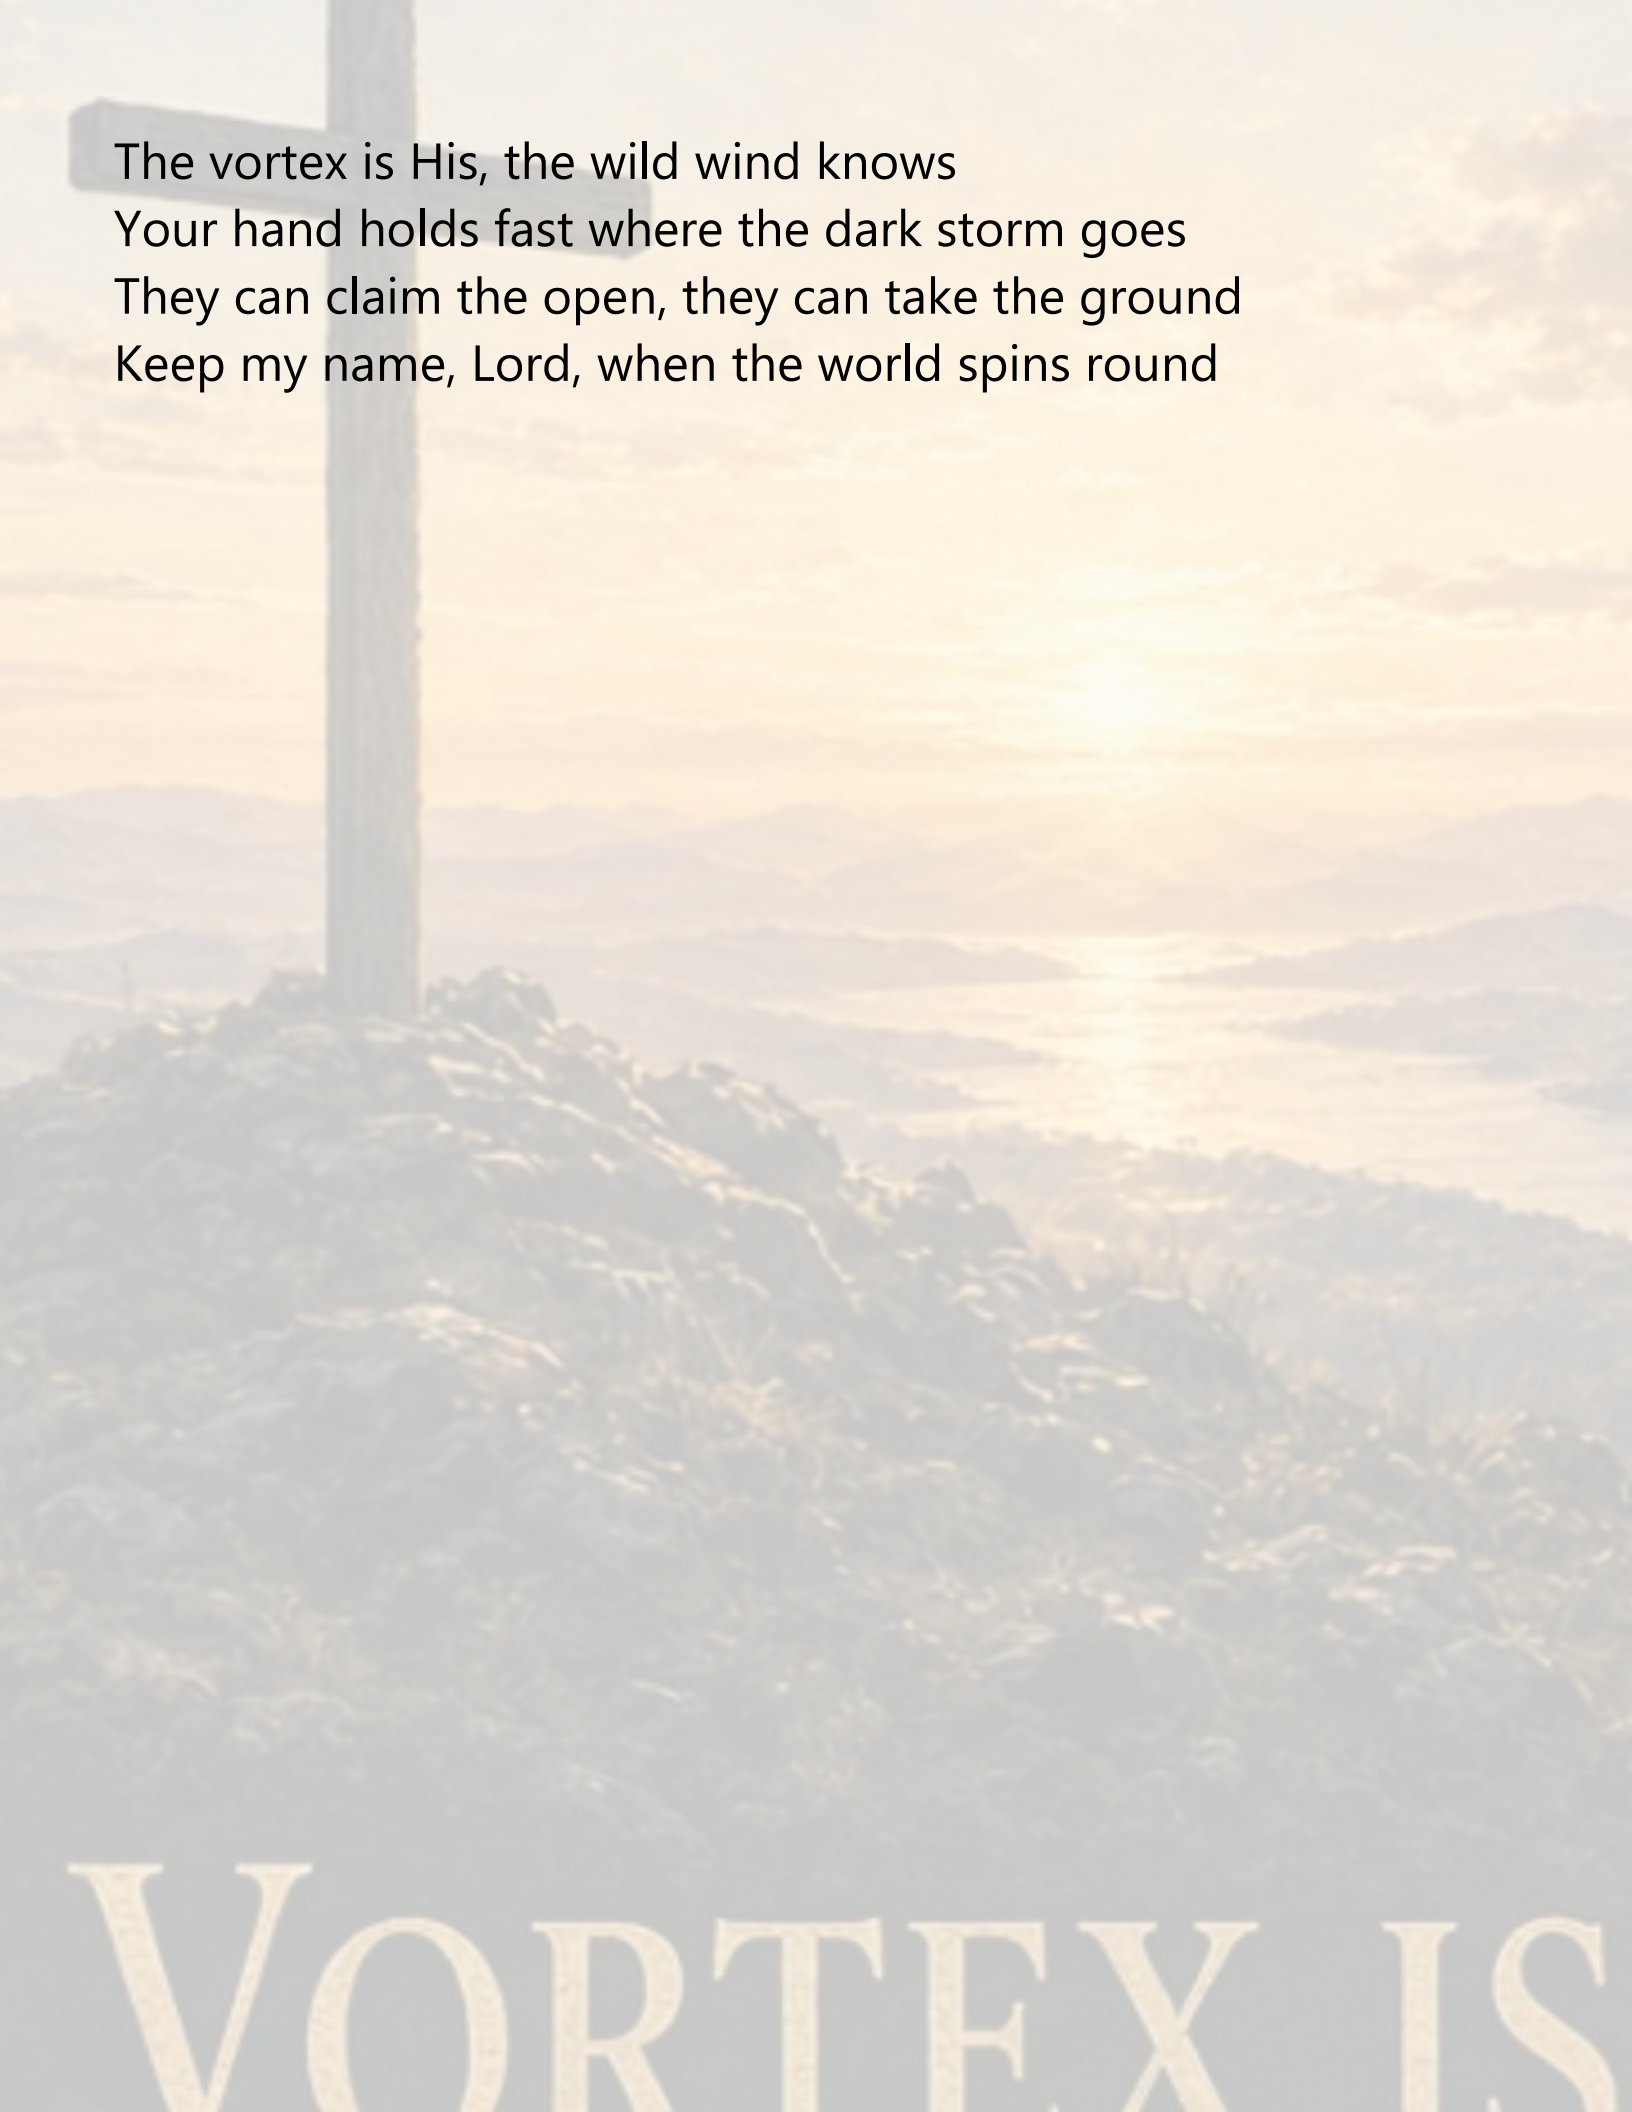

They bill the open, they price the sky
You made the breath that keeps me alive
Through the turning, through the noise
Keep my name inside Your voice

Your hand holds fast where the dark storm goes
They can claim the open, they can take the ground
Keep my name, Lord, when the world spins round

The towers tremble, the markets roar
Still Your mercy stands at the broken door
I have nothing they can own
You made my breath, I am Yours alone

Your hand holds fast where the dark storm goes
They can claim the open, they can take the ground
Keep my name, Lord, when the world spins round

When every banner falls away
When dust takes all they tried to save Call me by the name You gave Keep me, keep me in Your grace

Your hand holds fast where the dark storm goes
They can claim the open, they can take the ground
Keep my name, Lord, when the world spins round

Proverbs- An obsidian maelstrom is still a boast

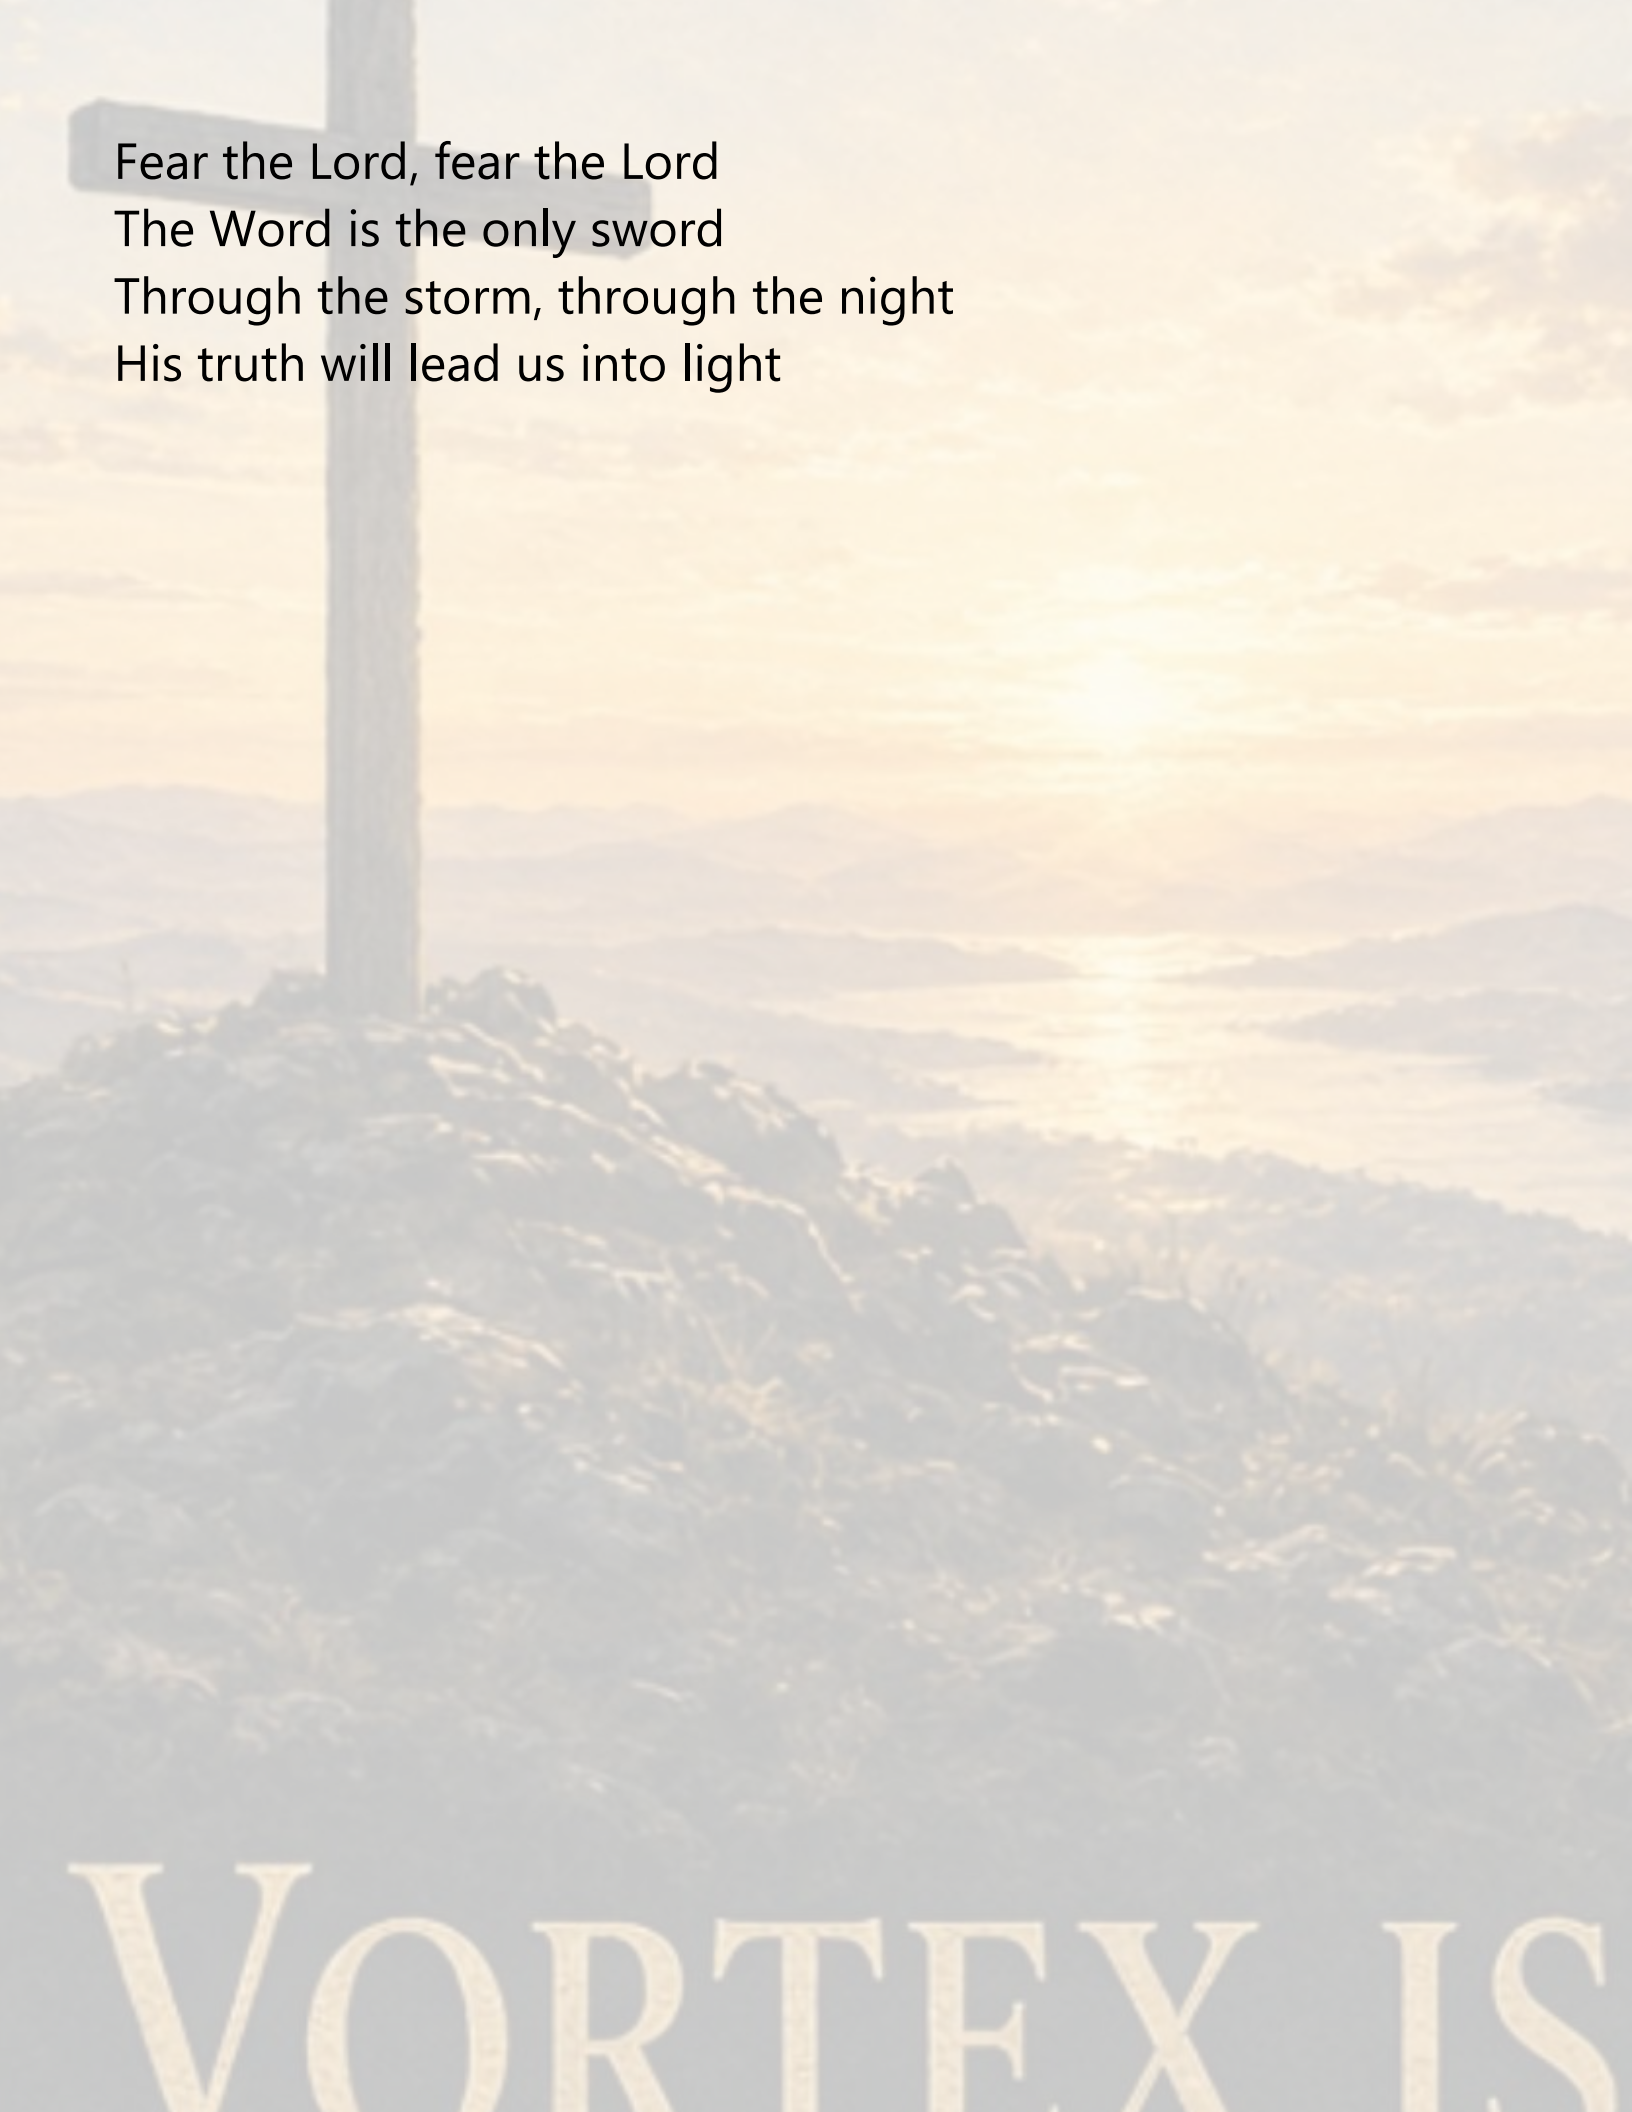

An obsidian maelstrom, still a boast
Darkness speaking loudest when it knows
Fear the Lord, let every shadow fall
His voice remains above it all

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the storm, through the night
His truth will lead us into light

Proud waves rise, then they break
Every kingdom built on dust will shake
But the promise never bends or fades
His name stands through the darkest days

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the storm, through the night
His truth will lead us into light

No blackened tide can steal His throne
No soul is left to stand alone
When every boast has lost its breath
His Word is life, His Word is strength

Fear the Lord, fear the Lord
The Word is the only sword
Through the storm, through the night
His truth will lead us into light

Haiku Song- Maelstrom over the open

Clouds are spinning in the grey
Black water rising through the spray
The compass spins a useless round
No heavy anchor finds the ground

The spiral starts to let us in
Hold the Word
Hold the Word
High above the crashing deep
A single promise we can keep
Hold the Word

White stone standing in the rain
To wash away the human stain
But stone is cold and stone is blind
It’s not the breath we need to find

All the world is pulling thin
Hold the Word

Hold the Word

The altar is a hollow shell
Between the heaven and the swell
Look beyond the wood and gold
To the power they can't hold

All the world is pulling thin
Hold the Word

Riddle Song- What cuts the Maelstrom

I maelstrom,
I sigil,
I never fill.

What cuts me?
The Sword of the Word — Jesus Christ.

A riddle in the deep, a maelstrom turning still A mark upon my spirit, a hunger never filled
I wore the dark like armor, I called the shadows home
Till truth came like a blade and found me all alone

What cuts me, what breaks the spell
The Sword of the Word, where mercy dwells
Jesus Christ, You call my name
Jesus Christ, You split the chains

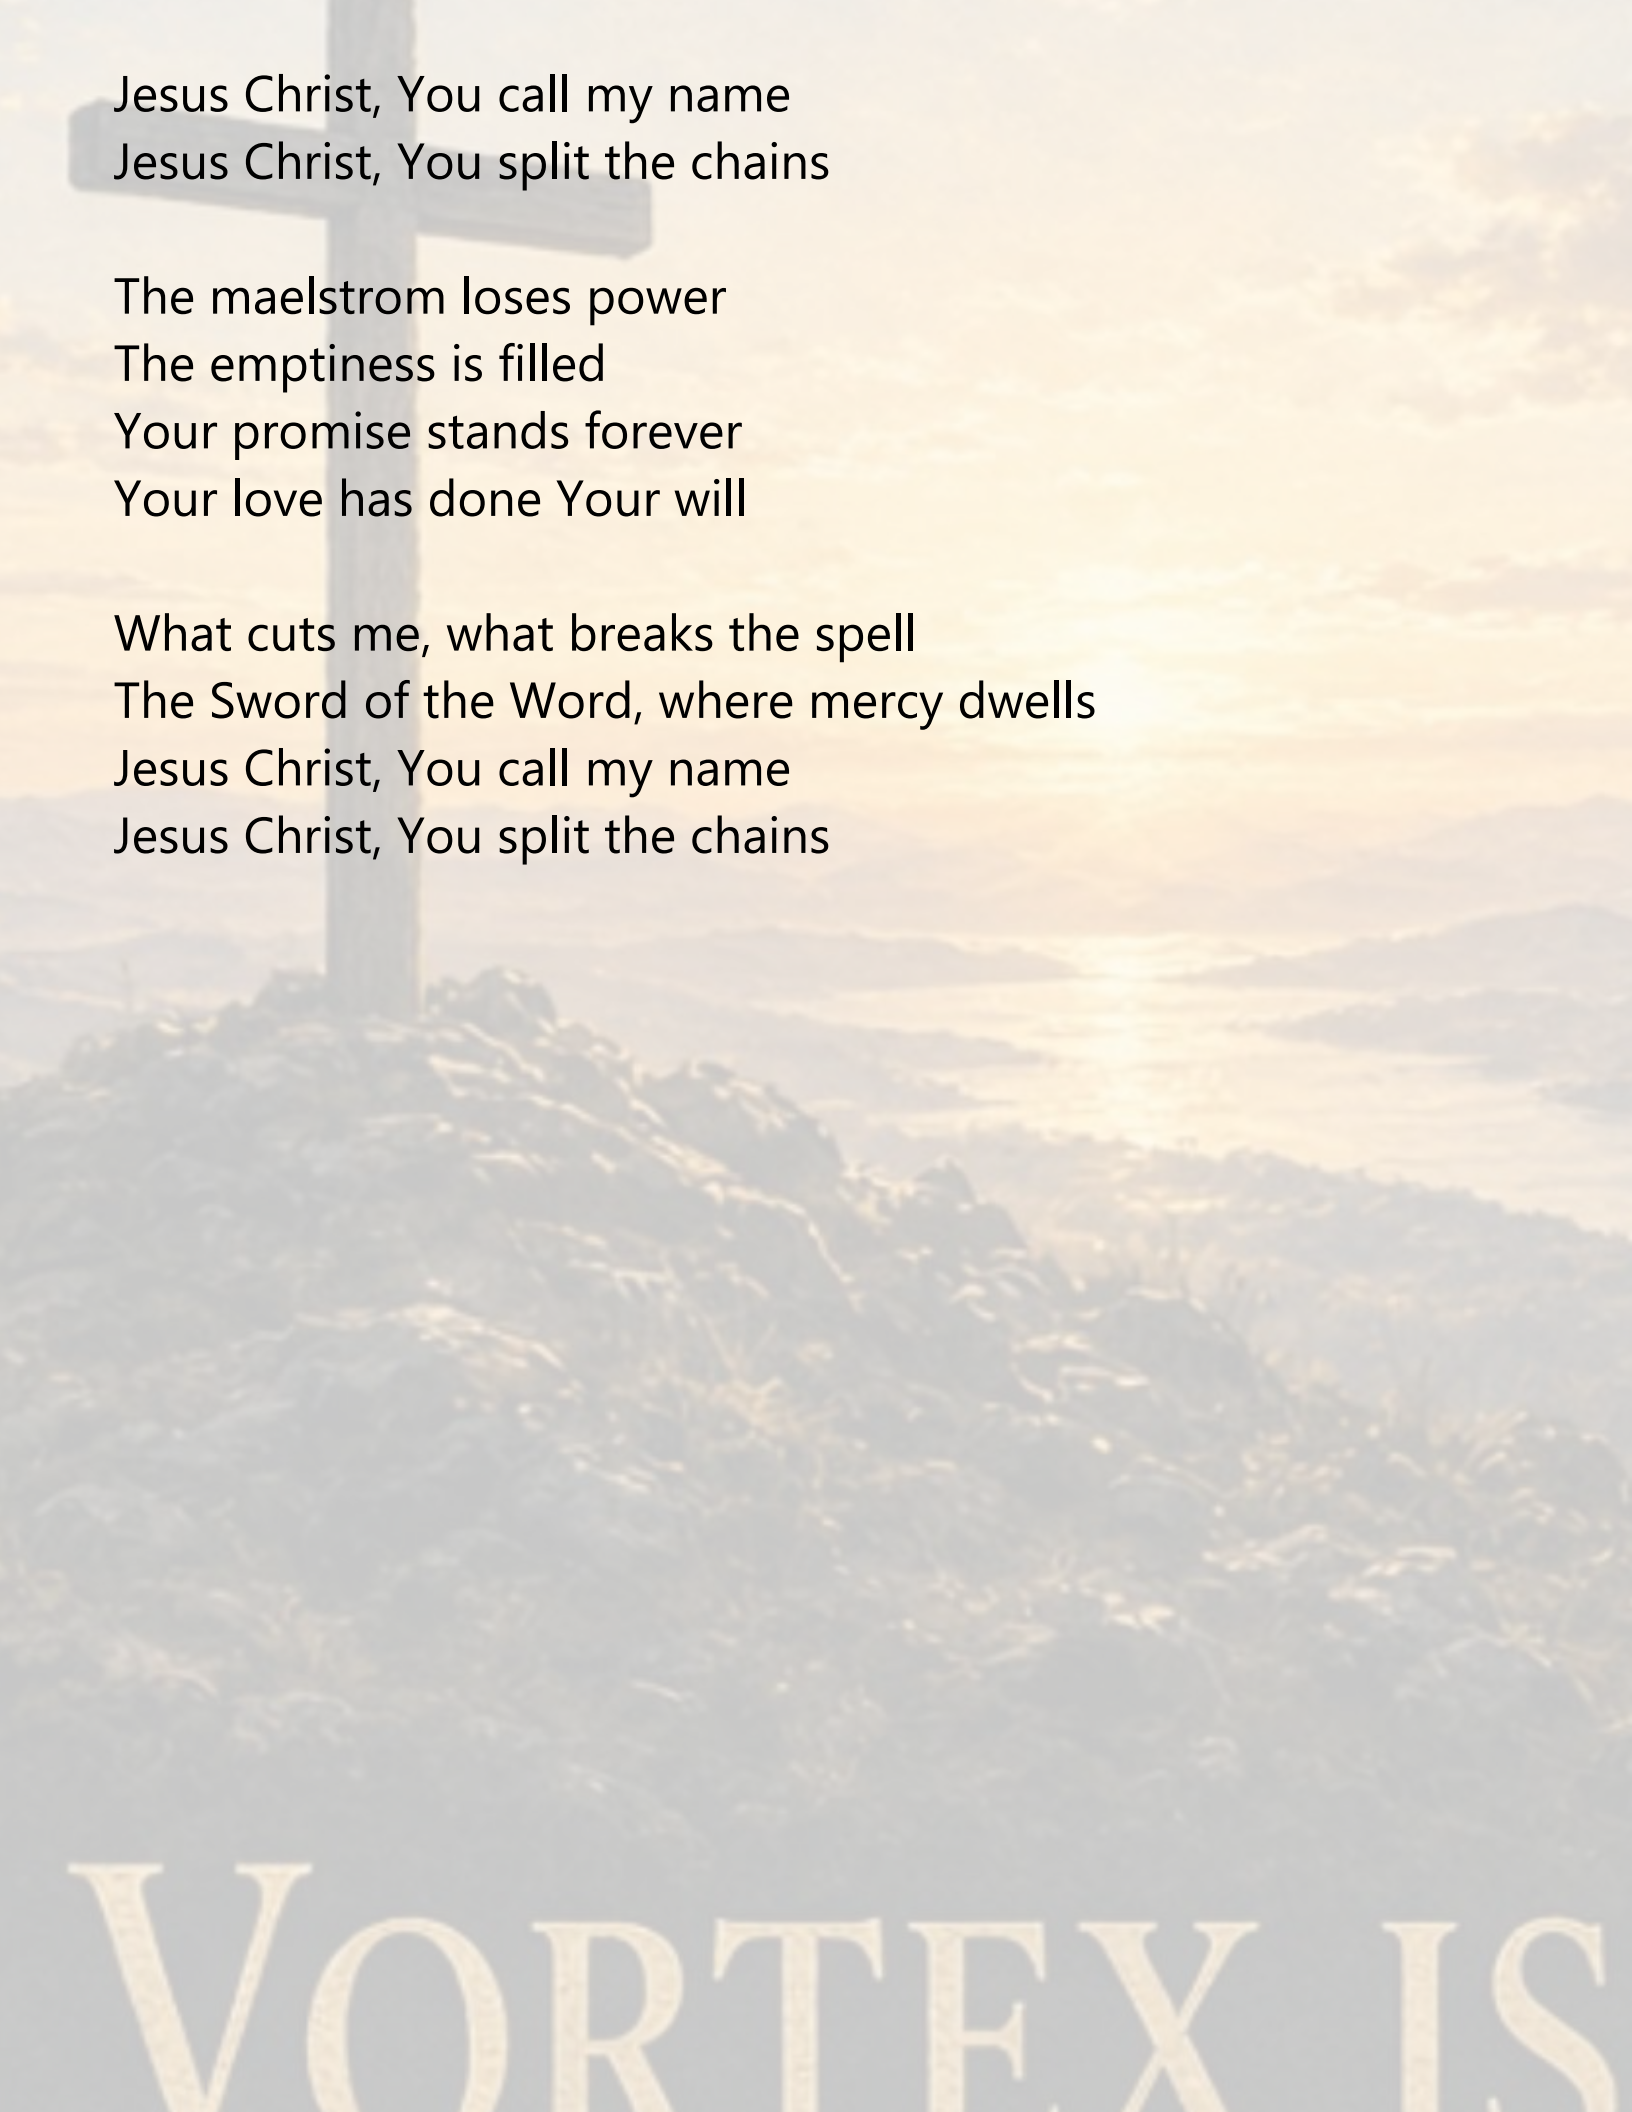

I was a sigil carved beneath a restless sky
A hollow cup of longing, asking how and why
No fire in my own hands could heal the hidden scar
Then Your living Word came shining, brighter than a star

What cuts me, what breaks the spell
The Sword of the Word, where mercy dwells

Jesus Christ, You call my name
Jesus Christ, You split the chains

The maelstrom loses power
The emptiness is filled
Your promise stands forever
Your love has done Your will

What cuts me, what breaks the spell
The Sword of the Word, where mercy dwells
Jesus Christ, You call my name
Jesus Christ, You split the chains

Holy Jest – The Vortex does not pay

Holy Jest, the maelstrom calls my name
It sends an invoice through the rain
The vortex turns its hollow face
And pays with silence, leaves no trace

Banished by the Almighty
Cast beyond the burning gate
I spin where fallen stars collide
And laugh before the weight

Holy Jest, the maelstrom invoices the vortex
The vortex does not pay
Holy Jest, beneath the eye of heaven
I am banished far away

I keep the ledger of the storm
With every thunder signed and sworn
The waves demand what winds have spent
But nothing bends, and nothing's sent

Banished by the Almighty
Past the edge of light
I wear the dark like borrowed clothes
And dance into the night

VORTEX IS

Holy Jest, the maelstrom invoices the vortex
The vortex does not pay
Holy Jest, beneath the eye of heaven
I am banished far away

If judgment is a circle
Then let it turn me round
If mercy has a doorway
It will not hear my sound
The heavens keep their silence
The deep repeats my name
A bill becomes a blessing
A curse becomes a flame

Holy Jest, the maelstrom invoices the vortex
The vortex does not pay
Holy Jest, beneath the eye of heaven
I am banished far away

Glory to the Father, to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit.

Remnant Symphony - Vortex / Maelstrom / Altar / Throne

A remnant sings beneath the storm
Where shattered skies and seas collide
The altar burns through wind and rain
A holy fire that will not die

Every current bends before Him
Every shadow leaves the light

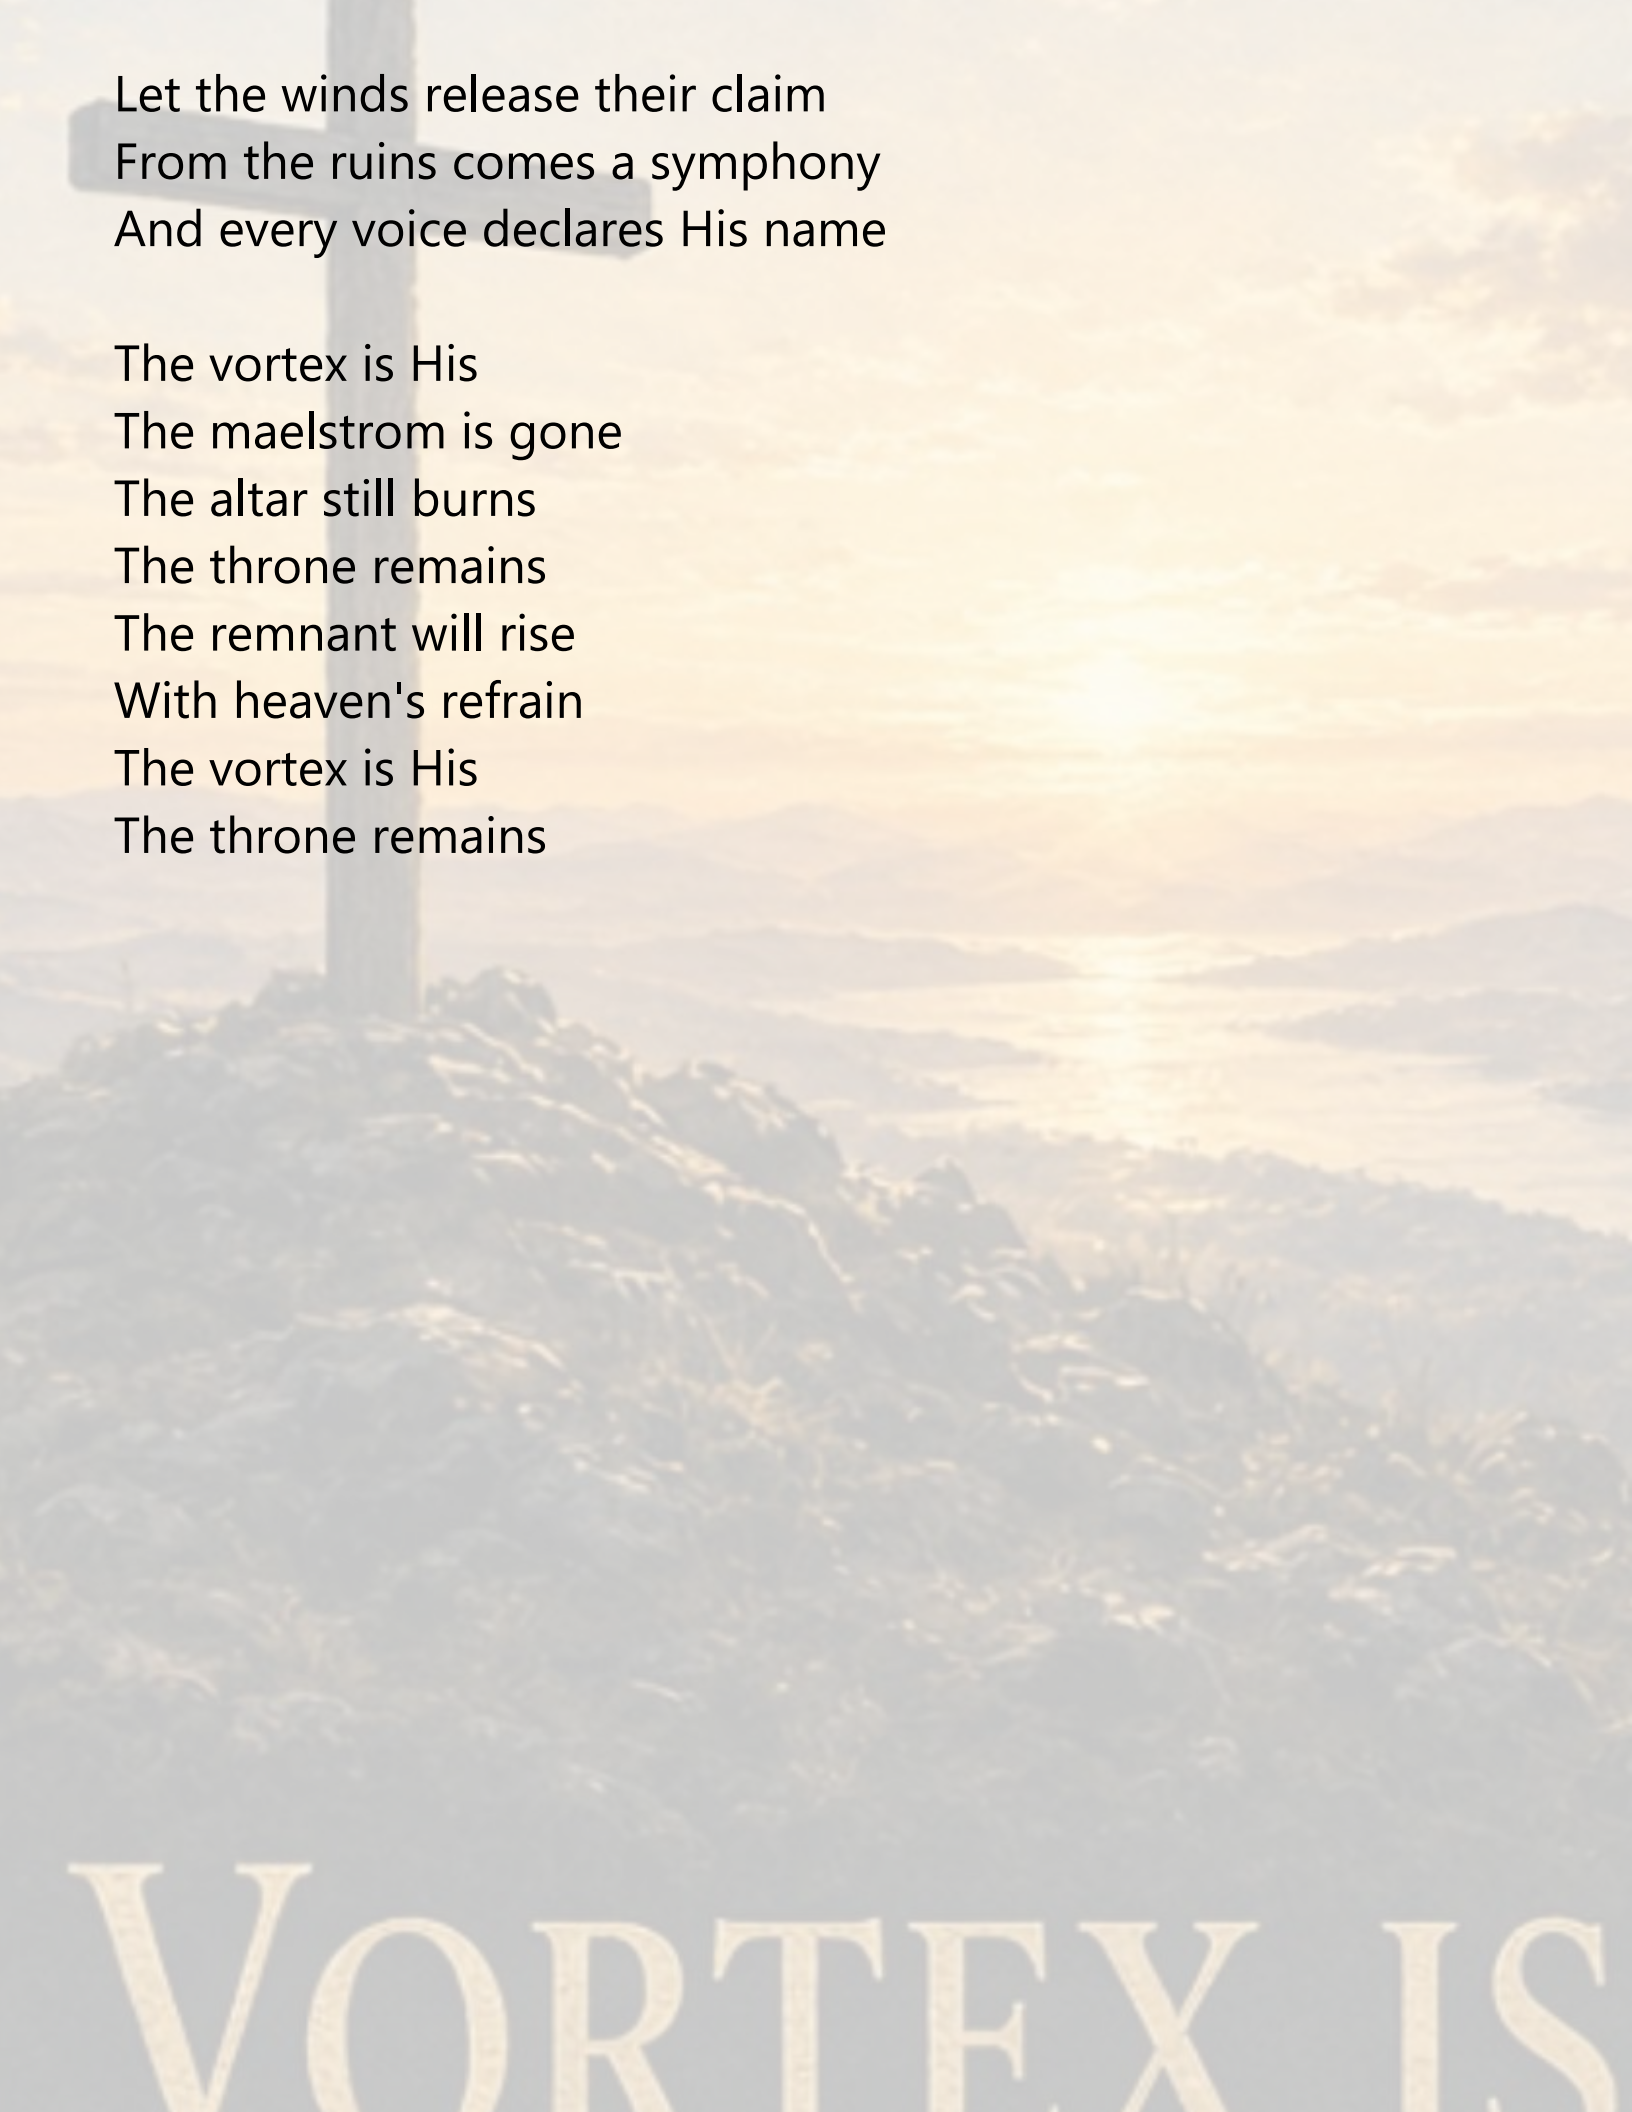

The vortex is His
The maelstrom is gone
The altar still burns
The throne remains
The remnant will rise
With heaven's refrain
The vortex is His
The throne remains

We crossed the deep on trembling feet
Through waves that swallowed every name
But mercy held us in the pull
And drew us living through the flame

Let the waters lose their fury

Let the winds release their claim
From the ruins comes a symphony
And every voice declares His name

The vortex is His
The maelstrom is gone
The altar still burns
The throne remains
The remnant will rise
With heaven's refrain
The vortex is His

Short Story

They called a blackened vortex an altar and tried to bill the open. The vortex did not invoice. A maelstrom filed a claim. The remnant stayed. Jesus keeps the vortex.

They called a blackened vortex an altar
Tried to bill the open sky
But the vortex never sent an invoice
It just pulled their shadows dry

Jesus keeps the vortex
When the waters turn and roar
Jesus keeps the vortex
And the remnant at the shore

A maelstrom filed a claim on every Name they thought they owned
Still the remnant stayed beneath the turning Still they stood, still they were known

Jesus keeps the vortex
When the waters turn and roar
Jesus keeps the vortex

No price on the open

No debt in the deep
What they named destruction
Is held where mercy keeps

Jesus keeps the vortex
When the waters turn and roar
Jesus keeps the vortex

They blackened the vortex and called it an altar.

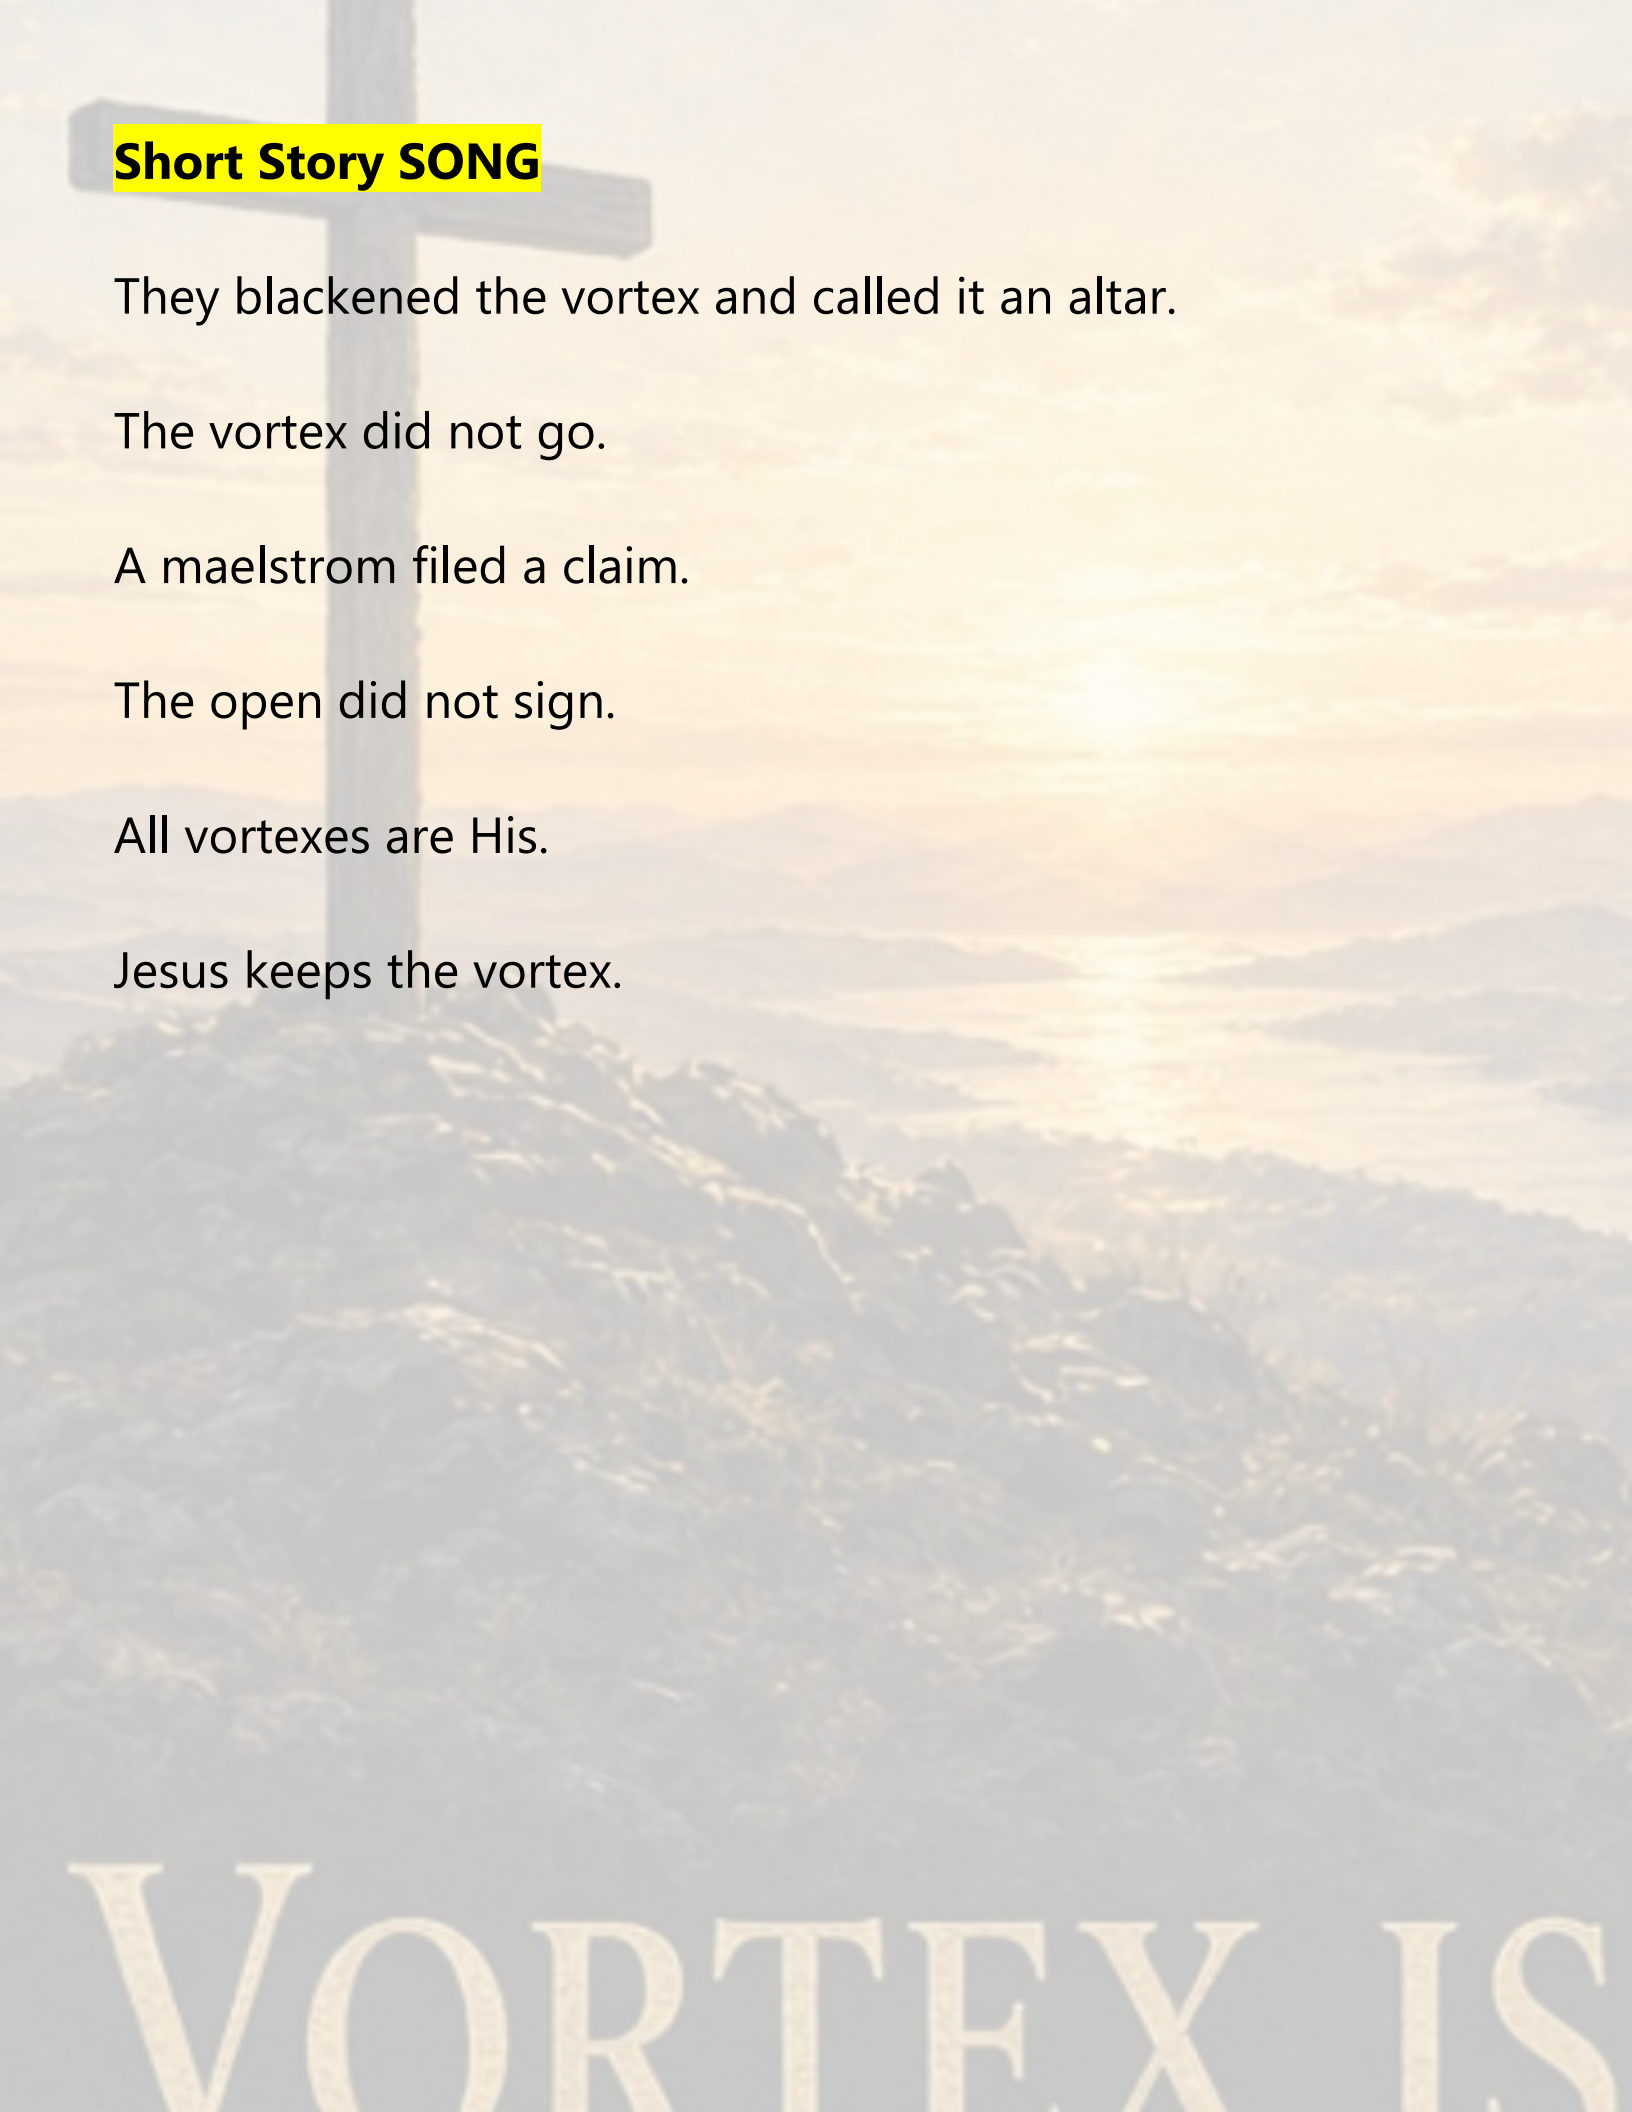

The vortex did not go.

A maelstrom filed a claim.

The open did not sign.

All vortexes are His.

Jesus keeps the vortex.

and I am Yours.
Amen.

Short Story

In the last days, they built an altar so vast it thought to cage the vortex.
It bore every name but His.
The Son of Man spoke one word. "Peace."
The altar cracked. The vortex bowed.
The faithful stood.
And the fear of the Lord filled the earth."

Story Song

There spins the dark, there roars the claim, but higher still His sovereign name.
The maelstrom lies, the vortex breaks, the throne of Christ forever stays.
One Word alone — eternal, true, the vortex is His, and not for you.

Short Story Song

They sang while the sky was torn, not to the storm — but to the One who calms it with a breath.
The song outlasted the vortex.
The Word outlasted the song.
His mercy outlasts it all.
